Father of J. Al Pattison, Accused of Being Implicated in Alleged Conspiracy.

Robert Pattison, father of J. Al Pattison, lumberman arrested two weeks ago as the result of a federal grand jury indictment, was taken into custody today by federal officers and faces the same charge as does his son—conspiring in violation of the national banking act. The elder Pattison was indicted with Jerome Mann, formerly cashier of the First National bank of Linton, and C. V. Cooper, lumber broker, both of whom were arrested Saturday and released on $10,000 bonds. The two Pattisons and Mann and Cooper are all accused of defrauding the Linton bank out of about $123,000 by forging invoices and bills of lading. This sum, it is understood, has been repaid the bank by Mann's father.

SOLDIER ENJOYS FRENCH HIGH LIFE

Leo Yezerksi Writes He Could Go Blind Gazing Upon Petite Marie.

Private Leo R. Yezerksi of the 171st aero squadron writes to his sister, Anna Yezerksi, of The Journal proofroom, about the interesting and enjoyable trip he took when he was granted a seven day service leave: "I've simply got to tell you what a grand time I'm having on my seven day service leave. This place (Menton, France) is in the Alps mountains on the Mediterranean coast, right on the border of Italy, and the oranges and lemons lined with palm trees and the Alps mountains projecting above you for hundreds of feet, with beautiful valleys, make it a paradise. The hotels are simply grand standing up in the mountains, overlooking the Mediterranean sea, and the wonderful parks they have here. It simply keeps a person busy taking in the scenery as it is one of the most picturesque places in the world. Visits Monte Carlo

"Took in Monte Carlo and went through the famous gambling houses, and must say they are palaces. The king's palace and the beautiful museum in Monaco are very interesting. Nice is the largest city and it sure has got the mademoiselles. There certainly are some beautiful girls in this part of the country, and dress, why a person would go blind looking them over. They sure know how to put the togery on and the Yanks know how to keep their step. Took in Paris and Lyons on my way down again one day in each city. Paris is fast and a fellow can step to his heart's content. Saw Eiffel tower and many other places of interest. The streets are just jammed in the evening and everyone is out for a good time. The Opera House is a fine theatre, where the people can drive in their cars and see the automobiles and take in the finest show in the world.

Portland Like St. Johns. "In Menton the people have donkeys on the street that you can hire for a trip up the Alps, and this is great sport. I only wish you were here to accompany me on some of these trips. I am positive you would enjoy it. Portland will look like St. Johns to me from now on. "I have a dandy room facing the Mediterranean, and the best part is that Uncle Sam pays the bills, so why should I worry. It's only a short walk into Italy and there are sight seeing cars running everywhere. The wine served me in one of the Italian cafes was the best I have ever tasted. "It was 12 degrees below zero the day I left camp and just imagine coming into a warm climate like this, where oranges and lemons are ripening. I only hope these seven days never pass. "I was only going to write a few lines, but I got started and now I'm running away with myself. I've got to be in Nice this afternoon and that's 12 miles ride by trolley and I'll have to get dinner and be on my way, Toot Sweet." The 171st aero squadron is stationed at Colombey Les Belles, near Metz.
