CHURCHES OF CITY VOTE TO CREATE BIG FEDERATION

Clergy and Lay Delegates to the Number of 400 Participate in Meeting Held Monday Night.

Doctrinal Subjects Are Barred, Working Basis to Be Social Service and World Conversion.

The Protestant Christian churches of the city and suburbs through their clergy and lay delegates assembled in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Monday night by unanimous vote formed "The Portland Federation of Churches."

The Rev. Roy B. Guild of New York city, secretary of the commission or interchurch federations of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, presented to the assembled clergy and lay delegates a tentative constitution such as has been adopted in other the several congregations and com-ian church, chairman of the gathering, asked Bishop Walter T. Sumner to express his opinion of the proposed federa-

"My brethren," the bishop said, believe that God looks down upon us cause of the disunion which exists between us. If the federation is one step forward toward bringing us together with a united front in spreading Christ's kingdom, we want this federation. If doctrinal differences are to be injected into it, we do not want it. I know we cannot agree on all doctrines, but may God grant that we soon may come together under one communion. We can work now in harmony, even if we cannot talk in harmony. We can work together on social service problems, on the need of religious education and of getting into closer touch with the industrial situation. I am glad to work with Dr. Waldo or with Dr. Hinson and your other men. I have read of Dr. J. J. Staub ever since I came to Portland, but I never saw him until tonight. THEOLOGY OUT OF IT Dr. W. B. Hinson of the East Side church said: "I am quite sure if we be met here this evening to discuss our theological differences we come here in vain, for there are things in my communion and in your communion that we intend to stand for. But if this meeting is to take the principles of Christianity and focus them on the need of the world we can succeed. We can come together and combat the forces of evil."

The Rev. Edward Constant of Highland Congregational church spoke briefly in agreement with this federation "This movement is practical," said the Rev. Boudinot Seeley, secretary of the Presbyterian mission board in Oregon. "An unconverted world is the price we pay for our divided church. I believe we are met here with a concrete, workable plan that will be on duty 365 days in the year." At this juncture Chaplain Howard of the Episcopal church moved that the organization of the federation proceed. The unanimous vote of adoption soon

The proposed constitution was adopted and will be referred to the several communions before Monday night when another meeting will be held.

The several communions held brief caucuses when the annual budget of $5000 was adopted. About $5300 in pledges was secured, provided the churches accept the federation. About 400 sat at the banquet table.

Fearing that the controversy between he Frye packing concern of Seattle and the Meat Cutters' union may lead to a general strike which would completely tie up the industry of the city, the Central Labor council has called a mass meeting to be held in The Auditorium Wednesday evening to present the dispute before a public hearing. The Central Labor council has also issued a statement setting out the facts leading up to the existing controversy, which is in part as follows:

One of the provisions of the agree-William Hanley company, appellants, ment was that only members of the contesting validity of organization of When Frye acquired the market he imother members of the Market Men's as- fund. sociation who did not want the existing harmonious relations between employers and employes disturbed. The market at Fourth and Yamhill was operated for several days with the nonunion help before the place was bannered by the union, and every means of effecting a peaceful settlement was exhausted before the banner was resorted to.

FOREMAN DISCHARGED

Even after the pickets were placed the union meat cutters were kept in the Cascade Market. Then the local manager for Frye ordered the foreman in the Cascade Market to appear for work an hour earlier than the usual opening time. He refused to do so unless his shift ended one hour earlier than the regular quitting time. For this refusal to violate the agreement, the foreman was discharged, and all the other union meat cutters were then called out in protest over the discrimination against their fellow worker. BELIEVED FIGUREHEAD He resorts to calling the meat cutters and their supporters Bolsheviki and avoids giving the public the true facts in the case. The union men of the city generally believe that Frye is not acting alone; that he is playing the figurehead for the interests in the city to disrupt the organized labor movement and for the combine, commonly known as the "meat trust." They sincerely believe that the existence of their organizations, through which they bargain collectively, is threatened. With this feeling, there is every probability of all, or practically all, of the Forty-Eight Hours a Week With One Day of Rest Is Decided on by Welfare Commission.

Petition to Work Employes Sat-urday Evenings Is Denied; NEW PLANT FOR Laundrymen Present Scale.

A minimum wage of $13.20 for experienced women with corresponding increases for apprentices, a 48-hour week and one day's rest in seven was agreed upon by the industrial welfare conference in session Monday afternoon Formal action will not be taken until Friday when the hotelmen will have submitted a written report.

John Tait, representing the Portland Laundry Owners' association, presented a proposal that the rate of $13.20 be adopted based on a 48-hour week at a rate of 271/2 cents per hour for experienced workers; that the 48-hour week be subdivided into daily periods of nine hours each, and that permission be granted to employ women 10 hours a day in case of holiday, weeks not to exceed 50 hours with 11/2 time pay. In asking permission to work holiday weeks, Mr. Tait explained the nature of laundry work which increased during such times with a proportionate decrease in workers. The wage scale, it as said, is an increase of 15 to 20 per cent. The question was brought up as to how long a time was necessary to become experienced in laundry work before the minimum wage could be obtained, the laundrymen holding that it required experience in all departments of the laundry.
