SUSPECT SLAIN BY OFFICER BELIEVED EASTERN BURGL

Man Is Shot by Inspector Tack-Dies Short Time Later.

MORE INFORMATION SOUGHT

Name Believed to Be E. C. Lancaster of Minneapolis, Alias M. McRoberts, Alias J. H. Smith.

While resisting arrest, a man, at present not positively identified but believed to be E. C. Lancaster of Minneapolis, alias M. McRoberts, alias J. H. Smith was shot at 142½ Second street about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Police Inspector J. M. Tackaberry. He died about 45 minutes later on the operating. table at the Emergency hospital.

Lancaster was being placed under arrest outside the office of the Montana Assay office by Tackaberry on suspicion of being a burglar. As soon as Lancaster recognized Tackaberry as an officer he reached in his pocket to draw his revolver. Tackaberry drew first and pushed his revolver into Lancaster's stomach, ordering him to throw up his hands. Lancaster complied. A carpenter, A. C. Thompson of 2861/2 Montgomery street, was working in a near-by office and, hearing the loud talking, ran into the hall.

Lancaster Shows Fight

Tackaberry told Thompson to take his handcuffs and place them on the prisoner's wrists. Thompson started to comly, but while he was trying to open the bracelets," Lancaster brought his hands down on Tackaberry's head, knocking him to the floor. Thompson-was holding a hammer but said he was afraid to strike at Lancaster for fear of hitting Tackaberry. Lancaster turned Tackaberry's wrist and had the muzzle of the gun almost pointing toward Tackaberry, who managed, however, to get the gun pointed toward Lancaster and pull, the trigger. The shot lodged in the right leg and came out below the knee Lancaster then fled down the stairs and Tackaberry fired a second shot, catching him in the left arm. This shot broke his wrist.

Lancaster ran to Alder street and turned east. In front of the Fulton fish market Lancaster stopped as if to take a shot at the pursuing officer and Tackaberry fired twice. One shot entered in the back and another under the left arm. The last shot proved fatal, ac cording to the coroner.

Loot Found in Home

Lancaster spoke but a few words be fore dying. While lying on the side walk he said to Tackaberry, "You got me the first time," meaning that the first shot fired in the hall upstairs took emonstrated with the detectives who vere searching his pockets, when they emoved $115 from a trousers' pocket. The only name he gave before dying was McRoherts. This is one of the names used during the 10 days he is known to have been in Portland.

serted in a local paper found in Lancas-ter's pocket furnished the officers a clue through which they located several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry at Lancaster's house at 117 Lombard

Jewelry May Be From East

None of the rings, watches, costly bric-a-brac, 13 woolen blankets or 17 oriental rugs found at the place are mentioned in the list of local burglaries, so the police are of the opinion that Lancaster is an Eastern burglar, who came to Portland to dispose of his wares. A long list of about $12,000 worth of jewelry recently stolen in Minneapolis has just been received and detectives are now busy trying to determine if anything found in Lancaster's house an swers the description.

Lancaster wore several pieces of clothing which were purchased in Minneapolis and St. Paul. A few of his belongings hore the marks of St. Louis and Kansas City merchants.

Police received the first information about Lancaster from the Montana Assay office, which complained that a man named J. H. Smith of 1909 Stephens street had left a quantity of jewelry to always welcome. be melted down. All settings were missing from the rings. Monday he is said to have returned with a second lot. Two Women Arrested

Lancaster was to return Tuesday, so the police were notified. Inspectors Snow and Tackaberry were placed on the scene, but a few minutes before Laneaster appeared a circuit court subpoena was served on Snow and he had to leave. When Lancaster went to the assay office Tuesday he carried a box filled with broken rings to have melted. From a letter in the man's pocket the police learned that he had resided at 19906 Fifty-seventh avenue Southeast under the name of McRoberts. He is said to have given another address about two blocks away to friends. The police do not know as yet who was writing him letters. Later in the evening Stella Evans, 20 years of age, and Emma Clark. 23. were arrested in a assay office Tuesday he carried a box hotel at Twelfth and Washington streets by Inspectors Tichenor and Mallett by Inspectors Tichenor's and Mallett. They are said to have admitted knowing Lancaster and had been out with him on several social occasions, but disclaimed any knowledge about his for-

Shortly after we went into the bloody action the prisoners began to come to the rear and this officer was ordered to help me carry back the wounded on a stretcher. I told him to keep to the front end of the stretcher and not get behind me. Soon afterwards, however, I caught him making a flank movement, so I gracked his skull with the butt of my gun. I found his photograph in his blouse and brought it home or a souvenir."

FOR SALE—FARMS

THIS will pay for itself in 18 months. Readit carefully. 60 acres of the finest land adjacent to Fortland, most all in high state of cultivation, except 13 acres of very fine timber which cruises over 2000 cords and is worth 35 per cord on the ground. There is a very fine, absolutely new, modern bungslow, worth $4500, barn and several modern chicken houses, worth $2000, water and electric light plants worth $1200; 1860 hens, now laying, worth $2400; 8 tons of hay worth $200; lots of poultry feed, tools and machinery too numerous to mention.
The income last year was as follows: Sold 179,
494 eggs, for $6388.55; hens, potatoss, etc., $820, making a total of $7208.55 from only 1200 hens, and the owner now has 1600 hens.
This place is only 20 miles from Portland, on auto road, near school, and 4 miles from a fine town, and is without a doubt one of the best paying and best improved poultry farms in the Northwest, but the owner is 75 years old and wants to retire, and in order to do so at once is willing to take the sacrifice price of $13.000, % cash. It will pay you to investigate this as the first man who sees it will buy it. Thompson, Swan & Thompson, 3d and
