

HEMATITE LEDGE FOUND IN NEHALEM DIVIDE AT WARREN

Assay Shows 40 Per Cent Iron in Vein Probably Two Miles Long, Is Report.

Considerable interest has been excited in mining circles and among local steel manufacturers by apparently authentic reports of the discovery of a large deposit of hematite iron ore near Warren, a few miles south of St. Helens in Columbia county. The ledge is located in the Nehalem divide and lies between a sandstone and lime formation. Mining men who have visited the latest find declare that they traced the vein for a distance of two miles. The ore is declared to be hematite and an assay shows 40 per cent or 800 pounds of iron to the ton. Deposits of "hog iron" also exist in paying quantities, according to the mining men who have investigated the district. Coal in blanket formation underlies much of the territory along the Columbia river and in the vicinity of Warren four feet of coal in this formation has been cut by well diggers. Plentiful indications of oil are also said to exist in Columbia county.

HERCULES COPPER STRIKE STIRS MINING CIRCLES

Baker, June 16.—What is claimed to be the best copper showing ever made in this vicinity is the ore strike made last week at the Hercules mine, 20 miles northeast of Baker, in the Goose Creek section, and mining circles are considerably stirred over the prospect of opening up one of the biggest copper mines in the Northwest.

The Hercules copper bearing ledge is, judging from the geosans and surface indications, from 20 to 100 feet wide and 800 feet long. The new ore body was struck at a point 105 feet after the first ore shoot was passed through a vertical depth of 180 feet, which would be 200 feet on the ore body. Ore from the face of the ledge shows copper values of from 4 to 6 per cent. Drifting on the footwall is now going on and cross cutting on the ore body will be under way inside the next two weeks. This late showing is one of the most important made in mining in Baker county in a long time. All indications point to permanency and local mining men believe that the Hercules will become one of the big mines of the West, in which case the benefit to the community of Baker is incalculable. It is certain that the present showing is enough to attract the attention of the mining world and make Baker a great center of copper mining.

AUTOMOBILE THIEVES ARRESTED BY POLICE FOR SUNDAY CRIMES

Five Men Caught in Dragnet; One Machine Was Stolen From California Town.

Five alleged automobile thieves were arrested by the police Sunday morning, and two stolen machines which they had in their possession were recovered. One of the cars had been stolen in San Francisco by a trio of youths of that city, on June 6, and driven to Portland, while the other car, found abandoned on the streets by the police at an early hour Sunday morning, was stolen by another thief while the owner was on his way to reclaim it. Woods, 22, and George Dix, 15, were caught by Sergeant Crane and Patrolman Seltzinger at East Twenty-first and Broadway, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning. On being searched by the officers, each was found to be armed with a pistol. Taken to the police station, it was found that the machine in which they were traveling, a new Stutz, had been stolen in San Francisco and reported to the Portland police. The three youths are being held awaiting the arrival of an officer from San Francisco. A few minutes after a policeman had located an abandoned car on the East Side and notified the owner of its whereabouts, Harold Clatt, a 16-year-old high school student, came along and appropriated the machine. He was caught on East Eighty-second street by Motorcycle Officer Kelly with the stolen car, and because of his age was turned over to the juvenile court.

Peter Rithaler, 35 years old, who is accused of taking another man's machine for a trip along the highway and abandoning it five miles beyond Multnomah falls, was arrested by Inspectors Graves and Swennes, and is being held for the larceny of an automobile. The car has been recovered by its owner.
