STANDARD WAGES URGED FOR WOMEN

Federal Director Says Post-Bellum Industry Should Be Adjusted With View to Justice.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Employment of women in industry will increase, rather than decrease, during the readjustment period, according to Miss May Van Kleeck, director of the women in industry service of the department of labor.

It is time to establish wages on the basis of the occupation, and not on the basis of sex, she said, warning of the danger of women remaining in the industries or placed in new ones on a lower wage scale than in paid men.

Miss Van Kleeck also urged the immediate withdrawal from industry of children less than 15 years old.

The bureau is conducting a "back-to-school" campaign, designated to bring back into school thousands of children who have entered industry under the pressure of war.

Children as young as 5 years have been found working, the bureau states; and many instances have been reported to it of employment of children less than 15 years old more than eight hours a day.

The bureau is conducting its campaign through local child welfare committees, the Council on National Defense, the employment service of the department of labor and the boys' working reserve.

TO RATION MATERIALS IS BRITISH PROPOSAL

London, Oct. 25.—(By Mail.)—(I. N. S.)—Rationing of raw materials for a time after the war, on a basis of national interest, which give the greatest employment for workers is recommended by a committee headed by Sir Henry Birchenough.

While the report states that it is believed to be essential that long-term transactions be bridged, the opinion is expressed that, with the demands to be made upon us from abroad, prices should not decline to a pre-war basis.
