New Fuel Costs Little—Wood costs $8 to $10 per cord in the basement. Four and a half cords at $10 would amount to $45 in addition to the labor and trouble of hauling it. If one were to install an Isard kerosene gas burner in the family range and consume one gallon of oil per day, which would be a wasteful amount, the cost for the year's fuel would be no more, and there would be no need to cut ashes to dispose of or debris around the house. Start your fire and it requires no further attention. See it demonstrated at 193 Fourth street, Moose Temple, corner Taylor, or Phone Main 6833 for descriptive circular.—Adv.

Let Us Make Your Work Shoes, and for $7.50 you will get a better pair, made to your order, than you can buy in a shoe store for $10 to $12. We make them of the best leather, in our own factory, and when you buy from us you save both the wholesale and retail profits. We are building up a great trade in these shoes, and if you will try us once you never will wear any other shoe. Sadies' Shoe Factory, Seventeenth and Marshall.—Adv.

PERMITS NECESSARY
TO SET CAMP FIRES
IN NATIONAL FORESTS

Regulations Are Imposed by Supervisor to Prevent Destruction of Green Timber.

Camp fire permits must be secured this summer before anyone may build camp fires on the area in the Columbia national forest known as the Yacolt or Slousson burn, according to an announcement made by Forest Supervisor F. H. Brundage. These permits may be secured from forest officers located at points which must be passed before entering the burn. This step is a special effort to protect the burn, which is about 12,000 acres in extent. Its green timber was destroyed in 1902, and it is now covered with a valuable young growth.

"This is the first time protection of this kind has been put in effect in the Northwest," said Mr. Brundage, "although permits of this character are required on several of the forests in California. It is an intention of the government to prevent the public in any way or to unnecessarily restrict travel through this area, which will be extensively used by huckleberry pickers, campers and others, but by requiring permits the forest officers are able to keep better track of travel on the area and to place responsibility for any fires which might be started by careless campers."

The burn is located on a point in the middle of the Yacolt burn, and several fire crews of three or four men each will be maintained on the area at convenient points during the fire season to permit quick action on fire which may occur.

ODDS AND ENDS IN THE NEWS OF TRAVELERS AND HOMEFOLK

He Likes Change

From an Eastern Oregon cattle range to a Yamhill county logberry patch is something of a change, but J. E. Vandermullen has made exactly such a change and is well pleased. Mr. Vandermullen was in the cattle business for a number of years in Umatilla and Union counties, and thought that the cattlemen lived the life, but he finally tired of the exposure and concluded to try the more restricted and retiring method of making a living and is now the proud owner of a logberry logberry farm. He estimates that his new business will amount to not less than 20 tons. He is offered eight and a half cents per pound, which means $187 per ton. Multiply this by 20 and you will see that his 20 acres will net him a tidy little sum. During the picking season he will require the services of about 60 pickers. Mr. Vandermullen is located near Dundee and is so well pleased with his venture that he expects to purchase additional acreage and to use his own expression, "Go into the business on an Eastern Oregon scale." He was in Portland yesterday to make arrangements for handling the coming crop.

Driver Was Reassuring

A long ride through the mountains heavily charged with minerals, a violent electrical storm that lasted for more than an hour, was the experience of C. M. Allen, telephone engineer of the forest service, who has just returned from a field trip to New Mexico. As the thunder bolts became more deafening and the lightning more lurid, Mr. Allen remarked to the stage driver, "The lightning gets pretty bad around here, doesn't it?" "Yes," replied the driver cheerily, "a man was killed here last week. There's his horse over there now. 'Is that so?' asked Allen, uneasily. "Yes," assured the driver, "and another man was killed over there a month ago. About 12 or 15 persons a year are killed along this road by lightning."

Will Be Discharged Soon

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloyd of Camp Lewis are visiting at the Multnomah, the guests of Major White of the medical corps. Mr. Lloyd is the song leader at Camp Lewis and at one time had a chorus of 10,000 men singing under his direction. He stood upon a 15-foot pedestal so that everyone of the men could see him. Mr. Lloyd has worn the uniform of an officer and has never worn the stripes of a private. He had to mix with both officers and men and did not care to waste time with salutes. He will be discharged June 15 as a captain. Mr. Lloyd is Saturday afternoon on the Columbia river highway and will return to Camp Lewis Sunday night.

Birds and Fish Plentiful

Roy McClellan of Enterprise, who came down to represent the Enterprise and Joseph sportsmen at the recent meeting of the Columbia river fish commission, made it plain that Walla Walla county is the one county in the state where rod and gun artists should journey for their vacation. According to Mr. McClellan, fish are waiting in every stream for the angler and birds are so numerous that law fearing sportsmen are in danger of exceeding the limit while firing at a target. He had a reputation as a fisherman when residing at Roseburg, but Walla Walla county seems to only aggravate his case.

Good Roads Booster

Dr. G. S. Wright of McMinnville, who has been transacting business for the past several days, is another good roads booster who wishes it distinctly understood that his county, Yamhill, is in favor of good roads. As evidence of this fact he cites his friends to the recent election of the county board in the business of making good roads for many years, and now that the state has awakened to the value of proper highways, we are willing to do our part when it comes to a statewide program," said the doctor while discussing election returns.

Proud of Record

Senator Colon R. Eberhard of La Grande passed through this city Saturday on his way to Salem, where he appeared before the Supreme court. The senator takes considerable pleasure in announcing that Union county gave a majority vote for all road measures. "The Union county road program contemplates a million and a half bond issue and there is every assurance that our citizens will give it ample support," is the way the senator sizes up the situation.

Will Help During Fiesta

George M. King, formerly clerk at the Multnomah, has joined the special staff to help out during the Rose Festival week. Mr. King has been vacationing in the country, down in Washington county, where he fished and lived in the open until he acquired a complexion equal to that of any rancher.

GOOD HOUSES—CHEAP IN LOS ANGELES—IS PORTLANDER'S WORD

G. W. Sanborn Compares What He Was Compelled to Pay Here With Place in South.

While Portlanders who are compelled to move find houses almost impossible to get and those that are available are priced too high for rental comfort, Los Angeles has plenty of houses and at cheap rental, according to the experience of G. W. Sanborn, a Portland man now sojourning in the south. Mr. Sanborn writes in a vein that suggests the comparison invidious, but apparently mindful of the fact that Portland has grown of late months much more rapidly than most coast cities and has, in fact, not yet caught up with its increased population.

Mr. Sanborn says: "We have rented for the summer a seven room furnished house, including lawn, shrubbery, potted plants, three large beds, sanitary couch, 15 sofa cushions, four pieces of hand carved Chinese furniture, eight rockers and armchairs and settees, several different type tabourets, gas bath, electricity, large front and enclosed back porch, four closets, 10 good sized oil paintings, hall tree, large mirror, hat rack, grandfather's clock, large back yard and garage, 20 minutes from the heart of the downtown district, at only $30 a month."

"We looked over many desirable places, furnished, for from $12 to $25 a month."

Mr. Sanborn urges Oregonians to get behind good road endeavors. "One thing we men of the north must do and do it quick is to build good broad permanent highways and lots of them in every direction. We can't have too many of them. They mean the stability of the city, as without easy access to the suburban town the city suffers."

"People won't take any chance in places, furnished, for from $12 to $25 a month."
