DETENTION CAMPS ON

Commissioner Mann Proposes Camp for Both Women and Men; Cooperation Assured.

Two detention camps for sufferers from social diseases, one for each sex, to replace the Cedars, may be established on the site of the old Multnomah county poor farm. The proposal has been made poor farm. The proposal has been made by City Commissioner J. M. Mann and is approved by Dr. David Roberg, state health officer. Commissioner Mann hopes to get the plan on the special election ballot, the city's share of the expense on which is estimated at $200,-000, to be covered by a bond issue. A series of buildings to make the camp a small city of its own is contained in the proposal. Gardens would be fostered and the homes placed on almost a self sustaining basis according to the plans of Commissioner Mann. Light, water, telephones and other accessories would be easily accessible and room for scores of patients would be provided, it is claimed. At present, only women have such a home, it is shown, and the Cedars is far too small. Room for only 80 patients is available, which is insufficient, Commissioner Mann declares. He further asserts that men can be held in the proposed home under laws passed by the recent legislature. The county would provide the 200 acres for the homes, the federal government and the city erect them and the state maintain them under the proposed plan. It is claimed that both the state and every way possible in the establishment Covers All Canada of the detention camps. Negotiations with the federal government will be with the federal government will be opened immediately, Mr. Mann asserts, and Dr. Roberg is already cooperating with the commissioner in an effort to get the measure on the ballot, Dr. Ro-
