Little of Note On Social Calendar

Motor Parties, Golf and Rowing Constitute Activities During the Lenten Period.

By Helen H. Hutchinson
THE social calendar offers little of note for the early part of the week, and in fact until after the close of the Lenten period no large functions are planned. In the meantime, the spring days are offering the greatest inducement for small motor parties, and society is finding its diversion in visiting the golf clubs and in small dinner parties after a brisk trip by motor.

The Portland Rowing club will be open for the second of its dancing parties at the clubhouse on the river, April 17. A committee composed of members of the club will have charge of arrangements for the event. The patrons and patronesses for the event will be Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. A. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luke.

Mrs. Joseph Friedenthal was hostess for a charming dancing party on Saturday evening, honoring her daughter, Miss Frances Friedenthal. Following the dancing a buffet supper was served. Among those who enjoyed the evening were the Misses Eleanor Kilham, Elizabeth Strowbridge, Marian Shemanski, Martha Shull, Ruth Sennelich, Isabel Kinsey, Sally Cunningham, Frances Baker, Helen Hildes, Inez Fairchild and Cadets Gael Green, Fred Rooper, Norris Coleman, Leslie Roth, Adolph Hayden, Homer Hayden, William MacDonald, Wallace Smith, Clifford Smith, Milburn Knight and Fred Morrill.

The Illinois State society will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, in the assembly room of the Portland hotel. All former residents of Illinois and their friends are urged to be present. A brief program has been planned for the evening, followed by cards and dancing.

The many friends of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Voorhies will be glad to know that the former has returned from service overseas and is stationed for a short time at Camp Mills, New York, who is at present in California, will spend a few days in Santa Barbara, visiting her son, Charles, who is in school there.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman R. Hall, who have been in California for the past few weeks, returned to Portland Sunday.

Following the last lecture of Dr. E. S. Conklin's series, which was given at the Presbyterian church on Friday morning, Mrs. Louis Gerlinger Jr. was hostess for a small informal luncheon.

Miss Harriet Kern was hostess for a charming tea on Saturday afternoon at her home in Irvington.

Master Homer Smith celebrated his twelfth birthday at 19 East Fifty-second street, Thursday afternoon. Seated around a table glowing with Easter flowers and favors were the host and 11 guests, all wearing caps imitating roosters, chickens, owls, etc. After the feast all enjoyed music and games. Those present were: Master Homer Smith, Harry Greenslade, Jimmie Dolan, Lawrence Wurl, Frances Tonetti, Roy Hurst, Carl Wurl, Harold Quinn, Erma Greenslade, Freda Schinkel, Sadie Schinkel and Eleanor Oviatt.

Captain W. E. Montrose, recently returned from France, has taken permanent apartments at the Nortonia hotel.

Mrs. W. G. Tucker was hostess for an informal luncheon given at her apartment in Lucretia court recently. Covers were placed for eight, including Mrs. Paul Daniel, Mrs. William Hodecker, Mrs. Louis Johnson, Mrs. Thomas Collins, Mrs. Wallace Morrin, Mrs. Frank Sterrett, Mrs. Henry Viereck and hostess.

At the regular Thursday evening card party for members and friends at Laurelhurst club the honors in bridge fell to J. C. Stevens and Mrs. F. L. Stockie, and in "500" to Mr. and Mrs. Carpentier and Miss Wilma Rinehart. These card parties which occur twice a month are

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION
Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well. My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my housework without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

Bundles of Old Clothing Pour in Appeal of the Red Cross Is Meeting With Prompt and Hearty Response.

BECAUSE it was a wet Sunday, some thousands of Portlanders said: "Let's go over our clothes and get that bundle out for the Red Cross." And that's the reason that early this morning there was a migration to every fire station where branch receiving stations were established for the receipt of donations of used clothes and shoes.

Promptly at 8 a. m. Mrs. C. B. Waters opened the receiving station at the Marshall-Wells building, Fifth and Pine streets. She found two bundles on the steps, which had been left there Sunday. Street cleaners found the bundles and residents with bundles. Every grocer's laundry and department store wagon in sight bore as many bundles of old clothes as regular collection and delivery packages.

Suburban grocery stores reported that practically every resident had handed bundles of clothes to the delivery man, or had said, "Come back later in the day."

In many fire stations the firemen had built racks to hold the clothing and keep it off the floor. The drive in Portland for 100 tons of used garments began this morning. It is part of a national quota of 10,000 tons being conducted by the American Red Cross for the relief of needy French and Belgians.

Firemen Saturday staged 32 parades with posters urging residents to bring their bundles to the fire department. They hung the banners outside the fire houses, so there would be no misunderstanding. One thousand Boy Scouts, starting from 60 different points in the city Sunday distributed 50,000 slips giving Portland people all the details of the collection.

Loose waikers that all women possible report to her at the Marshall-Wells building to aid in sorting. Especially does she ask members of the Red Cross auxiliaries and wives of members of the Rotary club, although all volunteers will be welcomed.

Albina W. C. T. U. will give an entertainment at the Mann home, Thirty-second street and Sandy boulevard, Tuesday, April 8, at 2 p. m. Dr. Joshua Stanfield of the First Methodist church will speak and a program of music and recitation will be given.

DRESS by Anne Rittenhouse

New York.—The tiny, tip-tipped hat trimmed with ribbons and roses has appeared in and out of the fashions of two centuries. It has something of the everlasting charm of coquetry, which comes and goes in the fashionable manners of the world.

You know, manners and habits, and gestures are as full of vagary as the fashions in gowns, wraps and hats. The conservatives insist that a lady always has a certain demeanor and that she maintains it in all her actions. But this is the verdict of the short-sighted; those who do not see backward or forward, or rather, those whose eyes are continually turned to their own youth, and never to the youth of their children. You remember, when the old lady said to Punch that she was not as they were, Punch replied: "They never were."

Femininity in Apparel
It would be a sad, drab world if manners remained on exactly the same level throughout the centuries, and if fashion went along in one straight line. Coquetry comes in and goes out; the manners of the Amazon appear and disappear in the history of the world; generation succeeds generation with changes of posture, gesture and tricks of speech. Nothing dies. Nothing remains for any great length of time. We think that coquetry has vanished in a world of wage earning women who select their own mates, by some subtle, Shavian law, and who insist upon a lack of chaperonage and upon a freedom of speech that is entirely appalling to the ears of the last generation, and then, thrown right into the midst of all this freedom, like a bomb, comes the return of coquetry and the manners that go with it.

The hat is the first sign. The looped-up pink taffeta frock, with its elbow sleeves, is the second. The introduction of pastel shades, the revival of flounces and swathed head dresses, are all symbols of a return to that era which was pronounced Victorian, but which has threaded its way in and out of the centuries.

It may be psychological that coquetry should take the place of a masculinity that has never before been assumed by women in such a virulent form. It is the swing of the pendulum, the war sending back women from the cradle to the cradle, from the hospital to the home.

Small hat which tilts over the eyes, revived from 1914. It is of natural straw trimmed with a wreath of blue and silver flowers and blue velvet ribbon.

The milliners are quick to seize upon the first symbols of a changing period in manners, morals and clothes, so it is significant that they have put out the type of hat associated with the shrinking shepherdess, which was revived in France before the war, as a means of making women more beguiling.

This hat is shown in the sketch of today. It has been called by many names, but never one that suited it sufficiently to impress the public. It is not a bad companion to the close cropped, curled hair which the war brought out, after the manner of The Terror, when women had their hair cut to show that they had been in prison for aristocracy.

This hat is of natural colored straw and is nothing but a dishpan placed on a mass of curls and tilted so far over the eyebrows that it almost hides the eyes. It is trimmed with the immemorial wreath of flowers.

The difference between the flowers of this season and those worn by the shepherdess is the difference between

Hood River Schools May Not Aid Apple Harvest This Year

Hood River, April 7.—At the coming teachers' institute, to be held in Hood River on April 11, County School Superintendent Gibson will bring up for discussion a proposal that the usual vacation for apple-picking be suspended in the coming fall to enable the students to catch up with their work. Several periods of suspension of school were enforced in January and February, owing to the epidemic of influenza, and although teachers and parents have cooperated it has been found impossible to make up for the time lost.

Another matter of importance to be introduced for discussion at the institute is the cooperation of parents and children in the coming county fair, which, if present plans are carried out, will be the most ambitious ever held here. The superintendent will also urge the parents to encourage their children to purchase to the limit War Savings Stamps and, if possible, to exceed the amount subscribed for last year, which, according to population, ranked Hood River county with any in the state.

Discussion of the League of Nations and the great President Wilson is taking in world peace is also to be encouraged and several speeches of an explanatory nature will probably be delivered during the session.

Kills Wife in Fear
Hammond, Ind., April 7.—(I. N. S.)—Sam Marino, an employe of the Erie Railroad company, shot and killed his wife and then shot himself. Fear of the Black Hand is said to have been the motive for the double crime. At Marino's house a week ago Sam Fanto, a boarder, was shot and killed by Joe Marino, a second cousin of Sam Marino, in self defense. Friends of Fanto threatened Sam Marino during the week. Joe Marino is a returned soldier on furlough.

Admits Wholesale Theft
Chicago, April 7.—(I. N. S.)—Walter Rang, 27, former employe of the sanitary department, started out today, in company with several police and detectives, to visit 100 North Side homes, from which he admits stealing jewelry worth $5000 during the past month. Rang was captured when trapped in the home of Mrs. Stephanie Vaga by Mrs. Vaga and her five daughters.

Garden Hints

By SHEBA CHILDS HARGREAVES (OF PORTLAND)

Cannas are splendid plants for massing where a tropical effect is desired. There are many ornamental grasses which are very effective for background planting. Baisams are lovely old fashioned flowers. They grow erect like a little tree and are covered with sweet scented waxy flowers resembling small roses.

Vines, or old fashioned trailing myrtles, is a good vine for window boxes, but planted in the ground it is hard to exterminate and after a short time it simply crowds out everything else in the flower bed.

The green aphids are starting very early on the roses. Washing the leaves with a strong yellow soap suds sometimes helps before they arrive in great numbers. A good sifting of road dust is also effective, but nothing very strong can be used on tender rose foliage when it is just coming out, without doing harm.

Time is saved in the growing of early potatoes by a process known as greening. The potatoes are spread on shallow trays in the sun to sprout; each eye will show a thrifty green sprout, which will come up very soon after the potato is planted. The greening process, if started in the house and set into the open ground after all danger of frost is over.
