MINOR LEAGUERS CAN SEE NO OBSTACLE TO RESUMING BASEBALL

Annual Meeting of National Association at Peoria Takes Steps to Reconstruct the Little Fellows; Secretary Farrell's Annual Report Is Interesting in Relation to the Business of Baseball.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 12.—(U. S. S.)—With world-peace assured the members of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs took preliminary steps at their annual meeting here today toward plans for the reconstruction of the minor leagues.

The war dealt the minor leagues a terrific body blow, but their organization has remained intact. Though changes in the ownership of franchises here and there and possibly a few changes in territory boundaries, which will make for more compact circuits, will be necessary, the minors see no great obstacles in the way of making a new start during the coming summer.

The feature of today's program was the reading of the annual report by Secretary John H. Farrell. The report shows the effect of war on the minors, who boasted some 50 leagues two years ago. Interesting details of the report follow:

Thirteen leagues, embracing 92 cities and towns in the United States and Canada, qualified for membership in 1918.

Ten leagues, embracing 65 cities and towns, and employing 1445 players, started the 1918 playing season.

Nine went half way. More than one-half of their respective schedules.

The new International league was the only minor league to play out its schedule (til September 1.

Only 31 players were drafted by the major leagues, 149 by the National and 3 by the American league.

The amount due for drafted players is $23,400.

The National association clubs paid out $13,825 between themselves for the purchase of players.

Forty seven from majors. Seventy-nine players were purchased from major league clubs by optional agreements and outright sales, costing the minors $25,400, as against $10,000 in 1917.

The Clark Griffith bat and ball foundered a total of $901.66 from the new International, the American association and the Eastern leagues.

Racings

DURING the 15 grand circuit of light harness race meetings held recently, 200 races of 291 heats were contested by 1640 horses for purses and stakes aggregating $42,327. Of the total races 148 were for trotters and they attracted 1946 starters, while the 104 races for pacers brought to the starting line 647 contestants.

Hockey Season May Start About Jan. 1

Seattle, Nov. 12.—(U. S. S.)—Today it seems certain that hockey again will be the king of sports this winter. It is expected the season will open about January 1, according to President Frank Patrick of the Pacific Coast Hockey association. A meeting of the directors of the association will be held next week to make arrangements for the season.

A report from the East says Harry Holmes, Seattle's star goalie, will be in the game here again this winter.

Football Star Wins Promotion on Field

Jimmy Braden, former Washington and Jefferson football and track star, was recently promoted from second to first lieutenant of heavy artillery, following his remaining in a position heavily and dangerously covered by German artillery and infantry fire, that he might direct the fire of his own battery.

Unlike Willard and other "boxers" whose business forbids taking chances of pulling crowns to help the war effort, Braden, a light-weight champion, has notified the United War Work campaign that he is willing to take on any aspirant for his crown for the benefit of the fund. Benny's sporting instincts are deeply admired by pugilistic followers. His opponent will be picked from the following trio: "Irish" Patsy Oline, Johnny Dundee and Charley White.

H. M. S. Britannia Is Sunk by Submarine

London, Nov. 12.—The admiralty announces that H. M. S. Britannia was torpedoed and sunk at the western entrance of the Straits of Gibraltar on the morning of November 9 (Saturday).

This nine-officers and 673 men of other ranks were saved.

The Britannia was a battleship of nearly 17,000 tons. She was built in 1904. Her normal complement was 780 officers and men, which would indicate that only a few were lost.

LEWIS TO PLAY "M" SATURDAY

American Lakers Will Meet Club Team on Multnomah Field; Marines' Game Canceled.

MULTNOMAH Amateur Athletic club football players will line-up against the crack Thirteenth Division team of Camp Lewis on the "Winged M" field next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will meet the famous Mare Island Marines a week later.

Arrangements to have the American Lake aggregation appear here Saturday were completed by Manager George Bertz of the club eleven after the announcement by Mayor Baker that the influenza ban would be lifted.

Captain T. B. Cook, athletic director of Camp Lewis, Lieutenant Mallum, manager of the team, and 23 footballers will arrive in Portland Friday night.

The game at the "Winged M" field was practically clinched when the effort lifting the ban was issued. Efforts to line-up a game with the University of Washington in case the club travel could not make arrangements to battle the soldiers failed.

Won Its First Game. The Camp Lewis aggregation has a 7 to 0 victory over the Multnomah eleven.

The "Winged M" players are confident of turning the tables on the soldiers. Captain Tom Louttit put the players through a long workout Monday afternoon and has ordered the players to report for practice tonight, Wednesday and Thursday.

Among the players on the Camp Lewis team, who are well known in Portland, are Elmer Leader, who played with Multnomah during the 1917 and 1918 seasons; Lyle Bigbee, former University of Oregon star; Ray Selph, ex-O. A. C. center and all-Pacific Coast pivot man during the 1917 season.

Contract Is Signed. Captain Lynn B. Covert, athletic director of the Mare Island Marines, who is recovering from an attack of influenza, called for the appearance of the Mare Island Marines here a week from Saturday afternoon. This contest promises to be the biggest gridiron contest of the local season.

The team is composed of Northwestern players, seven of whom were members of the Washington State college eleven. Carl Lodell, who was elected captain of the team, is a former season. Jake Risley and Bill Steers, former Oregon stars, are also with the Marines.

Bill Dietz Is Coaching. "Lonestar" Dietz, who coached the Washington State college team to the championship of the Pacific Coast in 1915 and 1917, is tutoring the Marines. Dietz is of the opinion that there is a dark, dire plot on foot against the Marines from the south. He says the California colleges refuse to meet his huskies, and take advantage of every opportunity to postpone games.

The coming of the Marines is looked forward to by all followers of the game. The Marines will play Camp Lewis today at Tacoma. They will meet the Navy team at Bremerton Saturday, November 30, and will play again in Portland December 7 against the Vancouver Barracks team. Arrangements for the Christmas game are being pending a meeting of the board of directors of the Multnomah club.

Captain Covert of the Marines will be able to gear around and meet the coming of the "teufelhunden."

Home Canning of Foods Encouraged

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Nov. 12.—Home canned foods will be neither taxed nor confined by the United States government, writes O. H. Benson, in charge of girls' and boys' club work, to Orlando D. Center, director of the college extension. Mr. Benson further says that the government wants every family to can and use as much home grown and seasonal food as possible. The letter was prompted by the "unfounded and malicious rumor" that the government would requitation much of the home products but put a special war tax on the remainder.

The populations of Tyrol and Vorarlberg, the westernmost part of Austria, have appealed to the Swiss federal council to send food.

Preacher-Boxer Is Winner Wedge Knocks Kid "Tube"

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Did you ever see a guy down and hear the one-two-three-four of the referee get up to nine, when suddenly up springs the apparently defeated contender and, somehow, which is too much for his nearly glowing opponent?

Down in the far left hand corner of the map which tells what's what in Uncle Sam's domain there's a guy like that. In spite of, the fact that properly enough he puts the title Rev. before his name, we call him a guy—a regular guy. He knocked the fellow in the ring with the six ounces and then the devil in the ring with the long-faced fellow, and then the kaiser as a U. S. A. worker in an army camp, and has just come off victorious in his biggest fight of all, against the biggest opponent—commonly zeled T. B.

Rev. Fred Wedge. By name he is Rev. Frederick Wedge, late of the Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., contingent, U. S. A., and later still of El Paso, Texas, where he was shipped by a bunch of serious-minded soldiers with cheering information that he had quick consumption and that he wouldn't come back.

But the Reverend Wedge, who in his younger days was a welter-weight pug, just didn't like the idea of saying "so long" to this war-started world until he had heard the last ring bell. He had heard and heard the curtain go down on his rusty rollers. In his way of looking it was no time to die—and then, too, he figured to get back at the army camp game to help train the boys to put the punch into the scrap over there.

Crossed Does Up. So he refused to accommodate the doctors and got down to business. He got a job as a brake-man on a freight and became a fighting it for all he was worth. He broke the tuberculosis as before he had broken the guard of his boxing opponent and the struggle of being "straight to the jaw" punches from the pulpit.

He wrote a letter about it yesterday, and one paragraph so-far-fetched much like the stuff a fellow reads in a patent medicine ad—only Wedge backs it up with promise to show that his "tube" cures. He allows as how he is the real purist wonder of the left hand lower corner of the map, and to prove it he will contend with Tommy Murphy, star of the welterweights at "Port Pines."

Will Give Up Secret. "And if you hear of anybody that feels he's about to take the count for old T. B., tell him to write me and I'll detail how I cured myself in six short months," he wrote.

Getting ready for this Murphy fight Wedge is up against it after a fashion, as his duties as a "brake" do not give him much chance to "hit the tube" as is the prescribed method of training. So, being a resourceful chap, Wedge waits until his freight hits an up-grade, then slowing up the wheel and firing, he runs the track for three minutes, taking a rest and running again.

It's Fine Combination. Which is our notion of what might be termed a very effective combination of pugilism, theology, good sportsmanship and common sense.

"And I hope before the scrap is over over there to get in France and help the boys as well soon be doing in some army camp again," says Wedge.

O'CONNELL WILL RESUME CLASSES AT 'WINGED M'

Multnomah Instructor Comes Home From University With End of War.

Eugene, Nov. 12.—E. J. O'Connell, who had a leave of absence from the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club of Portland during the period of the war, and who has been in charge of intramural athletics at the student officers' army corps at the state university, has resigned from his position and will return to the Multnomah club in a few days.

O'Connell had succeeded in placing mass athletics on a substantial basis at the university, and he regrets that the university authorities and students see him leave the university to resume his work at the Multnomah club.

Orthodox in his opinion, O'Connell for his work while here, but stated that he realized the Multnomah club had a prior claim on his services.

Klamath Falls, Nov. 12.—As a result of the car starting to run backward instead of forward, a prominent and wealthy Indian on the Klamath Indian reservation, 40 miles north of here, was drowned at the Williams river church when his car backed into the river.

Wilson, in company with Daniel Weeks and George Crane, two other Indians, made mistake and took the old logging road to the river instead of the route intended and, on discovering their mistake, had turned around to come back. Lieut. Thomas Is To Reclaim Boy Who Is Wounded

Do you know Lieutenant Fred Hall Thomas, medical reserve corps, United States army? Sounds a little strange to the ear, does it not? Yet when you take one of Uncle Sam's first lieutenant uniforms off him and put on a pair of old green trunks, some gym shoes and a set of punching gloves, you have one of the best-known figures in the "boxing ring in front of you—none other than Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion of the world. Lieutenant Thomas enlisted a few months ago as a private in the medical corps and was stationed at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D. C., where he won his commission in reclamation work, and will devote much of his time in the future to putting new spirit and new manes into the soldiers who were wounded in France.

In possession of the Tacoma franchise by grace of the league.

If the California people wish to form an all-Pacific Coast league of eight clubs it is up to them to make the first motion. We shall not take a step backward in the Northwest and will be glad to do anything we can to advance our interests.

The Portland club will be able to put a good ball team in either league, when we get our players back from the war, which, if the turmoil of central Europe abates, should, I imagine, be accomplished in six months. That will give us plenty of time to get a league started next spring if it is decided to start then.

Tacoma Is Back Again. We have four teams in the Northwest—Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, Wash., and Tacoma. We should be pleased to combine with four cities in California to form an eight club coast league, but, naturally, the movement to do so should come from that direction, as it was the California people who dropped Portland.

Tacoma was given the Aberdeen franchise at our meeting recently in Astoria. It seems that there were some claims against Aberdeen resulting from failure to pay salaries when that town was in the old Southwestern Washington league. A claim was put in to Secretary Farrell for the amount, and inasmuch as the present Pacific Coast International league figured that it could not do so should come from that direction, as it was the California people who dropped Portland.
