

ALASKA SOCIETY LAUNCHED WITH GOOD PROSPECTS

Aim of Organization Is to Make Portland Welcome Headquarters for Visitors From North.

W. H. DOWNING PRESIDENT

Membership Divided Into Three Classes, Active, Associate and Honorary; Roster Is Signed.

To promote the welfare of Alaskans at home and abroad and to give greater publicity to Alaskan resources and scenic attractions as well as to foster the proposition of making Portland the headquarters of winter visitors from the North to the States and a permanent residential town for ex-Alaskans, a meeting of former residents of Alaska was called Tuesday evening and an organization was formed which is now known as "The Alaska Society of Portland."

The society was inspired by Mrs. Edith Foster Wethered and R. A. Perkins and it aims to make Portland the mecca of Alaskan people and to establish mutual interest between the residents of this city and those of the northern country. Membership is open to both men and women and a large number signed the roster at the opening meeting.

Three Classes of Members
The membership is divided into three classes known as active, associate and honorary members. The active members are those who have spent the required amount of time in Alaska; associate members are those who have immediate relatives in the country or relatives who have resided in Alaska, and honorary members are elected by the society. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: W. H. Downing, president; W. T. Hume, vice president; H. H. Collis, secretary-treasurer; directors, Mrs. E. H. Routledge, R. A. Perkins, Mrs. Dan Campbell, H. E. Wheeler, Mrs. H. N. Ford and J. J. Cotter.

After the business meeting the members had an enjoyable time renewing old acquaintances and reviving old times in the Northland.
The principal speaker of the evening was Judge M. F. Moran, whose home is 300 miles up the Kucuk river which empties into the Arctic ocean. Judge Moran has the distinction of having lived 12 consecutive years north of the Arctic circle without coming "outside." Judge Moran is a fluent speaker and the recital of his judicial experiences with the natives in the far Northland was wonderfully interesting.

Other speakers were W. T. Hume, who was the first city attorney at Nome; Captain J. T. Gray, who is far famed as a pioneer navigator of the Yukon; Judge G. A. Adams, who recently returned to Portland after a continued residence of 21 years in the Northland; and Charles D. Price, who spent 26 years in various camps.

Nuggets Are Introduced
One of the features of the evening was the introduction by Judge Moran of young people, Miss Harriett Ford and Collis Sutherland, who were born in Alaska and whom he characterized as Alaskan nuggets.

There were many old timers among them. Harry Wheeler, who carried the mail for five years between Teller and Camp Prince of Wales, the first western headland at Behring Straits, which is probably the hardest and most dangerous mail route in the world; R. A. Perkins, son of the pioneer founder of the Perkins hotel, who has lived in Alaska 26 years; M. H. DeCourcy, 22 years; T. A. Sutherland, one of the earliest at Dawson and Nome, and Con McNamer, one of the first to mine on the Kuyukuk.

There were also a number of women who had experienced the rigors of the life of the Northland, among them Mrs. H. N. Ford, Mrs. R. L. Bernard, Mrs. T. A. Sutherland, Mrs. M. H. DeCourcy and Mrs. E. S. Routledge.

Many Signs Roster
The following persons signed the roster: W. H. Downing, Mrs. W. H. Downing, W. T. Hume, R. A. Perkins, E. J. Daly, J. J. Cotter, S. D. Martin, E. H. Collis, C. D. Edmonson, Con McNamer, H. E. Wheeler, Judge M. T. Moran, T. A. Sutherland, Mrs. T. A. Sutherland, Collis Sutherland, Mrs. H. N. Ford, Harriett Ford, M. H. DeCourcy, Mrs. M. H. DeCourcy, Judge G. A. Adams, F. Barry, A. McEwing, Mrs. Nellie McEwing, L. A. Sharpe, F. D. Antrim, Tracy K. Hatch, Mrs. R. L. Bernard, Captain F. D. Newcomb, Mr. R. Frey, Mrs. H. R. Frey, P. A. Kennedy, P. B. Cole, Miss Anna Thurlock, Dr. Zuckerman, C. G. Wegman, Mrs. G. A. Von Schrititz, Mrs. C. E. Davis, W. P. Sinnott, John Lofthill, Frank Sickingler, Captain James T. Gray, Virginia Cavana, Mrs. E. S. Routledge, Mrs. A. E. Jackson, Edward Hillery, Mrs. E. G. Butler, Mrs. George E. Benton, W. Lensch, James Sutherland, F. A. Turner, Clarence G. Achison, Edward J. Stoltz, Henry A. Dedman, J. McGoldrick, D. S. Whitfield, D. Smeaton, Josephine Stott, Olaf Olson.

SHEEPMEN ENJOY PROSPEROUS YEAR

Wool and Mutton Sold From Yakima Valley Ranges Yield $3,775,000.

Yakima, Wash., Jan. 13.—While the Washington woolgrowers were in session here last week, some interesting data regarding the value of the industry to Yakima valley was compiled. In Yakima, Benton and Kittitas counties some 50 woolgrowers own about 200,000 sheep, and the increase of the past year, better than 100 per cent, together with some of the old stock, was marketed at the prevailing good prices, and the wool crop sold at the best average figure the industry has ever known.

The railroad shipments show that the 1918 wool crop was 2,230,000 pounds, and while the government took the crop at figures not made known in many instances, it is estimated that the average was slightly above 60 cents, making the returns on wool alone about $1,125,000.

The shipment of mutton has been about 1000 cars. Of this amount, 815 cars, mostly spring lambs, were shipped to Chicago. These sold at an average of $10 per head, and the total return to the growers is around $1,000,000. The railroad figures show that, in addition to these shipments, 820 carloads of sheep were loaded and consigned to other points.

A part of this movement was merely a shifting of bands from summer to winter ranges, but, allowing for this, as most of the shifting is made across country, there still remain more than 600 carloads of mutton shipped to markets of the Northwest and Missouri river points, and these sheep, at prevailing prices, will add another $1,500,000 to returns for the year 1918, making the grand total $3,775,000.

Dublin Lord Mayor Prevented by France From Seeing Wilson

Dublin, Jan. 13.—It developed Sunday that the request of the lord mayor of Dublin for passports to Paris, where he intended personally to invite President Wilson to the Irish capital, was turned down, not by the British foreign office, as had been believed, but by the French foreign office.

When the lord mayor's request was referred to the French authorities, as is the customary procedure, the French ministry's reply is reported to have been: "Friends of Germany are not welcome in France, especially while France is honoring the most friendly president of the most friendly republic."

British Bond Sale Sets New Record

London, Jan. 13.—(Via British Wireless Service)—The sale of National War bonds which will close next Saturday, has been the most stupendous financial success ever conducted. George Sutton of the National War Savings association declared Sunday that the total has now been brought within measurable distance of $1,500,000,000 ($7,500,000,000) and it is hoped to reach $1,600,000,000 before the campaign closes. The previous record held by the fourth Liberty loan in America totaled just under $1,400,000,000 ($7,000,000,000).

German Surrender Dreadnaught Baden

London, Jan. 13.—(Via British Wireless Service)—The German super dreadnaught Baden, which has been surrendered under the terms of the armistice, has arrived at Scapaflow, together with other German war craft which are being turned over. The surrender of the Baden was demanded in place of the Mackensen, which was not near completion. The Baden displaces 27,000 tons and carries eight 18-inch guns. Sixteen more German submarines will leave to surrender to the British. There still remain in German ports 47 submarines which must be given up.

Injured Workman Dies at Hospital

Oscar Carlson, who was injured at the McDougall-Overmire plant Wednesday evening, died Saturday afternoon at St. Vincent's hospital. Death was due to a fractured skull, which he received when the cylinder head blew off and struck him on the head. Carlson did not regain consciousness. The body was removed to the morgue by the coroner. Company authorities are in communication with a brother in the East, who is coming here to arrange for the burial.
