

HASTE URGED FOR RECLAMATION BILL

Rules Committee Asked to Expedite Consideration of $100,000,000 Measure.

Washington, Feb. 21.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—Secretary Lane and a delegation of the house irrigation committee went before the rules committee today to ask it to report a rule making in order Lane's $100,000,000 bill for reclamation of lands for returning soldiers. Lane is urging action by the present congress, explaining the bill's purposes and the fact that the only hope remaining is through action by special rule. Representative Sinnott, seconded by Chairman Taylor of the house irrigation committee, followed.

Bakers Surrender To Bootleg Charge

Surrendering themselves to George Marsh, chief clerk of the United States district court, so as to clear their bonds, Owen and Harry Baker, convicted on two white slave charges, appeared before Federal Judge Wolverson today and entered pleas of guilty to an indictment returned against them for alleged conspiracy to violate the Reed amendment and for violations of the act, after they had withdrawn pleas of not guilty. Judge Wolverson postponed the passing of sentences on the two brothers until Monday morning in order to determine whether the two brothers should be concurrent or a different sentence for each offense.

ROAD BILL IS NOW READY FOR SIGNATURE

attached as one step to meet an unemployment emergency which is a serious problem of the reconstruction period following the world war. This bill is the biggest piece of financial legislation ever passed by an Oregon legislature. It is the bill in which the greatest interest of the present session is centered.

With the senate chamber again crowded to capacity with a crowd looking for fireworks, the senate took up consideration of the bond bill at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Senator Thomas fired the first gun by making a motion to go into committee of the whole, in order to strike from the bill the famous words, "having regard to strength, durability and resistance to wear," and also to strike out the emergency clause and refer the bill to the people at the special election to be held soon.

Senator Handley replied that he was unalterably opposed to going into committee of the whole to amend the bill, as he declared it would offend the senators and to the members of the house as well as to the people of the state, who have approved of the bill.

Recall objectionable words. He said if the opponents wanted to kill the bill they should come out in the open and kill it and not try to put it to death through camouflage methods merely to satisfy those who are determined to get the paving trust.

"This fine speech by the senator from Clatsop," said Senator Smith of Coos, "may buffalo some of the senators, but it does not have that effect upon me."

concerned," said Senator Ritter. "I do not believe there is one senator who has any doubt as to what the verdict of the people would be if the bill was submitted to the people within the next six months or year."

Emergency Does Exist. He said an emergency does exist and the road building program is one of the most feasible methods of meeting it. Senator Eddy said the emergency clause should be retained. He is chairman of the reconstruction committee and said as such he knew an emergency does exist and that a great unemployment problem will be upon the state before the people of the state would have time to vote upon a bonding bill.

Senator Eberhardt declared that the bond bill gives substantially the same amount of money as the bill 67, and he opposed the motion to go into committee of the whole. He said he did not want to strike out the words having regard to strength, durability and resistance to wear in the connection in which they are embodied in the bill.

"I don't see any reason in the world for going into committee of the whole," he said. "I believe that when a majority of the senators, because if it is amended it will reopen the discussion in the house, and there is no use in doing that."

Senator Strayer said he has always honestly and sincerely opposed the adoption of an emergency clause to a bill unless a real emergency existed. "I do not believe that an emergency exists," he said. "I believe that when $100,000,000 of the people's money the people should have a right to say whether our judgment was good and they approved of it."

Senator Norblad said he believed the people of Oregon were unanimously in favor of this bill going into immediate effect. As a general proposition the people are opposed to the emergency clause, but in this instance the people are in favor of the emergency clause, he said.

Read for Final Passage. Senator Thomas said he had assumed that it was pretty well understood in the senate what was going to be done with the bill, so the debate has been amusing to him, as he had not expected to stir up a mass nest by his motion. He concluded that those who believed an emergency exists which demanded the emergency clause are honest in their views, the same as the opponents to the bill are honest in their opinions.

He made the motion, he said, with absolute knowledge that the vote would be against it, but he wished to give the people who desired to have their position recorded an opportunity. The motion was put to a vote and was lost by a vote of 6 to 24. The senators who voted for the motion were Dimick, Lachmund, Lafollett, Smith of Coos, Strayer and Thomas.

With this motion disposed of, the bill was then read the third time ready for the vote on its final passage. Bill Has So Safe Safeguards. Senator Orton took some time to explain various provisions of the bill, while Senator Lafollett made a characteristic speech in opposition to it. He was followed by Senator Dimick, who attacked the famous four words in the bill and declared that with those words in the bill the senate might as well have adopted the minority report on senate bill 67 and placed the words in that bill.

Senator Dimick also attacked the emergency clause, which he called camouflage, and said the legislature was putting in the hands of the highway commission $10,000,000 to be spent and proper safeguards have not been placed around the fund.

"To my mind this bill is the biggest, broadest piece of legislation that was ever before any legislature of the legislature in the history of this state," said Senator Banks. He said as the bill has been so thoroughly discussed that he hoped the bill would be passed unanimously.

People Back of Bill. "The people of the state of Oregon want this bill passed," he insisted. "There is not a man on the floor of the senate who does not believe that his constituency is back of this bill."

SERVICE MEDAL FOR FATHER MURPHY HAS BEEN RECOMMENDED

Army Officer Highly Commends Portland Pastor for His Work With Sick Troops.

Because he worked constantly with utter disregard for his own safety and health, Father E. P. Murphy, pastor of St. Patrick's parish, for 18 years a resident of Portland, and for the last year a Knight of Columbus chaplain, has been recommended for the distinguished service medal. The letter recommending him for the honor commended highly his work in base section No. 1, especially during the epidemic of influenza. Even after he had been confined to his own room to recuperate, he received a call from a nearby hospital and immediately answered it.

The letter, written by Lieutenant Darrow, assistant adjutant for base section No. 1, recommending the conferring of the medal upon Father Murphy, follows: "It is strongly recommended that Chaplain E. P. Murphy, K. of C., be awarded the distinguished service medal. "His work in this base is the best recommendation that can be given him. During the arrival of the largest convoy in this base in the early part of October, when Spanish influenza was at its height, Chaplain Murphy, with utter disregard to his health, worked day and night in looking after the comforts of the sick and attending to burials until he was forced to remain in his own room under treatment by the attending surgeon.

"During this time he received a sick call from Saveney hospital and immediately left his room to carry out his mission, which resulted in his being confined to his bed for two weeks with influenza. "His conduct during the emergency has been commended on by a number of officers, and it is believed that the distinguished service medal would be a fitting reward for his devotion to duty, although no thought of reward was anticipated."

Father Murphy came to Portland in 1900 from Notre Dame university, where he had been an instructor in mathematics. He at first went to Columbia university here as a teacher. He later entered parish work in the city, and was one of the prime movers in the prison correction movement. Finally he became pastor of St. Patrick's parish and has remained there since. He went to France with the Knights of Columbus in July, 1918. He will spend one year in this work and then return to Portland.

A Saturday of Big Values for Everyone

—Every day of every week—in February as well as January—this store aims to have Better Values for everyone—and our conception of better values differs from the ideas of many, in that we believe in offering new goods at the prices of others' older goods.

—Whether a thing is called a sale or not is not of great consequence, for everything we offer nowadays is better than usual value—and every trip through the store gives greater and greater proof to this claim of good values.

"BE CERTAIN to know what really big things are—then do them." This is a saying attributed to George Washington. It certainly is deeply characteristic of him, his work and his accomplishment. In a certain sense it is the driving force back of this great merchandising institution. For a great work—a really big thing is not one that makes a big show, that sounds a great noise. It is rather a work that benefits the interests of a great number of people. —The progressive and helpful activities of this store are all directed to benefit the lives of the people of Portland.
