Mary Pickford Wins Point In Suit

Judgment of $108,839 Against Her Reversed and New Trial is Ordered.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The decision granting Mrs. Cora Wilkenning a judgment of $108,839 in a suit which she filed against Gladys Mary Moore (Mary Pickford) last November was reversed in the Appellate division of the supreme court and a new trial ordered. The case will in all probability be tried in the June term of court.

Mrs. Wilkenning, whose business is representing authors and artists in placing their works, or photo-plays, upon the dramatic stage or screen and in the field of publication as well as placing stars, told a jury in December 1917 that she had been engaged by Miss Pickford to sell biographical material for magazine and to procure for Miss Pickford more advantageous terms as an actress than those under which she had been acting.

At that time Miss Pickford conceded that the plaintiff's claim as to the biographical sketch was true, and admitted there remained $337.07 on that account, and expressed her willingness to pay it. She said she had offered $500,000 to Mrs. Wilkenning but she had refused it, asserting she was instrumental in obtaining a $10,000 a week drawing account together with a bonus of $100,000. The jury sustained Mrs. Wilkenning's claim and she was awarded the amount with interest. Justice S. K. Merrill in his decision, in which the other justices of the appellate court concurred, wrote that the defendant was herself apparently a business woman of no mean ability and she had the personal attendance and counsel at all times of her attorney, a business manager and her mother, a woman of sound business judgment and experience, and therefore it taxed one's credulity to believe that the defendant, circumstanced as she was, would enter into a verbal contract with a comparative stranger inexperienced in the particular role he assumed whereby she was to pay the latter one-tenth of her receipts in consideration of her acting as her business advisor and in finding her real value as testified to in the case.

WITH AUTHOR AND PUBLISHER. "It is harmful to drink water with our meals," has been the rule handed down from one generation to another, but Philip B. Hawk, author of "What We Eat and What Happens to It," has entirely exploded this old fallacy. "Desiring to know just what would happen to a man who drank freely of water with meals," Mr. Hawk says: "I was delighted when one of my college associates volunteered to be the 'goat' for our first water test. And the 'terrible results' which were forecast for us by popular and professional opinion was not forthcoming. In fact, the man gained weight, his food digested exceptionally well, and he was in fine physical condition at the end of his two weeks' ride on our scientific water-wagon." In his book, "What We Eat and What Happens to It," published by the Harpers, Mr. Hawk has given the results of his experiments during the most extensive food investigation ever made.

The Eastern Hemisphere in April, 1919, was a seething caldron; it was stirred by anarchy, civil war and revolution, and above hovered the twin specters of Famine and Bolshevism. The May issue of Current History Magazine, the monthly periodical of The New York Times, contains the official authentic data of the vital phases of events in each nation, presented without bias or comment, telling a story for the month, full of tragic yet fascinating interest.

Girl Says That All Women Flirt. Evanston, Ill., May 30.—(I. N. S.)—That girls are all flirts is the assertion of Miss Mary Bartelme of the juvenile court, who told the Evanston Woman's club that eyes are given to flirt with. Yet, a pretty little 17-year-old miss, just couldn't make her eyes behave, so her father brought her to court; it was "She's a little flirt," said the father. "I can't make her stop it. I don't know what to do." "I told him," said Miss Bartelme, "that every normal woman is a flirt." "Every woman who got a husband flirted to get him. And that is not all those who failed to get husbands are sorry now and wish they had flirted a little." "That's what those eyes of violet depths of blue are for. Blue or violet color. It's all the same."

Baritone Sings Before Big Audience

Joel Mossberg Scores Big Success at First Appearance Here.

JOEL MOSSBERG, baritone of Chicago, entertained a large audience delightfully Thursday night at Swiss hall, in a recital of groups of songs in English, Swedish and Italian.

Mr. Mossberg is making his first tour of the Northwest but is known through phonographic records and his appearances in concert at San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific exposition and Sweden a few years ago and made a wonderful impression there, where male chorus singing has been developed to a high degree.

A voice of exceptional range, beautiful quality and great power, and a man of keen discrimination in interpretation, places Mossberg in the ranks of great singers, and his appearance Thursday night was a great success.

His principal number was the aria "Largo al Facciotto," from Rossini's opera "Barber of Seville." The recital was under the auspices of Nobel lodge of the Order of Vasa, and splendid assistance was given by the Singing Club Columbia, Charles Swenson director.

"I'm afraid I'm struck on this lot of pocket knives." "What's the matter with them?" "They've got cork-radical activities of the police."

THE Stroller notices

THAT there was a regular Christmas-like holiday rush and bustle along the public market last evening. That today all roads lead to God's acre. That when a soldier or sailor returns from service in France, buys himself a pair of civilian shoes, he has to pay a "luxury tax" on them. That that is night's small business for Uncle Sam to be in. That some persons observe the Memorial day flag firing regulations. That others do not. That some strangers might be persuaded to believe that the Columbia highway is the only scenic drive near Portland. That the woods are full of them. That if you don't care to express your feelings you might try parcel post. That you can see almost as many outcasts and gripes along the public market as you can at the Union station.

For Colds, Catarrh or Influenza.

Do you feel weak and unequal to the work ahead of you? Do you still cough a little, or does your nose bother you? Are you pale? Is your blood thin and watery? Better put your body into shape. Build strong! Now's the time.

An old, reliable blood-maker and herbal tonic made from wild roots and barks, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This "nature remedy" comes in tablet or liquid form. It will build up your body, cure your cold, and protect you from disease germs which lurk everywhere. One of the active ingredients of this temperance alterative and tonic is wild cherry bark with stillingia, which is so good for the lungs and for coughs; also Oregon grape root, blood root, stone root, Queen's root—all skilfully combined in the Medical Discovery. These roots have a direct action on the stomach, improving digestion and assimilation. These herbal extracts in the "Discovery" aid in blood-making, and are best for scrofula. By improving the blood they aid in throwing off an attack of influenza and act as oil on machinery. Catarrh should be treated, first as a blood disease, with this alterative; then, in addition, the nose should be washed daily with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy which can be had at drug stores.
