Church Makes Very Good Showing

First Free Methodist church of which the Rev. Mr. Beers has been pastor for three years.

The Oregon Conference of the Free Methodist Church has just closed, having been presided over by Bishop William Pearce of Philadelphia. The Rev. Mr. Beers' work has had a decided increase since the time he took charge three years ago, and his pastorate closed because of a three-year limit imposed by the church law.

During this last year the church has been enlarged and remodeled, making it practically a new church. It is one of the most modern buildings in the city.

Rev. Mr. Beers stated that he had taken special pleasure in the work of building the church, as it was being done in honor of Rev. John Glenn, one of the pioneers of the denomination who contributed so much in the earlier days to the success of Free Methodism on the coast.
