News of the Stage and Screen

The Open Mind It has been my faithful study to collect my duty from a just appreciation of every circumstance by which it might be affected.— Washington (in first inaugural address, April 30, 1789).

In the Definition of Organic Law No organic law can ever be framed with a provision specifically applicable to every question which may occur in practical administration. No foresight can anticipate nor any document of reasonable length contain express provisions for all possible questions.—Lincoln (in first inaugural, March 4, 1861).

Chatter

[Questions relating to actors and actresses on stage and screen, directed to the "Stage and Screen Editor," will be answered in this column or by mail, if self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed.]

Forrest Stanley, now playing opposite Dorothy Dalton, was led into the photoplay world by a curious route. He was leading man at the old Burbank theatre in Los Angeles, and Oliver Moroco was the theatre boss. A William Mack play was being produced, one which, by the way, never saw the light of the Gay White Way. Part of the play took the form of a film and in the film Stanley, as the wrongly accused man, was shown and his alibi supported. It was Stanley's first time before the camera. He filmed so well that thereafter he spent his time between the theatre and the Moroco picture studio.

Tom Santachi accepted an engagement at the Fox studio and is acting opposite Madeline Traverso under the direction of Harry Gray. William Farum is also a Fox star and the last time that he and Santachi played in the same company was when they acted in "The Spiders" at the Fox.

William Garwood has decided to again be a motion picture director instead of an actor. He has a long list of productions to his credit, all of them made for Universal, and what is more, he acted his own leads. Violet Mercereau and Lois Wilson were two of the actresses who played opposite him.

The Frohman Amusement company plans to make 26 two-reel western dramas, featuring Texas Gulman. It is probable that San Antonio, Texas, will be the site of the new studios.

Bessie Barriscale, before Los Angeles had attained one tenth of its fame as a picture production center, was the featured player in a Los Angeles stock organization which has given the speaking stage a long list of stars. Bessie used to long for the chance to have a settled home and to be called "Mrs. Barriscale" to assume her original stage role in "The Rose of the Rancho" in films and she attained her desire right there. From that day to this she has never again appeared on the speaking stage. She owns her own beautiful home.

Harry Van Meter, unlike many of the speaking stage actors, made a success the first time he acted before a camera. It was in a Nestor drama which ran a thousand feet, was continuous action in one scene, had five characters taken by Sydney Apres, Mrs. Thomas Ricketts, Russell Bassett, Vivian Rich and himself, and was directed by Thomas Ricketts. That was about six years ago.

Kitty Gordon, United Picture star, is said to receive many requests for gifts of the gowns she uses in her scenes. "I am even asked to send them to such and such an address at once and pay expressage as well," says Miss Gordon. "Some folk seem to labor under the impression that once the gowns are worn in a picture they are of no value."

SCENE from "Don't Change Your Husband," this week's attraction at the Liberty, and one that is proving unusually popular, probably because it carries a message into so many homes in Portland.

Further use to me. Some of my robes cost thousands of dollars and it would be an expensive proposition to give them away upon request. When I do present them I prefer to donate them where the proceeds will aid some worthy charity."

Here's the way Douglas Fairbanks' newest picture, "Something for Somebody," starts: He climbs out of the window of a speeding Pullman, continues up to the roof of the car, runs along the top of the train, jumps to the swinging arm of a water feeder frog and from there to the back of a horse. Nice quiet little opening for a film, isn't it?

Report in New York has it that D. W. Griffith, producer of big photoplays, may lease a Broadway theatre for the purpose of presenting his best successes in such theatre on a scale more elaborate than ever before attempted. Special orchestra effects will be made a feature of the showings if plans carry.

William Garwood has decided to again be a motion picture director instead of an actor. He has a long list of productions to his credit, all of them made for Universal, and what is more, he acted his own leads. Violet Mercereau and Lois Wilson were two of the actresses who played opposite him.

"CHEYENNE HARRY" CAREY, motion picture actor, who is visiting in Portland today.

'Mickey' Proves Screen Treat At Peoples

Record Crowds See Mabel Normand in Picture Success Telling Pretty Story.

"MICKEY," a film success which has been sweeping the country like wildfire for the past month, is showing at the Peoples' theatre this week to record-breaking houses.

Mabel Normand, playing the leading role of Mickey, won the hearts of the audience from her first appearance as the tomboy of a mining district. From childhood she had been brought up by a miner, Joe Meadows, who was operating her mine with little success. She was the trait and love of the man's life and, deciding that she needed education, he sends her to the city to be taken care of by her aunt, who understands that she is the owner of a gold mine.

After she arrives and the relatives are informed that the mine is not producing, Mickey is assigned to household duties in the city which is trying to hold a millionaire front, although nearly engulfed by debt.

Mick's pranks are so trying to the relatives that she is finally sent home. The relatives receive a message stating she leaves that the mine has turned into a success and Mickey is worth a million, and a thrilling race then ensues to get Mickey back.

A thread of a love story runs through the whole story and Mickey finally wins the man she loves and had met when he was surveying land near her old home, establishing the lines of his mining claim.

The play is strong in human interest throughout, and contains a number of thrills. The enlarged orchestra under Mischa Guterman is a feature.

Following first announcement Saturday of the coming engagement of Kolb and Dill in "As You Were," opening at the Heilig tomorrow night for the end of the week, there was a run on the box office Monday, the clamor for reservations being the best sort of an indication of the popularity of Kolb and Dill in Portland. In the company, which also includes the jazz band here last season, are Julia Blanc, Marie Rich, May Cloy, Ethel Martelle, George W. Banta Jr., Max Stenke, Jack Rollins, Frank Bonner and others.

Klaw & Erlanger's Next Play Klaw & Erlanger have closed a contract with Richard Barry for the production of his play, "Into the Four Hundred," which will be seen in New York early in the fall. Mr. Barry's play is a comedy of American life, which has already interested two foreign producers and it may be seen in England and France before the end of next season.

Comedy Sketch With Chorus At Hip

Nestor Troup in "Sweethearts" Proves Attraction; Killarney Girls Sweet.

A MUSICAL comedy sketch, "Sweethearts," in which Nestor, Olivette Haynes and chorus are seen to big advantage, is the headline act on the new week's program at the Hippodrome. The management announces that the Nestor troupe have been engaged for the entire week, their drawing fame having preceded them, and they will offer a change of program Thursday afternoon.

Hallet & Howe present "The Brute," a virile sketch that climaxes in a fist-fight that is near enough to the real thing to be satisfactorily exciting.

How to Wave Hair to Appear Naturally Curly

The tight little curls so dear to a woman's heart, the kind that remain in curl under any and all weather conditions, are best acquired by means of the new silmerine method. This simple method enables one to have the prettiest waves and curls imaginable, with all the appearance of "Nature's own." Silmerine is, of course, perfectly harmless. It leaves no sediment on the hair, no sticky or greasy trace, and it serves as a beneficial dressing, imparting a lively lustre and wholesome beauty to the hair. And the hair is fine and fluffy when combed out.

How to Make a Gray Hair Remedy

Mrs. Mackie, the well-known New York actress, now a grandmother, and whose hair is still dark, recently made the following statement: "Gray streaked or faded hair can be immediately turned black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following simple remedy that you can make at home: "Merely get a box of Orlex Powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 4 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Directions for mixing and use come in each box. One box will last you for months. "It is safe. It does not rub off, is not sticky or greasy, and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray haired person look many years younger."—Adv.

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair; that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt; can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthox (which you can get at any drugists) in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid—enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and plant. While the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After canthox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Adv.
