

WAREHOUSE BINS BULGE WHILE WAR PRICES CONTINUE

Sixty-Six Storage Places in New York Overflowing With Foodstuffs Whose Costs Soar.

BIG INCREASE IN STORAGE

Public Opinion and Legislation Called Upon to Stop Condition and Lower Living Costs.

New York, Jan. 30.—(U. P.)—"Organized labor will rebel at continued high food prices," Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Central Federated Union, declared here today after reviewing stored food statistics.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 30.—(U. P.)—"Sixty-six public warehouses in New York state are overflowing with accumulated foodstuffs today, while retail food prices climb generally to war-time levels."

If those stored supplies were placed on the market the cost of living would toboggan.

Comparison of the quantity of food in storage January 1, 1918, and January 1, 1919, shows a tremendous increase.

New York is one of the food centers of the United States, so conditions in these warehouses may be regarded as typical of conditions in other storage centers.

Fish prices, it was noted, went up rapidly during the last year, while the quantity of fish in storage doubled.

Pressure may be brought to bear, through public opinion or legislation, to place these stored commodities on sale and thus break the cost of living.

Following are the figures as given in reports by warehouse managers to the state department and checked by inspectors. Names of the owners of the goods are not given.

Commodity	In storage Jan. 1, 1918	In storage Jan. 1, 1919
Wheat	6,604,782	9,061,042
Flour	810,400	2,211,000
Barley	2,292,211	2,292,211
Dry salt pork	289,246	936,278
Beef	389,000	1,425,117
Lard and substitutes	94,161	2,445,542
Protein lamb, mutton	1,152,089	2,801,103
Broilers, chickens	1,076,937	3,378,608
Roasters, chickens	3,309,393	9,316,604
Turkeys	998,925	4,419,559

MORGANTHAU WILL ADDRESS LEAGUE

Taft, former president of the United States; Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Frank P. Walsh, former joint chairman of labor board; President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard; Edward A. Filene of Boston, a director in the United States Chamber of Commerce; Philip North Moore of St. Louis, president of the National Women's council; Professor George Stratton Wilson, professor of international law at Harvard; Dr. Charles R. Brown, dean of the school of religion at Yale.

Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner and Judge J. P. Kavanaugh will be the speakers for Oregon at the convention; Dr. Henry Suzzalo, president of the University of Washington, and William Brewster, president of the Washington Federation of Labor, will be speakers for Washington.

The convention will be asked to adopt a resolution expressing its sentiment as to the league of nations proposed by the world peace conference which, with similar expressions from the eight other conventions being held throughout the United States, is expected to help reveal to the United States senate the will of the American people on this great issue.

Congress Halts Huge Appropriation Bill

Washington, Jan. 30.—(U. P.)—"The administration's bill appropriating $1,250,000,000 to pay the government's guaranteed price for 1918 and 1919 wheat was blocked at the doors of congress Wednesday. The measure, as drawn by food administration experts, would fasten upon the country the most inflated food control, not only upon wheat, but upon everything eaten by man or beast, according to Senator Gore, to whom the measure was sent for introduction.

The train now leaving Astoria at 11 p. m. for Fort Stevens, will be withdrawn.

TACKBERRY UPHELD BY CORONER'S JURY FOR KILLING ROBBER

Detective Agency Receives Word Dead Man Was Former Kansas City Policeman.

The coroner's jury exonerated Police Inspector J. M. Tackberry of all blame at the inquest Wednesday into the shooting of Paul Wegman, alias Edward B. Wiggins, alias Paul Wiggins, burglar, who was killed by the officer January 21.

The Pinkerton Detective agency received a telegram Wednesday afternoon from their St. Louis office stating that Ed Wegman, alias E. P. Wiggins, alias Wiggins, was a police officer for many years ago.

The message also stated that at the time of Wegman's escape from the Jefferson City (Mo.) prison, November 7, 1918, he was serving a 25-year term on a charge of burglary.

Mrs. D. W. Summers of 401 Graham avenue said Wednesday that she knew the burglar who was shot by the police at Parsons, Kan. She said his name at that time was Paul Wiggins, and that he made an excellent policeman on account of his fearlessness.

According to Mrs. Summers, Wiggins robbed the general merchandise store of Harry Strausberger of Parsons, Kan., while he was on parole from the state prison. The morning after the robbery, Wiggins is said to have offered a large personal reward for the capture of a thief. Wiggins was arrested a few nights later by his own officers, while climbing up a ladder to a second-story window in an empty house with a gunnysack full of the stolen goods.

At the time of the robbery Mrs. Clifford J. Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Summers, was employed as cashier in the store. Mrs. Taylor is now a bookkeeper in a Salem bank. Wiggins lived in a house he rented from the elder Mrs. Taylor at the time he was chief, said Mrs. Summers.

Exemption From Debt

Salem, Jan. 30.—Automobiles and trucks, used by any person in carrying on his trade or occupation, are exempted from execution for debt in a bill introduced today by the senate judiciary committee. The amount of the exemption is raised from $400 to $1000, while the amount of household furniture exempted is raised from $75 to $1000.

Letters of administration on the estate of Henry C. Ross, who died December 9, were granted by County Judge Tazewell to Alice Myrtle Ross, the widow. The estate was valued in the petition at $2000. Besides the widow, two daughters, Dorothy Jane and Alice May Ross, aged 3 and 5, respectively, were named as the heirs at law.

Christine B. Hume was appointed administratrix of the estate of her mother, Jane C. Harrison, who died January 17, leaving an estate stated to be worth $2700. The heirs at law are Christina B. J. C. and R. J. Hume, the last named of Truckee, Cal., and Margaret L. Bergh and Jessie Buffum, sons and daughters of the deceased.

Oregon Greeters at a meeting held Tuesday night discussed plans for the coming convention of the national association, to be held here in June.

One committee, consisting of F. W. Beach, Charles Q. Van Dyne and Glen Hite, was appointed to cooperate with the ladies' auxiliary. A meeting of the ladies' auxiliary, composed of wives, mothers and sisters of greeters, will be held Thursday night at the Carlton hotel to outline activities.

Another meeting of the Greeters has been called by President C. D. Schreiner for next Tuesday night at the Multnomah. Weekly meetings will be held henceforth.

The convention will be the biggest advertisement Portland has ever had, assert members, who see wonderful possibilities in the vast amount of information hotel men from all parts of the country will carry back to disseminate among their trade. The Hotelmen's association has agreed to donate 300 rooms with baths for the use of visiting Greeters in June.

The project of a scenic highway around Mount Hood, long talked of, but abandoned because of the war, received a new impetus this morning with letters written and mailed by Rufus C. Holman, president, to all members of the Oregon Association of County Judges and Commissioners, urging them to attend a meeting to be held at the courthouse Saturday, February 8.

"I believe," said Mr. Holman in his letter, "that the time has come when plans should be crystallized that work may begin at the earliest possible moment for the purpose of reconstructing the present roads and making such new roads as may be necessary to disseminate a completed highway of the highest class from Portland to Government camp around Mount Hood, by way of the Hood River valley to Hood river."

The proposed road, Mr. Holman states, will approximate 170 miles in length and will pass through a country capable of great agricultural development. The old Wemme toll gate road will be incorporated in the new road and relocated with easy gradients. The only new part, he said, would be the Road of Hood River valley to Government camp, a distance of 20 miles. A government survey of this 20 miles has already been made. The maximum grade as established is 4 per cent.

The project has received the hearty endorsement of Chief United States Forester Henry F. Graves, who accompanied a party conducted around the proposed road by Mr. Holman in 1914.

T. W. Norcroft, assistant engineer of the United States forest service, is expected in the city shortly to meet with the county officials and render assistance in making the proposed loop a reality.

De Young Found Guilty

A verdict of guilty against Ed De Young, alias James Brower, was returned by a jury in Circuit Judge Tucker's court Wednesday. De Young was charged with issuing a forged check for $60. He will be sentenced Saturday morning.

Hazel and Anna Wright, charged with receiving stolen goods, entered a plea of not guilty before Presiding Judge Stapleton.

C. J. Butler, a youth of 19, was arrested this morning by Deputy Constable Guy Tazewell on a charge of uttering a forged check for $24. The check was cashed by J. A. Teaney, a clothing merchant at Kern Park. Butler is held in the county jail in default of $250 bail.

Young Forger Released

Otto Froelich, 21, one of two youths arrested on a district court warrant charging forgery of a check for $10, was released from custody Wednesday after having made good the money and convinced the authorities that he was merely a tool in the hands of W. W. Adams, the youth arrested with him.

Adams is said to have confessed to having passed $90 in forged checks and is now held for action of the grand jury. He is willing, according to Constable Petersen, to plead guilty.

U. S. PLEDGED TO BRING DEAD HOME

Congressman Believes Relatives Would Rather Let Heroes Rest in France if Graves Cared For.

Washington, Jan. 30.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—The government is pledged to bring home from foreign soil the bodies of all soldiers buried there. The time when it will be able to fill this pledge is indefinite and the relatives in a large number of cases, it is thought, will at the last prefer to leave the remains of their loved ones in France if they can be assured that the resting place will be marked and always cared for.

This is the inspiration of the bill introduced by Congressman Fess of Ohio, who proposes the incorporation of an association to establish in France a field of honor. The plan, in brief, is this:

France would be asked to donate several hundred or thousand acres in the most beautiful location that could be found, not too far from the battlefields and not too far from the main lines of travel, where would be brought and buried all the bodies of those whose relatives do not ask their return to this country.

In a hall of records at this place would be preserved the record of each soldier who died in France, whether buried there or not. A chapel would be constructed where occasional services could be held. These buildings, it is suggested, would constitute a permanent and impressive memorial and the grounds could be laid out with a view to artistic beauty.

While the government might be ready to appropriate the money to establish and maintain the "Field of Honor," Mr. Fess believes it would be better to carry out the project by private means, so his plans call for a voluntary association to raise $15,000,000 as an endowment for permanent support. Mr. Fess suggests that the "national cemetery" idea might prevail if the government were in charge, and he believes this should be on different lines.

The government's share, therefore, as he outlines it, is to incorporate and prescribe the purposes of the association, to remove the bodies of the fallen, to furnish records of service and perhaps to keep at the field one or two companies of infantry to act as a guard and a living symbol of the fallen heroes.

This plan, he argues, will provide the "rest and most distinctive memorial" that could be fashioned, and that this disposition of the remains of American heroes will be the end be considered more appropriate than any other, after the lapse of time has assuaged in some degree the sense of loss of the folk at home.
