Lieutenant Commander John H. Tower made a careful examination of the two damaged planes and announced that the N. C.-4 can be repaired before night and will make the start tomorrow. The lower elevator and the lower tail surface of the N. C.-4 were destroyed. The fire started while mechanics were filling the gasoline tank of the N. C.-4.

SKINNER & EDDY LOSE RATE FIGHT

Supreme Court Upholds Lower Court in Refusing Injunction to Prevent Increases.

Washington, May 5.—(U. P.)—The supreme court today affirmed lower court decisions against the Skinner & Eddy corporation in its attack on iron and steel rates to the Pacific coast, which were put into effect in June and July, 1918.

The suit was a part of a rate controversy between coast cities and western interior cities.

The corporation asked an injunction against the interstate commerce commission order, although the real complaint was that the roads raised coast rates when they should have reduced rates to intermediate points.

This suit involved an increase of 10 per cent on 100 pounds in freight rates on iron and steel articles from Pittsburg to Portland, Seattle and other coast cities. The increased rate was made effective December 1, 1918, and Skinner & Eddy brought suit in the United States district court in Portland, asking for an injunction to prevent the interstate commerce commission from collecting the extra charge.

Judges Gilbert, Wolverton and Bean tried the case in this court and denied the injunction. The suit was based on the last paragraph of the fourth section of the act to regulate commerce which provides that "whenever a carrier by railroad shall, in competition with a water route, reduce rates on the carriage of freight between competitive points, it shall not be permitted to increase such rates unless, after a hearing by the interstate commerce commission, it shall be found that the proposed increase rests upon changed conditions in the elimination of water competition."

Freight rates on iron and steel were reduced from Pittsburg to coast points from 80 cents to 45 cents per 100 in April, 1918, after the companies had shown that the reduction was necessary to meet water competition via the Panama canal. Letter when the canal was closed because of slides and when the demand for ships for war purposes eliminated the shipment of goods from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, the roads increased their rates, without a hearing by the interstate commerce commission.

T. J. Teal and W. C. McCullough represented the Skinner & Eddy company in the suit for injunction in the Portland court and Mr. Teal argued the case before the United States supreme court at Washington in March.

Police Start Drive On Gambling Joints

Starting a vice crusade intended to rid the city of gambling "joints," Police Lieutenant Thatcher and Sergeant Van Overan Saturday night distributed 60 copies of the new city fire ordinance prohibiting the use of barred doors in the city.

Police houses that in the past have had barred doors on the premises are appearing in the police court under a $100 bail and will hear a thorough explanation of the ordinance by one of the deputy city attorneys. OREGON IS CLAIMANT FOR HONOR

Position at Head of Victory Loan Column Is Disputed With Iowa and Michigan Leaders.

Finished the Job First Without Assistance of Banks, Is Base of Contention by Directors.

Washington, May 5.—(U. P.)—Rivalry for the honor of being the first state to complete its Victory Liberty loan quota has resulted in a dispute between Oregon, Iowa and Michigan.

Oregon, according to official reports to the treasury today, has oversubscribed her quota without the assistance of banks. Her loan directors now accuse Iowa and Michigan committees of having permitted banks to underwrite the subscriptions in those states.

In a telegram to the national war loan directors, the Oregon state committee lays formal claim to the distinction of having finished the job first, and demands proof that Iowa and Michigan did not let the banks carry their allotment, instead of distributing it in individual subscriptions.

Oregon has oversubscribed her quota to the Victory Liberty loan by between $500,000 and $1,000,000, according to estimates ventured today by Victory loan officials.

The oversubscription of the state outside Portland totals $177,975.

The Jonathan apples are also badly hit, as well as such garden truck as tomatoes, beans and potatoes. It is estimated that one third of the strawberry crop was destroyed. The damage was confined to numerous small areas in which the precaution was not taken to set out smudge pots, which would have cooled the air to 25½ degrees, within 1½ degrees of the lowest record temperature in this region for this time of year. The low temperature was recorded at the federal building and is probably slightly higher than the actual temperature throughout the valley.

Visitors Greeted Under Giant Oaks by the Hood River Commercial Club.

By E. C. Brownlee

Fairyland, spread in gorgeous relief under a canopy of cloud-edged sky and against a background in which old Mount Hood loomed as a grim sentinel over a happy valley, strewn with millions upon millions of the snowy petals of beautiful apple blossoms, and with a fairy queen as dainty as any storied heroine, received on Sunday a great many very human, very happy visitors from Portland.

Upon a verdant carpet between rows of blossomed trees Hood River folk, with the aid of the Portland Ad club and many other visitors, celebrated in true "valley of peace" fashion, the annual apple blossom festival of the famous Hood River valley.

Everywhere were the wonderful apple blossoms of a natural fairyland whose description beggars words and in the midst of this hundreds of men, women and children gathered from far and wide to forget the cares of the day and to know only that a masterful nature had set a perfect stage for the enactment of a drama the like of which makes man marvel.

After an early morning automobile trip over the Columbia river highway, almost 70 miles of travel, the Portland Ad club, and the families of its members, led by Marshall Dana, president, and Todd Hazen, chairman of a special committee, were greeted at the Hood River Chautauqua grounds, shaded by giant oaks, by the Hood River Commercial club, with C. W. McCullough as chairman.

A picnic lunch in which the two clubs joined for pleasure, preceded the apple blossom festival that few of the visitors will soon forget.

All the wonders of the Hood River valley fairyland opened to the festival ceremonies as a long chain of automobiles drove over the west side roads, the dust forgotten in the beauty of the surroundings, to the heart of the prosperous, blossom-mantled apple growing district.

There, beside a giant apple tree bending its branches to the ground under a mass of blossoms, the festival was held.

RUTH GARRISON IS PLACED ON TRIAL

Great Difficulty Experienced in Handling Crowds at Seattle Court.

Seattle, May 5.—(I. N. S.)—Ruth Garrison, 18 years old, who on March 18, according to her alleged confession, killed a young man in a fruit cocktail eaten by Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Storrs in a downtown tearoom, was placed on trial here today in the superior court on a charge of first degree murder.

It is possible that counsel for the accused girl may attempt to link up the temporary insanity defense with an operation performed two years ago, after which a considerable quantity of paraffin was injected into her forehead. The operation was performed by Dr. Copeland Plummer, who returned to Seattle Saturday with base hospital company 50.

Great difficulty is being experienced in handling the huge crowds which are seeking admission to the courtroom.

Thomas M. Askren, assisted by former Prosecuting Attorney A. H. Hillen of Skagit county, are attorneys for the defense.

2 BANDITS GET $7000 IN MONEY

Washougal Bank Held Up by Highwaymen Who Escape in Auto With Pile of Currency.

Cashier Keet and George Dibble Compelled to Throw Up Hands; Woman Saves $50,000 Bonds.

Two masked automobile bandits this morning, at 9:30 o'clock, entered the Clarke County bank, in Washougal, held up Cashier T. S. Keet, George P. Dibble, a customer, and two young women assistants and made away with $7000 in currency, Miss Kathryn Keet, daughter of the cashier, followed the pair to their car, left a block away, and obtained the license number, Oregon 58545.

A car bearing the same number and apparently owned by Robert Y. Calhoun, 822 East Ash street, was located in an east side garage this afternoon and had not been used recently, it was said.

The robbers drove up the Washougal river, crossed the bridge and turned back toward the Columbia, followed by several automobiles filled with Washougal men. Near Cape Horn former Sheriff Tappington and several men in one of the pursuing cars were reported to be about a quarter of a mile behind the robbers.

The robbers were forced to leave their machine in Bear Prairie, nine miles westward of Washougal, and when the last bandit turned back, disappeared two miles from the Goodall Logging company camp, on the Washougal river. The posse following are understood to be waiting for the arrival of officers who are on their way to the spot in automobiles.

The quick wit of Miss Keet probably saved $50,000 in Liberty bonds, which she had just taken from the vaults. She had placed a bond on a counter near the safe. When the first robber entered she started out the back door, but the second robber appeared and ordered her to return. She stepped back to a position in which her shoulders hid the bonds.

The bandits also missed about $10,000 in bonds in a pouch in the safe, although the bandit who forced Keet to open the safe had turned over the currency to the other bandit. The bandit also took up in his hand the $7000, which he packed in $2000 in bonds in an envelope, dropping the package when Keet told him the papers were not of value.

As the robbers fled, Keet picked up some small change on a box containing several hundred dollars in gold but the box was empty when she returned.

"I was seated at my desk opening the morning mail when the first robber entered," said Cashier Keet. "I had picked up a pamphlet describing and pleading a bank robbery when I turned to see a man standing near me with a gun pointed at my head. I asked if he wanted me to put up my hands and he said he did. I complied.

"The men were of medium size or less, one light and the other dark. One was slender and the other stout. The latter ordered me to open the vault for him. Both wore white handkerchiefs over their faces. They wore brown overalls.

"Mr. Dibble came into the bank while the robbers were at work and was ordered to put up his hands. The men carried automatic pistols.

"Two attempts have been made to rob the bank before, one three years ago and the other five years ago. No one was in the bank on either occasion."
