VINTON HAS PLAN TO PROVIDE WORK FOR SOLDIER BOYS

Proposes Legislature Vote Bonds For New Buildings for State Schools and Institutions.

JUNE ELECTION PROPOSED

President of Senate, Speaking At O. A. C., Suggests Plan to Save Special Session Cost.

Corvallis, Feb. 8.-It will not be necessary to hold a special session of the legislature to solve the reconstruction probem that is now confronting this state, According to a plan advocated by W. T. Vinton, president of the state senate, in an address delivered here this afternoon in connection with the visit of the Ore-gon legislators to the Oregon Agricul-President Vinton proposed, in addition to the big roadbuilding program which now being worked out by the legiselature, an extensive building program for the improvement of the state edu-cational institutions and other state institutions now badly in need of additional or new buildings. To finance this program President Vinton advocated that the legislature at its present session should make the necessary appropriations to construct new state benitentiary and to provide the buildings needed at the University of Oregon and the agricultural coilege those desired for the University of Oregon medical college at Portland, and any other state buildings that should be constructed at this time, and then embody then in a special bond issue which could be referred to the people of the state at a special election to be held in Hopes Fund Will Be Given "If this program were followed, it would obviate the necessity of a special session of the legislature." said President Vinton. "If this were Jone. I believe we would move off on a plane of prosperity. The returning soldiers and those who are being thrown out of employment by the shutting down of war industries would be provided for. Speaking of the agricultural college President Vinton declared it is institutions of this nature which are the cor nerstones of this government.

"It is through these institutions," he said, "that we inspire in our young people patriotism, loyalty and service. It is these institutions to which we must ook if we would escape Bolshevism, I.

W. W.'ism and such evils of democracy. "We must open our purse strings to maintain them, and if they need more buildings to keep pace with their growth the taxpayers must provide them. I am told that there is urgent need for a new engineering building here and I hope and believe the ways and means committee of the legislature will approve an appropriation of $60,000 for ponse to an address of welcome by President Kerr of the college. In briefly touching upon the needs of the college, President Kerr assured the members of the legislature that the college is not seeking funds to enlarge its field of activities, but rather it wishes to concentrate on the courses it now has and make them more efficient.

He cautioned the visiting lawmakers that, because the campus and buildings seem large and commodious, they should not get the idea that the college has plenty of room.

"We are crowded and in great need of more room," he said.

The building used for the physical training of women, he pointed out, is not only inadequate but it is unsuitable for the purpose. A new addition should have been added to the domestic science building two years ago from the revenue derived from the millage tax, but the shrinkage in assessment values of the state so reduced the revenue from that source that the college has barely been able to get along.

He pointed out that the college has no auditorium and whenever it is desired to assemble the students and faculty it is necessary to use the men's gymnasium with its unsuitable seating

"The engineering building is very crowded and the time has arrived when we must provide more room as there is a greater demand for engineering courses now than ever before," he said. During the reconstruction period we hear so much of now there will be a. greater demand than ever for engineering. It is our duty to provide these courses for the men who went out to fight the battles of the United States." Other speakers were Speaker Seymour Jones of the house of representatives and Senator L S. Smith, chairman of the senate committee on education. better judge the work. Members of the board of regents were on the platform with the speakers.
