Missing Girls From Two Oregon Towns Sought by Police. Two distracted families outside of the city appealed to Portland police department Tuesday to assist them in finding their missing daughters. One appeal came from Mrs. M. A. Tolosano of Ridge, Ore., who reports that her 18-year-old daughter, Nina, disappeared March 28. No reason is given for her leaving home. She was dressed in a black velvet coat, large black velvet hat and black shoes with gray tops. She has brown hair, blue eyes and light complexion. The other missing girl is Helen Small, 17, who disappeared from her home at Corvallis May 13. Her mother, Mrs. C. E. Small, says she ran away with another girl. Helen weighs about 94 pounds and has dark hair, brown eyes and is a brunette. She wore a yellow sweater with purple trimmings when she left home. Anyone seeing either of the girls is asked to notify the police or the women's protective bureau.
