RED CROSS WORKER SAYS TOVERI EDITOR REFUSED HER NOTICE

Asked That Note of Thanks Be Published.

That the editor of the Toveri, Astoria innish newspaper, whose publishers, W Reivo, A. J. Partan, Franz Niemi and Jacob Kulvala, are on trial in the federal court on espionage charges, refused to print Red Cross notices, was the testimony this morning of Mrs. H. Alta Me-

Mrs. Meserve, Red Cross worker of Astoria, on the stand said: "On January 15, 1918, I went to the editor of the Toveri and requested him to print a statement, signed by myself, for the Red Cross, thanking the Finnish people of Astoria for their subscriptions to the organization. He refused to accept my copy and told me that he did not believe in the work of the Red Cross and was opposed to lending assistance to charity in any form.

"On March 22, 1918, with Mrs. James T Jeffries, I went to him again, asking his co-operation in Red Cross work. He refused. He told me he was in sympathy with the shipyard workers, then striking in an Astoria shipyard, but not at all in favor of the struggle in Europe.

He denied With absolute disregard of danger durknowledge of "Bees and Butterflies," "Scientific Socialism" and other alleged scurrilous books having been in the Toveri's bookstore stockroom. Under cross examination by Barnett H. Goldstein. first assistant United States attorney, who is prosecuting, he said he had been connected for six years, prior to going to Astoria, with the Raivaaja, Fitchburg, Mass., Finnish paper which, during the war, was suppressed from the mails. Franz Niemi, one of the publishing ompany's directors, the last defendant to testify, admitted that he saw advertisements in the Toveri urging that read. He has been in the United States 17 years, he said, but an interpreter translated his testimony. In arguing a motion for the court to direct the jury to acquit the defendants, Tom Mannix, their counsel, asserted that Goldstein sought to convict them because they were Socialists and that he had not presented evidence showing that the espionage act had been violated.
