Rose City Club To Step This Evening

Portland's Oldest Dancing Club to Enjoy Second of Series of Parties.

A LARGE number of Portland's most representative people will assemble this evening at Christensen's hall for the second of the series of dancing parties scheduled for this season by the Rose City Dancing Club. As this club is one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the city, its membership includes many of Portland's best known people, and the affair promises to be a brilliant occasion. Robert Irwin is president of the club, with Robert Krohn as vice president and Henry Hayek secretary. Elaborate plans have been made for this evening's party and about 150 couples are expected to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Wheelwright had as their dinner guests last evening Mrs. John Griffith Edwards and K. Kumasaki, who is known to Portland as former Japanese consul and who has just returned from Russia. Mr. Kumasaki left with Mr. and Mrs. Wheelwright for Seattle, where they will sail on the same ship for Japan. After a four months' sojourn in the orient, during which they will go to India. Mr. and Mrs. Wheelwright plan to return to Portland.

Complimenting Mary Elizabeth Dunbar, who will leave soon for California to become the bride of Hans Lencke of Alameda, many delightful functions have been given. Friday night Mrs. J. H. Burke will be hostess for a few of Miss Dunbar's most intimate friends at her home in the Tudor Arms apartments. Miss Edna Stewart entertained Tuesday for Miss Dunbar and Mrs. Wayne Stewart at her home at 652 Clackamas street with a smart bridge tea. A number of girls called during the tea hours to extend their good wishes to Miss Dunbar and to meet Mrs. Stewart, who is a recent bride. Miss Edna Newcomb assisted the hostess at the tea table, which was handsomely adorned with a centerpiece of Richmond roses.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae association will meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. John R. Leach, 4219 East Seventy-second street. The meeting is of especial interest, as it will be followed by a social hour in compliment to Miss Carin Degeermark, who will leave shortly for France to engage in reconstruction work. Miss Degeermark will be remembered in Portland in connection with the municipal playground work last year.

Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot was hostess Tuesday at her home on King street for an informal tea in honor of Mrs. Henry Dickinson, wife of Captain Dickinson, who is stationed at Vancouver barracks.

Mrs. F. R. Mitchell has returned from a sojourn of several months at Seaside. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will occupy their new home at 267 Going street.

The National League for Women's Service will present the pageant of na-

LADYS BROCKWELL, the "face of a thousand expressions." Miss Brockwell's managers say that she has the most expressive face of all persons acting before the camera. Certainly they should know. A good picture face is not necessarily a beautiful face. All beautiful faces are not good picture faces. More important than beauty is the plasticity which directors find developed to a high degree in Miss Brockwell's features.

ations for the last time tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and at 9:30 at the Star theater, where the benefit film, "Crashing Through to Berlin," is being shown. There will be special music and a band concert outside of the theater before each performance.

The lifting of the influenza ban, which will permit the carrying out of plans already made for the annual Thanksgiving sale at the Woman's Exchange, is a matter of deep satisfaction to the women of the social set who are interested in the exchange. An effort is being made this year to present a larger offering than usual through this sale. A large variety of home-made foods will be offered and donations from the members of the board of the exchange will include cakes, plum puddings, which may be kept for Christmas, pastry, cookies, jars of jam and jellies. Salads may be ordered in advance and all the trimmings required to adorn and complete the Thanksgiving menu will be among the goods offered for the sale, which will open on the morning of Tuesday, November 26, and continue until the following evening.

Mrs. John Proctor (Marian Stackpole), who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. G. D. Stackpole, 562 Madison street, for the past few months, will leave on Friday for her home, Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.

Bright Bit of Life at The Heilig

Oscar Figman Leads Company of Singers in "You're in Love."

By S. R. BRIGHT, clean and snappy, with especially strong leads and a chorus running to voice rather than looks, "You're in Love," a musical comedy, opened an end-of-the-week engagement to an appreciative audience at the Heilig last night.

Oscar Figman, though the big laugh in the production, doesn't pretend not to try to garner all of the spotlight and applause, but shares honors with Virginia Wilson, Ben Wells, Elinor McCune, Alice Johnson, and others of the company, all of pleasing voice and personality.

The waltz theme, "You're in Love," is but one of a number of sweet, catchy refrains of the "whitely" kind, and each of the numbers, solo and ensembles, are well presented. Costumes are particularly neat and trim, and the entire production is refreshingly new.

Wells has the main singing role on the men's side of the program and takes care of it in good shape, his "You're in Love" with Miss Wilson and chorus being particularly effective. Mr. Figman was happily received in his "Snatched From the Cradle" number, and Alice Johnson was honored in her "Keep Off the Grass" song. W. H. White offers a good song number in the second of the two acts. Miss McCune, with a sweet, clear voice of wide range, was happily received. Maxson and Brown introduced a particularly clever eccentric dance specialty.

"You're in Love" goes for the rest of the week, with a "Liberty" matinee Saturday.

Stageland

By S. R. (Questions concerning plays and players, stage and screen, submitted to this department, will be answered promptly.)

Nat Goodwin, seen recently in Portland in "Why Marry," sprang some chivalry into his eye, mistaking it for eye lotion, during his Kansas City engagement, and was more or less seriously injured.

And speaking of Goodwin brings to mind the current chatter concerning another off-married couple. Players some, who, according to news from New York, has become permanently estranged from Pauline Frederick. Mack was divorced and soon Mack, having in the meantime become successful as an author-manager as well as an actor, married Miss Frederick. He directed the play "The Big Chance" in the thirty-ninth street theatre. Mrs. Mack is in California to resume her picture studio work.

George Roberts is organizing a company to produce a play called "Bottled Babies." "Baby's Bottle" would sound more familiar.

The No. 1 "Mitty-Koo" show was scheduled to start on tour from Stamford, Conn., November 18.

An Englishman, Harrison Hunter, created the role of the German spy in "Allegiance." Hunter will have the part of another Hun plotter in "By Proxy," opening in New York this week.

"Doughboys," a new play by George V. Hobart, is in rehearsal for presentation in New York about Christmas time.

The price reported set upon his holdings and share by Marc Klaw as a partner of Klaw's partner is $3,000,000.

Local theatre business is not yet at normal, but is gradually recovering from the recent quarantine. Thanksgiving day business is expected to give it the start that will put it "in high" again.

Bed Time Tales

The Beavers Care for the Rescued
WHEN the Beavers had paddled their life boats to shore on Mirror Pond, they helped every little neighbor into the house. You see, the little folks had had an awful fright, and they had had nothing to eat, and their little stomachs were very empty.

When Dick Otter got out of Father Beaver's life boat he said to Benny Mink, who was in the same boat: "Benny Mink, lend me your jack knife."

And Benny Mink said: "What on earth do you want with my jack knife at such a time as this?"

And Dick Otter answered sadly: "Benny, my stomach is so empty that I must take in my belt a few holes. So Benny lent him his jack knife. You know, Benny Mink has a sharper jack knife than any boy you ever saw, for his long, sharp front teeth beat any jack knife in the world. Why? Because he could cut down a little tree with his jack knife while a boy was cutting off a broomstick with his jack knife.

Well, the Beavers finally got every little neighbor to his home, and each one was wrapped up warm in his own bed. And then the Beavers started to get them from out to their own houses. Band so the Mirror Pond were so weak, after their terrible experience in the mire, and after they were almost drowned by the rising water, that they couldn't even walk into their own houses. Band so the Beavers had to carry them in and put them to bed. And the Beavers looked into the pantry to find some food, but they didn't find a bite. Every house was like Mother Hubbard's pantry. You remember that:

"Old Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard to get her poor dog a bone, But when she got there, the cupboard was bare, And so her poor dog had none."

Now, said Father Beaver to Benny Mink and his family: "I will send right over to my house and get a lot of food for your whole family." "Many thanks," replied Benny Mink's father, "but we are so weak that we couldn't digest the food you eat. What food have you in your house that you could bring us." Now you know a big joke is coming about that food.

Mitchell Lewis Is Star of New Play At the Liberty

Mitchell Lewis, remembered by motion picture patrons particularly for his work in "The Barrier," is the star of "Nine Tenth of the Law," the end-of-the-week offering at the Liberty.

The story of "Nine Tenth of the Law" is that of a man who is a trapper, and his wife (Jimmy Maye) when their baby dies. The woman's grief is inconceivable. But the sun shines again when a little boy is kidnapped by "Red" Adair (Reeves Eason) escapes from him and finds the Lenoau hut. Red's effort to regain the boy is frustrated by Lenoau, and he soundly punishes the bad man that he dies soon afterward. On his death Lenoau learns where the boy was stolen from and, despite the love of his wife for the child, he takes him back to the city. The woman, in despondency, contemplates suicide. She is about to jump from a high cliff when Lenoau returns to save her, and the boy is with him. For, instead of being the son of the rich judge from whom he was kidnapped, he is some of the little orphan for whom the judge was searching for a home.

FRATERNAL NOTES

Ivanhoe lodge, Knights of Pythias, held a large attended meeting Tuesday night. Supreme Representative E. D. Curtis made a partial report of his experiences at the supreme lodge, held September 23. O. Wilson of Iola lodge, Dayton, Ohio, one of the most celebrated lodges in the order, made a fraternal speech. W. H. Martin of Trail lodge, British Columbia, and other visitors made short speeches. Grand Chancellor Leslie E. Crouch announced the convening of the Oregon grand lodge in this city December 10, 11 and 12. Sixteen new members were balloted upon. The names of 42 members now serving the flag were read by Thad L. Graves, master of finance.

Portland lodge, A. O. U. W. will have a class to initiate at K. of P. hall Friday night of the first for over six weeks. Preparations are being made for the reception of the Imperial Mosque Shells in annual fanfare December 14. This affair will be attended by a number of visiting shells from afar, and is the seventh degree of the A. O. U. W. exemplified.

Oneonta tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold its annual business meeting on the supreme lodge, held September 23. Some important business will come before the meeting. Some of the great chiefs will be present. There will be plenty of room in the auditorium, W. O. W. hall, 112 East Sixth street, for members and visiting tribesmen.

The quarters of Willamette Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men now in the Eagles' hall at Third and Madison street, shortly to be moved, the hall and building to be turned into other lines of usefulness. The Degree of Pochontas lodge will also be compelled to move.

Pfunder, Ralph Jenkins, William M. Ladd, C. E. S. Wood, Lydell Baker and Dr. Arthur Chance. The women who have solicited the contributions are: Mrs. Lydell Baker, Mrs. Warren Knight, Mrs. Gordon Voorhies, Mrs. James B. Kerr, Mrs. A. C. Emmons, Mrs. Allen Ellsworth, Mrs. M. L. Holbrook, Mrs. C. E. S. Wood, Mrs. Theodore Nicholl, Mrs. Paul Murphy, Mrs. W. C. Seacrest, Mrs. George Willett, Mrs. Alice Mabel Lawrence. The sales force includes Miss Mabel Lawrence, Mrs. A. C. Emmons, Mrs. R. G. Dieck, Mrs. W. C. Emmons, Mrs. Alfred Tucker, Mrs. James B. Kerr, Mrs. George Willett, Mrs. Ralph Jenkins. The general arrangements are in charge of Mrs. S. S. Montague and Mrs. Ambrose Cronin.

The Portland Woman's Research club will resume its 12 o'clock luncheon at the Benson hotel crystal room, Monday, November 25. The speakers will be Fred Lockley, who has recently returned from France, and the Countess of Kingston, who will speak of Ireland's part in the war. Major T. A. Mills will also speak. Music will be furnished by Miss Winifred Forbes, accompanied by Maurice Seitz. Reservations can be secured from Mrs. B. H. Hickox, Taber 791; Mrs. Jessie Bennett, Taber 272; or Mrs. D. M. Watson, Main 3578.

Major Mills will give an address before the Portland Women's club on Friday at the Multnomah hotel, at 3 o'clock. His topic will be "The War for Peace." A splendid musical program will follow, consisting of English, French and Italian songs. The musicians will be some of Portland's best, including Mrs. Rose Courtenay-Reed, Mrs. Robert Corrucci, Mrs. Gabriel Pullin and Stuart McGuire. Lieutenant Everette Foster, who possesses a voice of rare beauty, will sing two patriotic numbers. He is from Denver, Colo. He entered the army as a private. This is an open meeting.

The Portland Woman's club will celebrate the victory in the war on Friday at the Multnomah hotel. Major Mills will give a short talk on "The War for Peace." A musical program will follow. Songs of the allies will be given by Lieutenant Foster and Stuart McGuire for the United States, Mrs. Rose Courtenay-Reed for France, Mrs. Katherine Linton Corrucci for Italy and Mrs. Gabriel Pullin for England. This is the first meeting of the club since the ban has been lifted and will be an open meeting. The program will begin at 2 o'clock.

The auxiliary to the 148th Field artillery will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. J. D. Riley, 458 East Twenty-second street north at 8 o'clock. To the delight of hundreds of Portland mothers, the Red Cross Christmas parcels committee was able to announce this morning from its new headquarters in the Liberty temple that parcels could be sent to soldiers in France by next-of-kin only without a Christmas label, where no label had been received from the soldier. The mailing date for parcels has been extended to November 30.

Those who have failed to receive labels and believe they were mailed to them should apply at Liberty temple immediately. Upon signing a statement that no label had been received, that the signer was the next-of-kin, and that the label, if received, would not be used, a specially printed label will be issued by the Red Cross, entitling the holder to a Christmas carton, which may be filled and mailed. Parcels should be taken to Liberty temple immediately as, if mailing is
