

EXECUTIVES PLAN FIFTH BOND ISSUE

"Victory Loan" to "Finish the Job," Says State Manager Robert E. Smith.

The fifth Liberty loan—granted "Victory loan" as it will be called—which will be as much of a popular loan as any of the four great loans floated during the war, in the opinion of Robert E. Smith, state Liberty loan manager, who has returned from San Francisco where he attended the conference of Liberty loan and War Savings Stamp executives, Friday and Saturday. Others attending the conference, from Portland, were Mr. Kelly Rees, executive secretary of the Women's Liberty Loan organization; C. S. Jackson, state director, and Henry E. Reed, associate director of the War Savings Stamp campaign. The conference was held for the purpose of considering matters in connection with the Liberty loan and War Savings Stamp campaigns.

The amount to be raised in the "Victory" loan will probably be in the neighborhood of $6,000,000, the same as in the fourth loan, according to Mr. Smith, although this remains to be determined, as well as the exact date for launching the campaign. The rate of interest, Mr. Smith believes, will be a shade higher than in former loans, probably 4 1/2 per cent, making the "Victory" loan bonds a better investment than any of the other war bonds.

"This will be the last Liberty loan—and the government expects to make it a popular loan—that is taken by the people generally," Mr. Smith explained. "The slogan of the 'Victory' loan campaign will be, 'let's finish the job,' and the patriotism of the people will be appealed to just as strongly as in former campaigns as the task of winning the war will not be completed until the bills accumulated through the extravagant preparation which made possible the ending of the war in 1918, instead of 1919, have been taken care of. Thousands of American boys have been saved because of this seemingly reckless expenditure of money, and unquestionably the war, with its destruction and devastation, has been shortened many months because of American generosity, and surely no real patriot is going to shirk his part in meeting the bills now that the war is ended—and ended as we wanted it ended."

"The method for figuring the quotas of the new loan as to districts, states, counties, cities and towns will remain unchanged," stated Mr. Smith. "In general, any town can figure its quota right now, and what is more important, every person knows just exactly what the quota will be in order for his town, county and state to go over the top, and we should begin to prepare to meet our individual quotas right now."

"No definite announcement with respect to the details of the loan can be made until the necessary legislation has been enacted by congress. The initial payment of the 'Victory' loan, however, will be 10 per cent and the remaining payments will be scattered over a long period, probably five months. The minimum bond will be $50, the same as in former loans."

The delegates were guests of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon and of Governor James K. Lynch at a banquet in honor of Louis B. Franklin, national director of the war loan organization, who came west from Washington to attend the conference.

Red Cross Carries Aid to Discharged Men at New Office

The Red Cross this morning enlarged the scope of its plan for caring for the discharged soldier by opening a branch office in Liberty temple in charge of Mortimer H. Hartwell, who has just returned from Central officers' training school at Camp Zachary Taylor.

The Red Cross hitherto has met the returned soldier problem through augmented forces in the home service section at the headquarters, 507 Gasco building. While many problems, especially those affecting dependents, probably will continue to be handled at the Gasco building, the aim in the Liberty temple office is to bring the Red Cross to the soldier. In addition, close coordination will be made possible between the United States Employment service and the Red Cross.

But a small percentage of returned soldiers need financial assistance, points out Miss Hanita Friedenthal, who has been active in this phase of the Red Cross work. When financial assistance is required the need is acute.

In many instances when the men have secured employment they need equipment or railroad fares, which will be Mr. Hartwell's aim to arrange for this.

For the first few days Mr. Hartwell will be assisted by R. E. Arne, representing the American National Red Cross.

Red Cross Motor Corps Out After New Members

Almost as busy as a recruiting office in the first days of the war were the headquarters of the Red Cross motor corps Monday at 507 Gasco building when the recruiting campaign to double the membership opened in charge of Miss Maude Ryan.

Both Miss Ryan and Miss Katherine Ryan, commandants, kept busy answering questions concerning hours of duty, uniforms, etc., and in swearing in the new recruits.

Miss Ryan aroused enthusiasm at the members' forum of the chamber of commerce by appealing to members to urge their wives to enroll, and several men volunteered the use of their own cars.

At a recent today Miss Ryan spoke before the Rotary club. Members of the corps will appear at scores of meetings this week, impressing the need of Red Cross work for recruits to keep Red Cross work at its maximum efficiency.

HOW TO SAVE ON SHOES

"Out of curiosity I tried a pair of Neolin Soles," writes W. P. Macartney of St. Louis, "and today, after five months of hard service I fail to notice any real signs of wear on them."

This statement points the way to real economy in shoes. What your shoes cost, by the year, depends largely on how the soles wear and Neolin Soles do wear a very long time. Moreover, they are exceedingly comfortable and waterproof—scientifically made to be exactly the way shoes should be and so worn now by millions.

They are available everywhere on new shoes and for re-soles. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

SYMPHONY CONCERT SEASON OPENS SOON WITH FINE PROSPECT

Generous Patronage of Public Needed to Insure Permanency of High-Class Organization.

An opportunity is presented to all music lovers of the city and to those who feel a wholesome pride in maintaining the high standard of the city's educational offerings, to rally to the support of the Portland Symphony orchestra by securing season tickets for the series of concerts which will begin next week.

Portland's Symphony orchestra has the distinction of being maintained on the most economical basis of any similar organization in the country. The appeal is made to keep this important institution alive as a thing of value educationally and artistically.

The season opens auspiciously with an excellent personnel in the units of the orchestra, which is composed of 55 musicians.

The fact that demobilization permits a larger number of men to offer their services in the orchestra, many of them returned from service, some having been released from other duties which will allow them to resume their music, a most successful season is assured.

Graduates to Hold Exercises After 'Flu' Danger Ends

A compromise regarding school commencement exercises has been effected by postponing the exercises for two or three weeks, at which time it is believed all danger from influenza contagion will have vanished.

Protests of high school graduates and their parents were unavailing against the action of the school board in doing away with the exercises, but when members of the senior class of Washington high school expressed a willingness to wait if they might then hold them, the idea found favor with school officials.

"The principal of Jefferson high school is favorable to this plan," said Acting Superintendent D. A. Groat this morning, "and I believe the other schools will take the same stand. We never intended to deny the graduates entirely the privilege of holding commencement exercises."

While the decision of the school board "postponed indefinitely" commencement exercises, school officials explained the action as being a virtual cancellation of graduation exercises for the term, the graduates to be merely given their diplomas.
