

DRIVE FOR FUNDS FOR STOCK SHOW TO START TUESDAY

Portland People Asked to Add $75,000 to $70,000 Now in Sight for Exposition Quota.

MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Four Hundred "Live Wires" to Start Out Next Morning to Complete Stock Subscriptions.

With $60,000 already subscribed and approximately $10,000 additional in prospect from tentative pledges, Vice President E. G. Crawford of the United States National bank, who has had charge of the flying squadron division of the Pacific International Livestock exposition's big stock selling drive, announces the list of substantial subscriptions from the city directly to the national headquarters which will be completed by Monday evening, when District Manager Henry E. Reed and his 400 campaigners will take the field since the Lewis and Clark cleanup which is relied upon to bring in the balance of Portland's $125,000 quota for the $250,000 permanent building project.

"At this meeting we will complete our organization and make all ready for a big cyclonic cleanup," said Mr. Reed. "Our 400 live wires, recruited from the six most important business clubs of the city, will start out in teams of two early Tuesday morning, full of enthusiasm for the biggest project that has been undertaken by Portland since the Lewis and Clark fair, and determined to enlist every business and professional man in the city as a stockholder. The establishment of this permanent exposition center at Portland means the rapid and stable development of the livestock and agricultural industries of the entire Northwest. This, in turn, means increased wealth and prosperity for Portland, the center of the great fertile Northwest section. Every practical business man will at once see that an investment in this stock is a national bond, ultimately to bring returns many times the original cost. We do not anticipate any great difficulty in disposing of the remaining $75,000 or $80,000 worth of stock that Portland must place in order to make good her challenge to match, dollar for dollar, all outside subscriptions."

Friends Anxious to Know if Walter Gray Is Among the Living

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gray of Albany, their son, Walter Gray, was officially reported dead in July, have just received what appears to be reliable information that he is in a French hospital severely wounded. Mr. Gray, who until recently resided in Lebanon, Or., and who was a chum of the young man, is reported to have received a letter from young Gray as late as February of this year.

Mr. Grayson recently returned from overseas service and is at present thought to be in Portland. Miss Angus Graham, whose telephone number is Broadway 5157, is anxious to hear from Mr. Gray.

Boy Scouts Show Pioneering Ability

The Ladd farm on the Canyon road was the scene of bridge building, construction of temporary shacks and camp kitchens Saturday afternoon, when about 15 Boy Scouts of the headquarters troops demonstrated their pioneering ability to Cartwright Harding as one of their tests. All the boys successfully passed the test, according to Omar C. Spencer, in charge of the troop. The shacks will be left on the farm for the further use of the boys.

BURGLARIES SAID TO HAVE BEEN ADMITTED BY LESLIE E. BUTLER

Property Said to Have Been Taken From Ten Different Places, Also Recovered.

Ten burglaries committed throughout the city during the past month were cleared up Saturday by Inspectors Harry Niles and George G. Gentry, who, until recently, resided in Lebanon, Or., and who has made a complete confession. Nearly all the property reported missing was also located in the pawn shops of the city Saturday by Officer Niles. Most of the articles were pawned for from $3 to $6.

Following are the 10 places Butler is said by the officers to have admitted entering since he started his depredations on February 28: The room of S. W. Peterson, 848 Oregon hotel; room of Pearl Percival, Baker hotel; Charles O. Chambers, 308 1/2 Stark street; Earl Biddle, Alder hotel; M. J. Davis, Alder hotel; and rooms in the Seward hotel, Y. M. C. A. New Orleans hotel, Valley hotel and Lind hotel.

Police records show that Butler has been arrested before. His first arrest was on January 29, 1916, when he was charged with larceny.

Facts About Furnaces

"It was the hunger that got us," said the young soldier. "Many of our comrades died of exposure because we could not take care of them. The water we had was silny rain water, but we tore up our blouses and our shirts and bound the wounds as best we could. The German would yell to the sentry coming over and we'd be up and at them and as soon as we got a good start they'd open up with their machine guns from the top of the hill and it was pretty tough."

PEP FOR OPTIMISTS AND PAREGORIC FOR PESSIMISTS IS URGED

County Chairmen of Loan Campaign Hear Parting Word at Luncheon Held Saturday.

"Paregoric for the pessimists and pep for the optimists with Oregon over the top first as usual" was the parting words of "Bill" Strandborg to the guests at the luncheon held at the Portland Hotel Saturday for the county chairmen of the loan campaign, presided at by the city Saturday by Officer Niles.

"We staged an immense performance and carried the day," said Colonel May, in speaking of the coming Victory loan, "now we must clean up the stage properties, bring our men home, take care of them if they need our help, pay them while they are still over there. It took us a year to take our army overseas and our equipment had to be bought at the high prices of the emergency period. We can't expect to bring our army home in a month and we don't want to keep so many men over in Europe."

"The American girl wants her soldier home and I don't approve of this crop of French brides that are arriving. There never was a time when the men of our army needed the continued support of the folks at home as they do now. It took 15 men to keep one man at the front and when our big army machine got ready to operate on the front by the first of November—you know what happened, so now it is our job to bring the men home."

"I don't know how you did it but you did it," said the young soldier. "Many of our comrades died of exposure because we could not take care of them. The water we had was silny rain water, but we tore up our blouses and our shirts and bound the wounds as best we could. The German would yell to the sentry coming over and we'd be up and at them and as soon as we got a good start they'd open up with their machine guns from the top of the hill and it was pretty tough."

CHANGES MADE IN GAME COMMISSION TO GREAT INTEREST

Sportsmen's League, Anglers' Club and Commission Itself Petition for Investigation.

WARDEN PRESENTS DEFENSE

Lengthy Exposition of Official Acts of Commission Made by Shoemaker at Anglers' Club.

Governor Ben Olcott has now before him at least three petitions for the investigation of the state fish and game commission. The first is from the legislative committee of the Oregon Sportsmen's league, ratified by the league's executive committee. The second is from the Multnomah Anglers' club and the third, postdating the sportsmen's appeal, is from the state fish and game commission itself.

Warden Presents Defense

The rod and gun fraternity are just now busily engaged with the fine orders which the governor may issue. Since the Friday evening meeting of the Multnomah Anglers' club they feel, so they say, that the advantage in the case is with "official" fish and game wardens, selected as the theatre of his defense against the derelictions imputed to him because of an alleged over-fondness for political activity.

The original resolution came up for action after such preliminaries as the annual election had been disposed of. John Gill, immediate past warden, substituted a resolution which at once was, though phrased in language more inquisitory than the original expression, to contain an ever recurring clause of inquiry into the political and commercial elements of fish and game administration.

"The state fish and game warden's audience was cold and indicated by the look of the commercial interests, particularly towards the American ideal of a fair hearing was indicated by the quietness."

His Own Reporter

The hour became late and the anglers began fidgeting. Mr. Shoemaker admitted that he had much yet to say. Visions of LaFollette's wearying the United States senator to the point of non-resistance troubled some of the listeners. They cheered when Mr. Shoemaker's reading of personal endorsements was interrupted by a demand for the vote on the substitute resolution.

Business Men Will Observe Fool's Day On Tuesday Night

The Progressive Business Men's club will celebrate Fool's day, April 1, with a smoker at the Benson hotel at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Summons to attend the affair have been sent out to the club men in form of a mock subpoena headed "In the circus court of all fools of hilarity, State of Bliss."

Miss Louise Hatfield will dance the waltz. She will furnish her own accompanist and to whom the club will be obligated to pay $2.50. It will also be well to provide a bouquet of flowers for Miss Hatfield. The Progressive Business Men's club, named as plaintiff, has a substantial cause of action against "Stygian Gloom." The program of the unique entertainment was announced Saturday by K. C. Edridge, secretary of the club.

STANDARDIZATION OF COAST HOSPITALS TO BE CONFERENCE TOPIC

American College of Surgeons to Hold Meeting in Lincoln High on April 11.

Means to perfect a standardization of Pacific coast hospitals will be sought at a conference of the American college of surgeons which will be held in the auditorium of the Lincoln high school in the afternoon and evening of April 11.

Physicians, surgeons and specialists from Oregon, Washington and California, will discuss plans for the proposed standardization and attempt to find a way to bring it about as soon as possible. Three things necessary for the best hospital work, now lacking in most of the coast hospitals, are laboratories for diagnosis of all cases in all hospitals, regular hospital staffs of specialists and a method by which all cases may be watched even after they pass from hospital care, said Dr. Kenneth A. J. MacKenzie, chairman of the Oregon committee on standards, who is in charge of arrangements for the conference.

Had Whiskey; Fined $200

James Hickman had no business wandering about the railroad yards with a quart of whiskey in his possession, according to the decision of Judge Rossman Saturday. He was fined $200 on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Officer Cameron arrested Hickman.

EIGHTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED BY PIONEER

Mrs. Malinda Millsap

Mother of Man Who Drowned in Slough Resides in Chicago

Deputy Coroner Gotsch learned Saturday afternoon that the mother of John B. Lindseth, who committed suicide by drowning Saturday in Mud Lake, resides in Chicago. Without leaving any note to show a possible motive, Lindseth jumped off the Derby street bridge into the Columbia slough about 10 o'clock Saturday morning and drowned in about six feet of water. Mrs. Bessie, living near, saw him hit the water. She notified J. J. Phillips and H. J. Scott, telephone linemen working nearby, and they recovered the body. City Grappler Hugh Brady responded to the emergency call and, with Chief Engineer Carl Frenn of the harbor patrol, applied the pulmotor to the man, but without avail.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY HAVE BIG PROGRAM FOR YEAR

Seven-Point Goal Is Approved by Delegates at County Convention.

Seven points will comprise the goal of the Multnomah County Sunday School association during the coming Sunday school year, according to the report of the county committee, which was adopted at the closing session of the convention Friday night. As outlined by Dr. Guy Woods, the seven points are: (1) Indorsement and backing up of children's week, April 27 to May 4; (2) support of the state convention at Corvallis May 15 to 18; (3) promotion of district organizations; (4) work of changing of convention to fall months, so as to reap the benefit of the fall inspiration for the winter's work; (5) endeavor to get scholars to do more hand work; (6) endeavor to organize visitation teams to call on isolated Sunday schools, and (7) push the daily vacation Bible school which is held during the summer months.
