BONUS ALLOWANCE SMALL During this year the minimum wage has been increased from $65 to $80 per month. This incresse applied, however, to but a few teachers. The bulk of the teachers have been receiving the maximum salary allowed by the schedule fixed by law, which ranges from $1200 to $1300 per year up to $3500. Added to this schedule for the first months of the present calendar year is the amounts voted as a bonus by a recent meeting of the school board when it borrowed $100,000 for the purpose. This bonus amounts, in approximate figures, to about $3 per month to each teacher. Some discussion has arisen as to the distribution of the increased amount, should it be voted, particularly as to whether it would be spread out in a gen-eral bonus increase of 30 per cent of the salaries now paid, or whether it would be apportioned so that those receiving the smaller salaries would be given larger increases than those now standing at the top of the salary list. The call for the election stipulated that the apportionment should be made "at the discretion of the board." The board has not officially expressed its intention in the matter, though it is understood that the unofficially ex-pressed opinion of different members is to the effect that some arrangement should be perfected which would give the lesser salary the biggest proportion-

A report has just been completed by Jean Richardson and C. E.
