FARM FINANCING PLAN TO BE TRIED IN VALLEY FIRST

Oregon Land Settlement Commission Ready to Receive Applications for Help From State.

AVAILABLE FUND IS LIMITED

Operating with the $50,000 now available, the Oregon land settlement commission is ready to inaugurate the new plan of financing farm homes. William H. Crawford, secretary and manager of the commission, will receive applications for the first farm home business to be sold under the commission plan.

The first fully equipped unit will be a 60 acre property in the heart of the Willamette valley. Available funds at present will permit for but one assignment, but applications of other prospective investors will be filed for future use and will be taken care of as fast as additional farm home businesses are made available.

UP TO VOTERS
Inability of the commission to provide more than the first unit of this farm home plan is due to the lack of funds. It is now completely organized, with Whitney E. Bolch, chairman, and has only the $50,000 appropriation made by the last session of the legislature, to carry the work over the two year period until the next legislature. This fund is immediately available, but only sufficient to start the work.

The 6 per cent constitutional limitation on increase of state appropriations has made it necessary to refer to the voters the $5,000,000 reconstruction bond measure for referendum June 3. Included in this total is $475,000 for the land settlement commission, the maximum amount of which may be used to be decided by the state board of control.

MONEY WILL RETURN
Various state governments and the federal authorities have for many years supported agricultural colleges with fully equipped farm management departments. It is mainly from the Oregon Agricultural college that the Oregon land settlement commission will receive its practical direction. The college in turn will base its judgment on the actual business record of many successful farmers.

Money used under the commission plan is simply advanced on farm property and will be repaid to the state eventually from the individuals who purchased the property. For this reason it may be considered a revolving fund, and every time it turns over the commission members believe that new wealth will be attracted to the state, increasing taxable values by building up rural communities.

PAYMENTS MADE EASY
Amounts to be paid down and the amount and number of yearly payments will depend largely upon the qualifications of the selected applicant, according to the plans now outlined by the commission. It will depend largely upon his ability to pay and everything will be made easy by combining the farm home and the farm business on an easy payment basis similar to that provided in most of the large cities.

A farmer will be encouraged to invest the amount a man of average ability will need to acquire a satisfactory equipment. Details of the various farm units will be left to the decision of the applicant. The investor will not be encouraged to assume obligations which he will find difficult to paying off.

FEDERAL AID PROMISED
Secretary Crawford has requested that applicants state the amount of cash they have available and their farming experience and the number of adults and children, with their ages. Since the law says that preference in the sale of all lands acquired by the federal government may be used on land reclamation work in cooperation with the federal government on a basis of dollar for dollar.

Oregon is in a position to proceed at once with $50,000,000 of what is done by the federal government, however.

Ship Workers at Los Angeles Will Walk Out Monday

Los Angeles, May 24.—(I. N. S.)—A call for the 6000 men employed at the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Drydock company, at San Pedro, to go out on strike at 10 o'clock Monday morning, was issued today. The plant will be tied up, according to J. J. Connolly, president of the Metal Trades council, as the result of the failure of the shipbuilding company to recognize seniority rule and the company's announced intention to stand by its custom of employing and discharging men as it saw fit.

Announcement that the strike would be called followed conferences between representatives of 600 machinists already on strike and representatives of the company. The machinists walked out last Tuesday after 140 men had been laid off by the company, and their efforts today to reach an agreement with the company failed.

Lieut.-Gen. Bullard to Command Department

Washington, May 24.—(U. P.)—Lieutenant-General Robert Bullard, former commander of the Second Army in France, who arrived in the United States yesterday, will be commander of the Southern Department of the army.
