Heavy Collection Taken and Full Moral and Financial Support Pledged Strikers Across Line.

SPEAKER URGES BOLSHEVISM

Resolution to Prevent Married Women Working Defeated; Big List of Resolutions Adopted.

Bellingham, June 19.—(U. P.)—The Washington State Federation of Labor today pledged its full moral and financial support to the general strikers of Winnipeg, Vancouver and all Canadian cities.

A heavy collection was taken for the assistance of the strikers, following an address by J. J. Kavanaugh, president of the British Columbia Federation.

"They dare not put martial law into existence in Winnipeg or Vancouver, for they do not know which way the soldiers will shoot," said Kavanaugh.

"The government does not trust its troops," he said.

TROTSKY'S IDEAS URGED
He urged the delegates to adopt Leon Trotsky's "Bolshevism and world peace" as "the best exposure of the evils of German militarism."

A resolution introduced by A. B. Preusse, secretary of the Spokane Central Labor council, prohibiting employment of married women who are supported by husbands, raised a storm from the side of the women delegates today. They succeeded in defeating it.

Mrs. Ed Levi of Seattle asserted that the reason married women have to work is that the men do not make enough money to support them. Mrs. E. B. Ault of Seattle predicted that soon the home kitchen will be a thing of the past, replaced by cooperative kitchens. "And what are you going to do with the women then?" she asked.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Resolutions adopted this morning pledge support to hotel maids in organizing demand that all ships in the United States be built by American citizens or those entitled to become so, call for revocation of shipbuilding contracts let by the United States in foreign countries, protest against deportation of Gopal Zink, Indian, for violation of the neutrality laws, pledge support for automobile mechanics' unions, demand for equal pay for equal work for women with a minimum wage of $18 a week, and petition the American Federation of Labor to organize the Pullman porters.

ADVOCATE OF FREE PORT POLICY ASKS HELP OF PORTLAND

Plan Would Place Full Cost of Developing Ports on the Federal Government.

Advocating that the federal government rather than local committees directly interested, supply the funds for establishing and constructing ports in the United States and adoption of the free port plan as a national policy, Taggart Ashton, consulting engineer of Everett, Wash., conferred with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon. He left this morning to attend a conference to be held in the East June 20. He asked that the Portland chamber send representatives to it.

"Already several cities, notably Los Angeles and Vancouver, B. C., have advocated the free port policy," said Mr. Ashton. "The eastern ports have asked that the government withdraw all support and allow the people in each place that is developed to raise the money themselves."

"All of these ports advocating this proposition are backed by big cities and would have little trouble raising large sums of money for port development, but if such a bill were passed, it would likely mean the elimination of smaller ports."

The directors decided to send a message to the Oregon delegation in congress asking support of the principle that the railroads make a terminal rate to a port and that they oppose any change preventing competitive short haul traffic as covered in the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce act.

The Walla Walla Commercial club appealed to the directors for aid in obtaining more prompt movement of perishable products. Shippers, said the club, are handicapped by refusal of the O. W. R. & N. to accept express shipments on train No. 11 because of transportation delays at Wallula.

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN OF PORTLAND IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

John Gibson Clark Had Been in Saddlery Business Here for More Than Half Century.

John Gibson Clark, aged 83, president of the John Clark Saddlery company, a resident of Portland for more than half a century, died Tuesday night at his home, 75 Park street. Mr. Clark is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rachel Clark; four sons and one daughter, E. L. Clark of Los Angeles; J. A. Clark of Seattle; Roy and W. T. Clark and Mrs. C. M. Apperson of this city. Funeral services will be held at the chapel of J. P. Finley & Son, Saturday at 2:30.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Dena Harris was held from the J. P. Finley chapel today and final services were in Multnomah cemetery. Mrs. Harris was recently a resident of Rathdrum, Idaho, and was the wife of Henry H. Harris and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Green of Richfield, Idaho. She died in this city Tuesday at the age of 21.

Mr. Clark was born in the town of Newry in the county of Down, in Ireland, on the thirteenth day of June, 1836. His father was a native of Ireland and his mother was of English birth. His opportunities for acquiring an education were very limited. When he was 17 years of age he went to Liverpool and learned the harness and saddlery trade as an apprentice, afterwards going to London and Paris, where he worked at his trade as a journeyman.

Arriving in New York from Paris, he worked at his trade for a short time, then came west to San Francisco and thence to Portland, landing here in the year of 1862, where he obtained employment from Sherlock Bros., one of the oldest firms engaged in the harness and saddlery business in Oregon. Through industry and economy he saved enough out of his wages to establish himself in business in the harness and saddlery trade in this city in a small way in 1872 and through close attention to business, fair dealing and a rigid rule of honesty and integrity, Mr. Clark, in the 47 years of business life in this city, built up a large and extensive wholesale and retail business covering all of the Northwest states.

Mr. Clark was greatly interested in the development of this city and of the state and contributed in no small degree to the advancement of the trade and business of Portland. He was the owner of the lot at Fourth and Stack streets which he donated for use of the Home Building association for its model cottage.

Mr. Clark, at the time of his death, had attained the age of 82 years, but until last Saturday he had been a regular attendant at his place of business, keeping charge of and supervising the large business and affairs in which the company was engaged.

LIEUT. COL. SAMMONS IS ACCORDED HEARTY WELCOME BY FRIENDS

Members of Bankers' Institute Tender Banquet to Popular Member Returning From War.

A hearty welcome was accorded Lieutenant Colonel E. C. Sammons, familiarly known in Portland as "Eddie" Sammons, at a banquet given in his honor at the Benson hotel Wednesday evening by the senior members of the Portland chapter of the American Institute of Banking. Colonel Sammons returned to this city last week after serving his country for two years and has taken up his duties as assistant cashier of the United States National bank.

The American Legion, which is composed of veterans who served this country during the world conflict, is going to develop into a big thing, according to Colonel Sammons. "The day is coming," he says, "when it will have an influence and prestige similar if not greater than that of the G. A. R. veterans."

Colonel Sammons was chosen for the legion and "American Legion" was the last upon the list. Almost every other name submitted had the "great war" in it in some way or another. One veteran from Texas objected to "American Legion," saying it had a taint of sick stockings, but that objection was overcome and the name was adopted.

Colonel Sammons told in an interesting way his experiences from the time he entered the service in this country to his return from abroad.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bothers

(Modes of Today)
It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against the appointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Adv.
