Keel of 8800-Ton Steel Vessel Laid by Northwest Steel Company in 29 1-2 Minutes.

ANOTHER RECORD IS MADE

Launching of West Chana Days After Laying of Keel Is Regarded as Notable Feat.

The keel of an $800-ton steel vessel was laid at the Northwest Steel company plant this morning in 29% minutes, he feat establishing a new world's

R. D. Murray, resident inspector for ergency Fleet corporation, verified the figures. During the speed performance the heavy blanket of fog which completely overed the waterfront. Plates from No. 18 to No. 2, inclusive, ere laid, the time being taken from the placing of the first hook on the first plate to the tightening of the last bolt on the last plate. Within the time limit of the speed performance the keel was tested for teel at 8:10.15 and the job was finished The keel was that of the West Cheswold, designated as hull No. 32. Another building record was established at the Northwest Steel company

Friday when the steel steamer West was successfully launched 45 days after the laying of the keel. The record is notable because of the fact that the men working on the hull put in two eight-hour shifts only, each lay. No overtime was charged to the Hding of the hull.

During the process of the fabrication of the hull not a single workman was njured, according to the plant managenent. This achievement is unusual and the absence of accidents to employes is due in part to the improved safety-first ds in vogue at the plant. Mrs. George L. Baker, wife of Mayor Baker, was sponsor at the launching.

that remain above water. The sinking of Salvation Army, Red Cross, War Camp Community Service and Citizens Contribute to Walfare.

> One hundred and one men who at the beginning of their military career were members of the 160th infantry, arrived at the Union station at 2:20 o'clock Friday afternoon on their way from Camp Upton, L. I., to Camp Lewis, for disharge. They were entertained by the Portland reception committee and all said they had a fine time, in spite of the fact that their visit lasted only until 4 o'clock when they proceeded on their way. They marched to the Portland hotel where they had dinner. After this they wandered down the street to the station and spent a few minutes inside, mostly around the Salvation Army hut where they simply couldn't resist the temptation of some fine-looking cream puffs. Cigarettes and candy were also furnished to a few of them who straggled into the Red Cross canteen. The War Community Service gave out 120 packages of cigarettes to them. The train was in command of Lieu tenant E. O. Johnson of Seattle. Following is a roster of the detach-

Lieutenant G. C. Wood of Walla Walla, Wash., found his sister in Portland and spent his time with her. Ray Fordyce, who served with the Twenty-ninth engineers, a sound and flash ranging regiment, and whose home is at 1851 Bayard street here, was met by his mother and spent the time at the station with her. He took her out to the Salvation Army hut and took care of a cream puff, some doghnuts and coffee while she stood by with admiring eyes. She said she had a good right to eye him, as he had been away 17 months. He was gassed in September during the

St. Mihiel action. Mayor Baker Speaks L. O. Lofquist had been with the Twenty-third infantry, Second division, and was wounded in the fighting four miles south of Soissons on July 19. He looks hale and hearty.

Harold H. Hibbs of Eugene, who was with the Fifth field signal battalion in the actions at St. Mihiel and in the Arwhere he was wounded, met his father and sisters at the Union station. He said he was glad to be back after having been in France since December 28, 1917. He went over with the old headquarters company of the 162d (Third Oregon) infantry. Mayor George L. Baker was glad get back into the fun of receiving troops and gave them a nice little talk during their dinner at the Portland hotel. Mrs. Fred L. Olson and Walter Jenkins sang very pleasing songs.
