ODDS AND ENDS IN THE NEWS OF TRAVELERS AND HOMEFOLK

Fred Ashley in Town Fred Ashley, one of Wallowa county's trying to rustle a carload or two of automobiles for Wallowa county customers. Mr. Ashley says he has all the equipment necessary to conduct a regu-lar automobile business if he could find any way to locate some selling stock. Wallowa county farmers are willing and able to buy, but automobiles in quantity seem to be represented by the minus sign just about now. Mr. Ashley reports that good rain visited his section recently and Wallowa county warehouse men are all planning extensions to their present equipment as a result of the increased roduction which this additional moisure is sure to produce. Aside from dofew automobiles, when he can get them, and mixing up a little in town politics, Mr. Ashley does a little farming as a side line. His present farm consists of something like a thousand acres, be-sides some back range for a few hundred ship. head of white faced cattle.

liable service. No tourist should leave Portland without making the Columbia River Highway trip, It is worth coming across the continent to make this trip. At every turn new beauties are unveiled. Beauty and charm of nature and art are combined in the Highway which parallels the Mighty Columbia. Crown Point, Latourell Falls, Oneonta Gorge, The Bridge of the Gods, Shepard's Dell, Multnomah Falls, Beacon Rock and the ever-changing views of the snow-capped peaks and of the mighty Columbia must be seen to be appreciated.

imum of expense you can travel from Portland to Hood River, a distance of 66 miles, the entire distance being made on the Columbia River Highway, over a splendid hard-surfaced road. Connections are made at Hood River with the Parkdale Auto Stage, by which you can see the famous Hood River valley. Our company also operates the Tyrrell sight-seeing cars about Portland, as well as the bus to St. Helens. Residents of Portland who have not made the trip up the Columbia River Highway or about the city have a treat in store,

Don't fall to take your visiting friends on a trip about the city and up the Columbia River Highway. Special trips on Saturday and
