WOMEN OUT IN FORCE NOW

and in Spite of Weather the Armenia?" Showing Was Remarkable.

After three days of plucky soliciting n the wind and rain, the several hundred men and women workers of General John Dougall's Armenian relief drive forces, were this morning delighted at the appearance of the sun ind they set forth upon their hard day's work unincumbered with rubbers umbrellas, and buoyed by renewed

Another cause for rejoicing was the jouncement that yesterday's labors had netted a total of more than $8,000, which nearly $7,000 was brought in the Women's divison. Because the women under Colonels Mrs. C. B. Simns and Mrs. Charles Scadding, had tot yet completed their organization on Monday, it was decided to put to work only a few of the women's teams, and wait until Wednesday to officially tart the drive of the women's divison, using Monday and Tuesday for organsation work. This was done, and the omen workers were not out in full force until yesterday morning, so that the fine total of $7,000 brought in by hem last night really represents their

Stimulus Much Needed

Another $1000 was made up of small ubscriptions taken in by the Kiwanis club's flying squadron, this being exclusive of the larger subscriptions secured y them which are not yet ready for inouncement. Upward of $500 came in from little suburban districts where mattached workers had been canvasing, and more that $1,000 of the amount was garnered by the women workers nder Mrs. R. Tomlinson and Mrs. J. . Saul, who have charge of the booths, anks, depots, theatre lobbies, hotels,

The stimulus of this splendid showing was much needed, however, according o General Dougall, who said this morning that the contributions being secured the flying squadrons from the city's ankers, big business men, captains of industry, etc., are much smaller than expected and not in proportion to the nts given by them in previous drives. Unless these contributors give re liberally, Mr. Dougall says, there will be difficulty in raising the full quota of $73,200.

Joe's Nose Paint Camouflaged Too Thin for Police

"It's 'nose paint'," replied Joe Sak, arrested at 10 o'clock this morning at Union station by police officers who inquired what he had in seven one gallon cans. Sak, charged with bringing liquor into a prohibition state in violation of the Reed amendment, is said to have told federal agents he was taking the liquor to Chehalis. The liquor was well camouflaged as paint of the house variety. Each gallon can was so labeled and bore no earmarks of being forbidden potables.

Assistant United States Attorney Goldstein said Sak admitted that the cans were his and said he paid $80 for them. He said he has lived in the United States 17 years and is not naturalized. He will be arraigned in the federal court this Declares Court Wrong in Allowing Evidence of Pre-War Remarks in Trial.

Henry Albers, found guilty by a federal court jury of violating the espionage act, this morning in the federal court filed motion for a new trial. The motion declares that the court wrongly permitted the introduction of testimony of what Albers said before the United States entered the war.

Julius Rhuburg, now serving sehence after conviction of espionage vielation, raised a similar question in petitioning for a new trial, which was denied, and in appealing the case to the circuit court of appeals, which upheld the ruling of the district court. Albers' motion for a new trial will be argued in Judge Wolverton's court on

Falling Bank Cause Of Banker's Arrest

Among the defendants who appeared in the municipal court Wednesday was R. W. Schmeer, cashler of the United States National bank, Mr. Schmeer had een arrested on a warrant charging him with failing to remove an obstruction in the street. The bank, on a piece of property located at Twenty-fifth and Siskiyou street, which is owned by Mr. Schmeer, had slid down and covered the sidewalk, and complaints of the neighbors were responsible for the banker's arrest. The case was continued on Mr. Schmeer's promise to have the side-walk cleared at once.

Mrs. Euretha Finfrock, 842 East Pine street, was badly scalded about the face and chest this morning by hot coffee in a store near Second and Yamhill streets owned by M. Hill. Mrs. Elvers, nurse at the police emergency hospital, administered first aid and said she considered the woman's condition extremely serious. Mrs. Finfrock is a widow. She was taken to Good Sa-maritan hospital.

NEW FIRE STATIONS TO REPLACE SHACKS, IS BIGELOW'S PLAN

Commissioner's Proposal Offered as Part of Reconstruction Plans for Portland.

Several new fire stations may be built by the city of Portaind as part of a reconstruction program, Commissione Bigelow announced this morning. "Many of the present structures are mere ramshackle buildings and are almost fire traps in themselves," the commissioner remarked, "and any reconstruction program should contain provisions for new stations. Several of the present buildings are old structures, and are not only unsightly, but hardly safe. I am going into the matter further, and will likely recommend the replacement of several old houses with new stations."

The new structures would likely be financed by bond issues, it was suggested, inasmuch as the following generation will be the beneficiary of the contemplated change. Bids for the sale of the property and building now occupied by company No. I, at Fourth and Yamhill, will be received by the city as the first step in the new order. An ordinance is now being drafted to allow Commissione Bigelow to receive such bids and to make a sale or exchange of the property advantageous to the city. If the property is disposed of a new station will be erected to replace the old struc-

FIRE DEPARTMENT EFFICIENT

"With a strength in men and ma chines equal to any time in the city's history and the two platoon system working satisfactorely, the Portland fire department is in good shape," the com-missioner stated. "There may be weak-nesses, but they can be corrected only as money is secured."

"Portland fire losses have steadily decreased through fire prevention work and publicity handled by the fire bu-reau," Fire Chief Dowel pointed out, and I can see no basis for a charge of inefficiency. The records do not support such a contention,"

Worthless Jewelry Swindle Played by Unworthy Soldiers

A variation of the old time "phoney ewelry" fake was reported to the police Wednesday by Mrs. A. Wood, 591 East Morrison street, and Mrs. A. Myers, 609 and other buildings, including a church East Morrison street. Two soldiers visited both women Tuesday night and a few houses at Flomaton were razed. wanted to borrow $5 with which to take their girls to a show. They offered a small ring, supposed to be set with a dia- | and a negro school building were badly mond, as security. Both women lent noney to the pair and took the rings as security. After the men failed to return to redeem the pledges, the women discovered that they were swindled and notified the police. Inspectors Hyde and Abbott are investigating.

Classed as Deserter

Chief of Police Johnson received a otice from Commander W. A. Edgar Boston stating that Orie Weston Alvord, formerly of 590 Clatsop street, had been classed as a deserter from the receiving ship at Boston. The chief was asked to help locate the sailor. The government notice says Alvord enlisted at Portland June 4, 1917. His mother
