

FOREIGN AFFAIRS OF HUNGARY KEEP
BELA KUN ON RUN

Former Secretary to Lenin Is One of Most Interesting Characters in Communist Regime

WORKS EXTREMELY HARD

Gives Personal Attention to Multitudinous Duties From Personal Interviews to Matters of State

By A. H. Decker
Special Wireless to The Journal and The Chicago Daily News.

Budapest, Hungary, April 17. (Delayed)—One of the most interesting characters in the communist government is Bela Kun, former secretary to Lenin and an intimate friend of Alois Munz, the Czech Bolshevik. From Russia Bela Kun brings experience which Saumelly and Alfary, his assistants, translate into action.

These men work extremely hard, for there is a personal rule and they must construct popularity. The foreign office in the old palace of Francis Joseph is crowded daily with all kinds of people—delegations of peasants with packs on their backs, women asking for favors in lodging or funds, committees of Red guards, foreign government representatives and, now and then, a British naval official and journalists. From one to the other Bela Kun hurries, always talking rapidly, breaking off to phone or retire to an inner room with a more important visitor. The entrance is always guarded, usually by one soldier.

Policy One of Peace
When I and a number of other newspaper men called on him, before granting the interview requested he waited until a girl had asked for our positions or passed. The interview took place at a table at the head of which was Alfary and Kun himself at the other. Bela Kun answered our questions frankly and even told us to come again with more.
He said:

"Our foreign policy is entirely one of peace. We recognize no economical frontiers and hence there can never be any necessity for territorial conquests or nationality. Territorial integrity is not important and likewise questions as to our internal policy determines our foreign policy. We are always anxious for support of majorities in other countries, especially of the working classes. Everything depends on the will of the people. We are not at war with the entente, but just the contrary. We expect to settle all differences in a peaceful manner.

"We are on the best terms with America, because we see only the best, with on the part of the Americans. Please send this message to Hungarians in America: There is no further reason for emigration from Hungary. We have a socialistic fatherland now, where the working classes have a home. Before they had no home."

Not at War With Entente
"We are not at war with the entente, but are willing to arrange a peace settlement on the principle of self determination of peoples, but if the entente wishes to enforce its terms with the sword, as General Hoffman did at Brest-Litovsk, then it will find a different kind of war here. It will be an uprising of the people against the oppressors.
Everything depends absolutely upon the entente. Foreign subjects and foreign property will be respected under this regime and both will enjoy full rights.
We do not expect any more from Russia that we do from other countries, namely, solidarity of the working classes. The stories of misery in Russia have been exaggerated to the point where they are lies.

"There is room for freedom in the new social life; indeed, the new system is the only one which safeguards personal liberty. The capitalistic society allowed no personal liberty. It is clear to each Marxist that capitalism, which once promoted individuality, today has become an obstacle. America is proof that formerly a poor man was able to become rich, but that is now impossible. There is no room for the exploitation of one man by another. The new system is really a democracy of the working classes just as before the old system was a democracy of the bourgeoisie." Then the commissioner for foreign affairs hurried away with other visitors and late that night I saw him still rushing from one room to another in his hotel.

Fish Monopolists Guilty
Boston, April 17.—(U. S. S.)—F. Monroe Dyer, New York capitalist, and 16 other defendants in the so-called fish trust case were found guilty by a jury which reported early today. Thirteen other defendants were acquitted. All were charged with conspiring to raise the price of fish during war time and with attempting to create a monopoly in seafood.
