

NO MASSACRES IN KOREA, DECLARES JAPANESE CONSUL

T. Sugimura Says Reports From Far East of Cruel Treatment of Natives Are Misleading.

GUISE OF RELIGION IS USED Political Activities Carried On With Cloak of Church to Gain False Sympathy.

There is a considerable number of students, who were excited by the agitation concerning the problem of the League of Nations and the idea of self-determination of race. "Heaven Worshipers" are a body of Koreans united for political intrigue under a camouflage of religious faith. It has existed for many years, from the time of the Korean emperor, and its constant activity for political intrigue had been a source of great trouble under the old regime, which used to employ the most drastic measures for its suppression. They are a mass of trouble makers who are never satisfied with any governing body. An examination of the character of their leaders will readily reveal the real nature of this party and their motives in taking the initiative in the present unrest.

JUSTICE IN JAPAN'S POLICY

"In the declaration of independence it is charged that Japan's policies in dealing with the Koreans are not progressive, but are oppressive and discriminatory. The policy of the Japanese government in dealing with Koreans ever since the day of annexation has been nothing but justice and fairness. A great number of Koreans have been made government officials in order to carry out amicably the administration's policies in accord with customs and institutions of Korean people. How thoroughly the government policy toward the promotion of the welfare of Korea is carried out is very well illustrated by the criticism of certain Japanese that in Korea it is better to be a Korean than to be a Japanese. "The right of petition is granted to Koreans to the same extent as it is accorded to the Japanese subjects in Japan proper. The Korean language and the Chinese classics are compulsory subjects in the course of study in all the colleges in Korea under government supervision; and even Japanese, in order to qualify for any office in Korea under the Japanese government, must undergo a strict examination in the Korean language.

"As to the present disturbances, it cannot be denied that they are serious, although the greater part of the accusations made against the Japanese regarding cruelty and ill-treatment is pure invention.

MOBS HARASS POLICE

"In the localities where the police force is insufficient, mobs resorted to every barbarous means possible to harass police authorities; they destroyed the stations or set fire to them, and took possession of the property or brutally slaughtered them. Wherever the number of soldiers stationed was not sufficient to protect themselves, soldiers met horrible death at the hands of mobs or were taken into captivity to be tortured. There have been three or four instances of such occurrences. Under such circumstances the government forces were compelled to take up arms simply for the sake of self-defense.

"The government forces have never resorted to arms unless pressed by necessity. The commander of the Japanese troops has issued orders to the soldiers at the scenes of riot concerning their dealing with Koreans, and they are required to use the utmost care in handling the crowds whether they may be mobs or not, lest their conduct should arouse any further animosity on the part of Koreans. Of course, it can not be denied that there have been a certain number of casualties among both the Japanese and Koreans as the result of the clashes between them and sometimes between mobs and mobs. But it must be most emphatically denied that there has been any such grave occurrence as to justify the application of the word 'massacre' to any one of them, a word which has been too often used in the dispatches from Korean sources. The report that soldiers severed both arms of a little girl is absolutely false.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM ALLOWED

"The Japanese government has paid the utmost respect to freedom of religion in Korea; and has not in a single instance caused any church to be closed as charged in the report, although some preachers of Heaven Worshipers and some native pastors of Christian churches who were directly responsible for disturbances, have been arrested. If students were coerced to join mobs in the hope of obtaining the sympathy of their countrymen and especially of foreigners. Where there were obvious offenses, they were arrested and irrespective of their sex; there is no truth in the report of the mistreatment of women by the government forces.

"As regards the report that in Ping-yang an American missionary was beaten by Japanese soldiers with the butts of their rifles, the American consul asked the Japanese authorities for an explanation, and it was disclosed upon investigation that the American missionary was merely passing a message when the Japanese guards attempted to disperse the crowd in order to insure the safety of bystanders from possible injury. The charge that in Sosen, Japanese soldiers searched the home of an American teacher and intruded into her bedroom was, after an investigation by the American consul, proved to be entirely false. There was not a single instance where any American missionary was purposely subjected to indignity or shame at the hands of Japanese. The charge that the Japanese authorities have, through mistake, arrested the American consul is too preposterous to dignify it with any denial.

DOING BEST TO MISREPRESENT

"It is evident that the agitators in Korea, with the cooperation of those residing in Vladivostok, Shanghai and a few places in America, are eagerly trying to excite the sympathy of the outside world by circulating much false and exaggerated news which falsely attributed to the Japanese soldiers many acts of cruelty. These agitators apparently are doing their best to misrepresent the present situation in order to impress those who live at a distance and who are not in a position to know the real facts, with the false idea that the Japanese are persecuting the Koreans.

"The trouble is more serious in the northern parts of the peninsula into which there is a probability that lawless elements imbued with Bolshevism would swarm from Siberian territory. In the seats of disturbances lawless elements are taking advantage of the disorder; innocent people are forced to join mobs; in some provinces bandits are pillaging homes of peaceful residents; and incalculable damage to property and business is being done. Order must be restored as soon as possible. At first the disturbances were not serious, and were confined to the cities and towns. The authorities entrusted the police departments in the affected districts with the handling of the situation; but the mobs, taking advantage of the lenient attitude of the government, have increased their activities until now lawlessness prevails in many parts. This has impelled the Japanese government to take more decisive steps toward the suppression of disorder, and has resulted in its dispatching a military contingent consisting of six battalions and 400 gendarmes to cope with the situation.

"It is sincerely hoped that order will be completely restored at no distant date, thus bringing back to the people the peace and prosperity which they formerly enjoyed."

JAPAN SENDING MORE SOLDIERS INTO KOREA

Seoul, Korea, April 13.—(Delayed.)—(U. P.)—More than 1000 Japanese troops and a few hundred gendarmes arrived at Pusan this morning from Tokyo for guard duty in connection with the Korean uprising. In addition to these forces, two complete divisions are en route from Japan. Lieutenant General Asakawa, in charge of Japanese military operations, issued a notification to Koreans that the dispatch of troops from Japan is necessary as a result of the growing violence and extent of the rioting by nationalists. He called upon the business interests to resume their business without fear.

Koreans are warned to refrain from meetings in mass numbers "lest the Japanese authorities be obliged to resort to decisive action."

HOUSE OF AMERICAN MISSIONARIES ENTERED

Seoul, Korea, April 14.—(Delayed.)—(U. P.)—Tokyo, April 14.—The Japanese have been examined in connection with the riots of Korean nationalists, says an official announcement from the dispatch of troops from Japan. They have been held at Ping Yang and Chin Nam-poo prisons.

Forty-seven have been sentenced, the statement of the Japanese government. The prisoners are full, but soon can be made to make more if necessary. The statement says that American missionaries' houses were searched and that two American missionaries named Mowry and Goodrich were taken following an examination. Mowry was detained at Ping Yang, but Moffett was released.
