In addition the fleet corporation will supply ship fittings, such as engines, boilers, winches, capstans, anchors, cables, etc. In the majority of cases material for the completion of the vessels has been accumulated and is in the yards.

It is pointed out that wood ships offer excellent opportunities for contractors to supply vessels, barges, coal and ore carriers, or for installation of Diesel engines if considered more desirable.

The hulls will be sold from wood yards in Maine, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, California, Oregon and the state of Washington. Man Suffering From Old Injury Ends Life

The Dalles, May 24.—Robert Spickerman, aged 63, committed suicide at his home here Friday evening by shooting himself through the head with a shotgun. Mr. Spickerman sustained an injury to his brain in a fall from a horse six years ago and was subject to fits of insanity. While the family was absent from home he went into a woodshed and took his life. His body was found by his wife upon her return from a shopping trip. Besides his wife he was survived by five sons and one daughter.

Memorial Services For Soldiers Sunday At The Auditorium

Memorial services for the soldiers of allied nations and the United States who fell in action will be held at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Allied British societies of Portland. For the evening a splendid program has been arranged and a large number of the churches of the city are agreed to donate their regular Sunday evening service that attendance at the Auditorium may not be limited because of conflicting interests.

The service will be of added importance to former or present British subjects, too, because of the fact that it commemorates the centenary of Queen Victoria's birthday. Music will form an important feature of the program, which will start at 8 o'clock.

SOLDIERS ASK FOR THEIR BONDS; WAR DEPARTMENT BLAMED

The war department is blamed by Senator Chamberlain for the non-delivery of Liberty loan bonds paid for on the installment plan by soldiers and sailors in the United States. An investigation will be inaugurated to locate the cause of delay, declares the senator.

Several hundred Portland men who enlisted in various branches of military service during the war are now attempting to secure bonds which they subscribed and paid for while in the service. But officers and Liberty loan officials have been overwhelmed with complaints of this nature and their efforts have resulted in the delivery of a number of bonds to their owners.

A great many of the cases coming before the local officials, however, are still unsettled. In many instances the men subscribing for bonds were incapacitated by wounds, sickness or other cause before payment was completed. It has been the policy of the government to return money paid on bonds in such cases, but the process of it is slow and the men are impatient.

Failing to get results through application to regular channels of the war and treasury departments, a telegram was sent to Senator Chamberlain asking his assistance in locating and securing delivery of missing bonds. In the senator's reply, dated today, he states that the matter has been taken up with the secretary of war and that if prompt action is not forthcoming an investigation may be had to locate the trouble.

CONTEST IN BIG ESTATE LOSSES OUT

able of knowing or understanding what was doing or capable of understanding her property or what persons should be the objects of her bounty.

MUCH TESTIMONY OFFERED

An answer was filed by Strong and Mead individually in which they denied the allegations enumerated and asked that the will be set aside as testamentary capacity on August 18, 1915; whether she understood the nature of the business in which she was engaged, whether any fraud or undue influence was practiced upon her, and whether she signed the will in question. If these questions are answered in the affirmative then the will must be sustained.

SANE WHEN MAKING WILL

"The subscribing witnesses to the will are clear and positive that Mrs. Falling knew and understood the nature of the business in which she was engaged at the time she executed the instrument in question and that she was competent to make such instrument. Their testimony is entitled to great weight. They had known Mrs. Falling for a long time and they knew her as to her mental capacity to make a will at that time. The law is well settled in this state that if a person is competent at the time he executes his last will, it is a valid instrument, notwithstanding a very short time before or after he was insane or incompetent.

"The whole cause may be summed up in a few words: In the winter of 1910-11 Mrs. Falling was very ill with a gripper; at times she would make insane remarks. PROOF OF SANITY SHOWN

"This may be regarded as the beginning of Mrs. Falling's ill health. In the spring of 1911 she went to a cottage in Irvington, N. J., for a rest. During that quiet home life would be beneficial to her. She soon returned to the Sargent hotel and remained there until the fall of 1914, when a large number of witnesses testified that during those years Mrs. Falling was insane and incapable of transacting business. Being confronted with evidence by Mrs. Falling's handwriting and otherwise that she was sane and capable of transacting business, contestants were forced to admit that Mrs. Falling was sane at the time she executed the will on June 5, 1914; and that the controversy as to her sanity begins after that time.

"A careful analysis of the testimony, however, reveals nothing materially different in the general state of health of Mrs. Falling after June 5, 1914. Insane remarks are still made by her, according to some witnesses, and according to others she was well able to transact business and dispose of her estate.

NO UNDUE INFLUENCE

"I have no doubt that there were times when Mrs. Falling was insane and incapable of transacting business of any kind and that at others she was perfectly sane and rational and knew well what she was doing, although her mental condition had for some years been growing slowly weaker. Upon no other theory can the very conflicting testimony in this contest be reconciled.

"I find that the will was executed during a lucid interval; that the testament was and understood the nature of the business in which she was then engaged and those whom she was making the objects of her bounty and that no undue influence was exerted upon her."

Prediction Is That Allies Will Terminate Truce if German Signatures Are Refused.

Paris, May 24.—(U. P.)—The treaty will be signed by the allied and German delegates between June 10 and 15—the armistice will be broken—the forecast in peace circles today.

The Germans are now expected to hand the allies their counter proposals by May 29. These will be printed in book form and will be almost as voluminous as the allied treaty. The mechanical part of the work has been held up. The train bringing the German printing machinery to Versailles met with some misadventure at Cologne, delaying its arrival until Sunday.

The present indications are that the allies will take four or five days to study the German counter proposals before replying and will then allow the Germans about the same time to make up their minds about signing.

A report understood to have been forwarded by the allied treaty negotiators to Karl Kautsky, one of the leaders of the German Independent Socialists, was in Versailles to confer with the enemy delegates, was denied today by the French mission.

SPLIT DEVELOPS ON HUN COUNCIL ON PEACE TERMS

Germans in Agreement

Copenhagen, May 24.—(I. N. S.)—Complete agreement was reached at the conference of German leaders at Spa Friday on the reply Germany is to make to the allies' peace treaty, it was stated in a semi-official dispatch from Berlin received here today. The Politiken also received a dispatch from Berlin stating that the opinion is generally held here that Germany will sign the treaty after a few amendments have been made. It was learned from Berlin today.

Premier Philipp Scheidemann, Dr. Matthias Erzberger, head of the German armistice commission; Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, and Dr. Dernburg, prominent German publicist, went to Spa to confer with Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation.

SOLDIERS AND WORKERS SAID TO FAVOR TREATY

London, May 24.—(I. N. S.)—The German soldiers and workmen have voted today in favor of the peace treaty, says a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen. A resolution condemning the German government was adopted after a stormy session.

Winnipeg Strike Still On, but Living Conditions Improve

Winnipeg, Man., May 24.—(I. N. S.)—Failure of the committee which has been in conference here to agree upon a plan for the settlement of Winnipeg's general strike today has appreciably lessened hopes for an early adjustment of the situation. The committee adjourned early today with hope of the fundamental differences between employers and strikers adjusted.

Two companies of mounted police have been added to the military forces held in reserve to maintain order. A cavalry force of 1500 is now held in reserve here. Living conditions still far from normal, although there has been a noticeable improvement. One daily paper was printed yesterday, carrying news of the peaceful settlement. Other daily papers appear to be preparing to resume publication next week.

ATTORNEY CALLED 'ASS' IN LETTERS

Mrs. Stocker's Letters Brought Into Big Suit Over Millions of 'Lucky' Baldwin.

Los Angeles, May 23.—(U. P.)—Attorney Gavin McNab of San Francisco again was the first center for the fire of Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker Friday when she resumed her testimony in her fight to retain control of the millions left her by her father, E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin.

A bitter letter Mrs. Stocker had written from New York to her son-in-law, Joseph Mullender, in 1917, was read by attorneys to Mrs. Stocker.

"McNab sure is an ass," the attorney read. "He is always blowing about borrowing money for me as if it was some great favor.

"Go him," Mrs. Stocker commented when she saw the letter. "He never borrowed much for me."

"How much did he borrow for you?" the lawyer asked.

"I have a hundred thousand dollars," was the answer after the court had overruled the lawyer's objections.

HAD NEW 'AFFINITY'

Court took a sudden adjournment when attorneys for Albert Snyder, plaintiff in the action, offered in evidence several letters Mrs. Stocker is alleged to have written while in New York. The court wanted time to consider the letters.

"I have a new affinity, a baron in New York," read one of these. "On 25, I am a kid-snatcher. Walt (referring to Walter McGinley, Mrs. Stocker's business manager) is wild. He's in Chicago, but where we are all just dandy. I'm as fat as a pig."

Another said: "What do you know? Stuart wired me to come to Arcadia. He is the bugle, for hate Arcadia. Los Angeles is not enough. After returning from New York, I think I'll ever be able to stand Los Angeles."

NICKNAMED 'HABEN'

A letter from Atlantic City read: "I came very near putting Walter under the table some time ago. I was keeping his head above water. Walter is the meanest out. He is a jealous old cat-wants us all by his lonesome, and he never lets us get on our feet. I'm as fat as a pig."

Stuart wired me to come to Arcadia. He is the bugle, for hate Arcadia. Los Angeles is not enough. After returning from New York, I think I'll ever be able to stand Los Angeles."

TREAT DEBATE TO GO ON IN SENATE

Opponents of League of Nations Plan to Continue Speech-making Until Settled.

Washington, May 24.—(I. N. S.)—By having his disputed resolution—providing for the submission of the peace treaty to the senate without further delay—"unfinished business" at the close of Friday's stormy debate, in the senate, Senator Johnson, Progressive Republican of California, today had succeeded in a parliamentary maneuver that will permit discussion of the treaty and the League of Nations covenant to be resumed at any time that body until his measure is finally disposed of.

Johnson expressed himself today as being more than satisfied with having opened up a "free and full" discussion of the treaty and covenant which will keep the dual document before the senate from day to day until the president's reply from the treaty. His promised action is regarded as certain to provoke another heated debate.

Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, who is another uncompromising foe of the proposed entry of the United States into any League of Nations, "which would involve the American people in entangling foreign alliances," was prepared to deliver on Monday one of his characteristic attacks on certain aspects of the league. Senator Johnson planned to speak on Monday, too.

DEMOCRAT WILL TALK

The first of the administration senators to deliver a prepared speech in behalf of the league will be Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, who is scheduled to address the senate next Tuesday.

A large part of next week was expected to be consumed by the senate in debating the treaty and the league covenant. The Republicans and Democrats here agreed on but one feature of the document, that embodying the provisions from compelling Germany to make full reparation for provoking the world war.

There were unmistakable indications that the senate would continue to be a storm center of hot argument for and against the league right up to the time the president appears at the capitol to explain the treaty.

The suggestion of Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and other Republican senators that the president and other American participants in the peace conference, be called before the senate foreign relations committee when the treaty is considered by it, was reported to be gaining in favor at the capitol, although Senator Lodge of Massachusetts was said still to be withholding his O. K. of the plan.

Hand Grenades Now Dime Savings Banks

Washington, May 24.—(I. N. S.)—The government has found a unique use for the 15,000,000 hand grenades left over when the armistice was signed. They are to be converted into dime savings banks. It was announced this afternoon and several large concerns are being interested in the proposition. Surplus stock of all kinds still to be sold by the war department are valued at $1,685,370,000. Sales since November 11 have reached a total of $236,136,000.

Girls in Training Home Battle With Police and Win

Alameda, Cal., May 24.—(U. P.)—Bed slats, hot water, flits and finger nails were among the weapons used by 50 inmates of the California girls' training home when six policemen tried to quell a demonstration. Policemen lost stars and dignity, their uniforms were soiled. Chief of Police Jacoby was dratched. One 16-year-old inmate escaped and has not been recaptured. Matron Fisher said the uproar started on a signal just after supper. The girls are delinquents.

BILL AIMS TO GIVE ARMY NURSES RANK

Representative Raker Reintroduces Measure Designed for Benefit of Women Workers.

Washington, May 24.—Representative Raker, Democrat, of California, has re-introduced in the house his bill to grant military rank to army nurses. It was referred to the military affairs committee, where he will urge that it be taken up for consideration immediately after the army appropriation bill is reported out.

"This legislation provides that a woman superintendent of a military hospital shall have the relative rank of major; assistant superintendent, director shall have the rank of captain; chief nurse, first lieutenant, and nurses, second lieutenants, respectively.

"The bill further provides: 'And as regards medical and sanitary matters and all other work within their professional duties, they shall have and shall be regarded as having authority in and about military hospitals next after the medical officers of the army and shall wear the insignia of the rank to which their rank corresponds.'

Mr. Raker spent two months abroad during the recent congress. While in England, he made an investigation of the system there. He talked to many of the nurses holding military rank and got information which he will be able to put to the committee."

Oregon Batteries Expected to Arrive Monday Morning

That Batteries A and B of Oregon's own field artillery, parts of the 147th regiment of field artillery, will arrive in Portland early Monday morning, is the prediction today following receipt of a telegram from Captain James Gay, in which he stated that the special train was leaving Camp Dodge, Iowa, at 11 o'clock today. The running time from there is something over 60 hours, which probably will be exceeded in this case, as there will be many receptions along the way.

H. U. Welch and Lee M. Clark will leave Portland this afternoon for Huntington, to meet the two veteran batteries at the state line and welcome them to their home city. A large delegation will also meet the boys at Troutdale on Monday morning.

Losses by Fire in Oregon Held Low, MARSHAL REPORTS

Total for Year, $1,829,317.70, Slightly Above the Preceding Year, but Increase Normal.

EDUCATION HELD BIG FACTOR

Many Surveys Made and Fire Departments Reorganized; Five Admit, Four Guilty of Arson.

Salem, May 24.—Nineteen hundred and fifty-six fires, covered in whole or in part by insurance, on which $1,829,317.70 in insurance was paid, occurred in Oregon during the year ending on March 31, according to the annual report of Harvey Wells, state fire marshal, just released.

Eighteen deaths resulted from fires during the year, five of these being men, two women and 11 children, seven of them men, two women and two children, were injured.

While the fire loss in Oregon for this period is slightly greater than that of the preceding year, it is only a normal increase and the loss is not nearly so great as that suffered before the institution of the fire marshals office, according to Mr. Wells. This is explained by the campaign of education carried on throughout the state and by the surveys that are being made in the interest of the elimination of fire hazards.

COLUMBIA LOSS HIGHEST

Caseless energy on the part of the fire marshal's department in cooperation with other fire prevention agencies has spared Oregon from the great destruction visited upon other sections of the nation during the war period in the matter of losses to warehouses, docks, elevators, mills, shipping plants, etc., which were the natural target for alien enemy activities, the report contends.

Complete fire surveys have been made in Heppner, Roseburg and Bend during the past year, besides a total of 1292 inspections in 27 counties and 79 towns over the state. Preliminary work or reorganization of fire departments in several small towns is also under way and will be completed in the near future, the report states.

The report gives considerable credit to the press of the state for liberal cooperation with the department in the matter of publicity in connection with its campaign of fire prevention.

Fires of unknown origin cost the insurance companies $506,978.70 during the year, rubbish and sparis added an item of $173,358.31 and matches and careless smokers added still another $154,868.59 to the total losses paid.

NINE GUILTY OF ARSON

Columbia county led the state in total fire loss with $412,314.22 paid on 38 risks, while Multnomah county, outside of Portland—with 718 risks affected by fire, cost the insurance companies only $275,648.25. Wheeler county, with only four risks affected and $2100 paid in losses, is at the bottom of the list.

Thirty-five fires during the year were of incendiary origin, involving an insurance loss of $166,023. Forty-two fires have been inspected, four persons arrested in connection with fires, seven others are under investigation and pending settlement, two have been acquitted, five have confessed and four have been convicted.

Special attention is called in the report to the fire prevention work under the leadership of City Fire Marshal Edwin Greenell of Portland.

The statement of receipts and disbursements for the year shows that the

STOCK TRAIN SCHEDULES ARE TO BE CONSIDERED TUESDAY

Salem, May 24.—Another conference relative to proposed changes in stock train schedules in Portland and Eastern Oregon points will be held in Portland Tuesday. Representatives of the public service commission, the Portland stockyards, shippers and the railroads will attend. A shift in the time of arrival and possible elimination of one train is involved in the proposed change of schedules.

TEXTBOOK COMMISSION WOULD CHOOSE BOOKS WITHOUT LEBDY

Salem, May 24.—Textbooks for use in the public schools during the next few years will be selected by the Oregon state textbook commission at a meeting to be held in Salem June 2. The presence of representatives of publishing companies is not desired at this meeting, the commission has notified Superintendent J. A. Churchhill, Member of the commission for that section, if they can devote their undivided attention to the matter, unhampered by the presence of parties who might have a selfish interest in their action. They have, therefore, requested that none of the publishers' representatives come to Salem but arrange to stay in their offices to have rejected the provisions of the act and 13 were from public utilities corporations not subject to the provisions of the act.

THREE INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS DURING WEEK CAUSE DEATHS

Salem, May 24.—Three fatalities are included in the 388 accidents reported to the state industrial accident commission for the week ending Thursday. These were Martin Paul of Bellanca, logger; Joseph Swartz, Knappa, logger; Louis Lambert, Neverlist, loggier. Of the accidents reported, 564 were subject to the provisions of the compensation act, 11 were from firms and corporations that have rejected the provisions of the act and 13 were from public utilities corporations not subject to the provisions of the act.

LOWER RATE FOR STATE FISH DISTRIBUTING CARS IN SOUGHT

Salem, May 24.—The Oregon public service commission will join with other Western and Middle Western states in protesting present freight rates on state owned fish distributing cars. This announcement was made by Chairman Buchtel Friday upon receipt of a letter from the Minnesota commission asking that the Oregon body join in the protest. Similar requests have been sent to all of the 11 other states which own fish cars—California, Oregon, Montana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Idaho. The protest will seek to reschedule the rate in effect before the railroad administration increased the rate to a war basis.

Fish cars, according to the contention of the Minnesota commission, are in a class by themselves, providing a source of future revenue to the railroads from sportsmen in visiting streams stocked by means of the distribution of the fry and as such are entitled to a lower rate than otherwise accorded.
