PURIM TOMORROW

Festival of "Lots" One of Most Popular Among Jewish Great Days.

Purim, the festival of "lots," falls on March 16 this year. It is one of the most popular among the Jewish great days, and deservedly holds first rank among merry-making events of the year.

The history connected with Purim is that of fair Esther and loyal Mordecal, who defied the mighty king of Persia to save their people from destruction. Regardless of the absolute historicity of the book of Esther, Purim earns veneration from both orthodox and re-form Jews for its earnest appeal to hold faith in a high power and that material prowess, material grandeur is to be sacrificed and forgotten when one's friends are in danger.

Nowhere is the solidarity of the Jew for the purpose of bringing God's truths Held at Mt. Tabor to earth so well illustrated as in the simple story of Esther, and a serious moral lies beneath the jocular, light vein that the festival produces.

Be Feature Sunday

Sunday evening a great musical program will be conducted at the First Methodist church by the Lewis Military quartet and the regular church choir. The military quartet was formed at Camp Lewis during the past year and by East Sunday. is now going with the Ellison-White Chautauqua company for the coming year. The singers are: Captain James Haupt, first tenor; Constant Segrist, econd tenor: J. Sherman Schoomaker first bass, and Oswald A. Olsen, second bass. Returned soldiers are invited to this service. Sunday morning Dr. Joshua Stansfield will talk on "What To Begin New Series God Requires." He will deal with the following Bible verse: "To do justly, to love mercy, to walk humbly with God." This sermon is intended to be a character searching message.
