Church Wedding Is Brilliant Affair

Many Guests Attend Nuptials of Van Rensselaer Sternbergh and Miss Porter.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Porter and Van Rensselaer Sternbergh was solemnized at Westminster Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening in the presence of a brilliant assembly of guests.

The church was gay in summer blossoms. White lilies with glowing candles and hydrangeas made a lovely setting for the bridal party at the altar.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Irvington. Lovely summer flowers decked the rooms for the affair.

A smart tailor of brown tones was worn by Mrs. Sternbergh as her going away costume. Mr. Sternbergh and his bride left for the east, where they will visit at the home of the former in Reading, Pa.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the annual dinner to be given at the Holy Redeemer church hall, Williams avenue and Portland boulevard, on Sunday. Dinner will be served from 12 till 1 p. m. by the women of the parish.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McNaught left today for Madison, Wis., where they were called by the illness of the former's mother. Mrs. McNaught, who is better known as Mrs. Alice M. McNaught, will continue her journey on to Boston.

MRS. JOHN F. RISLEY, at whose home at Risley station, the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church will hold its annual picnic and cafeteria supper Saturday evening, followed by an informal program.

DRESS by Anne Riffehouse

YOU know there is every possibility of the hobbler hem disappearing from the fashion. All the signs point to the re-statement of the full skirt into first fashion.

It came into fashion in 1914, it went out in 1915, it came back in the form of a deep Russian tunic in 1916, it disappeared to reappear as a mermaid skirt in 1918, and now it looms, swift and menacing over the horizon.

The word "menacing" is used because of the public, not the dressmaker, or at least, that part of the public that does not wish to buy new skirts.

The compromise of the moment, which means the hobbler hem with the hobbled hem, does not fret the economist, for she knows a way to combine one gown with a new piece of fabric and achieve a new costume.

Some fashions are fierce at death and the hobbled hem, with its balloon tunic, has arrived at a point of exaggeration that gives such garments the exact appearance of a Persian or Arabian costume.

A woman at a party may seem to be arrayed in the most up-to-date fashion, if the hem of the frock so voluminous the tunic, so slender the bodice, so floating the tulle draperies.

It is very artistic, and the remarkable feature of narrow skirt is the gathered hem, which is well above the ankles, or the wearer could not move.

The bodice is merely a deep girde closely wrapped about the figure in order to restrain every possible curve. The woman of the hour, you know, must be straight as an arrow.

The sleeves and shoulders of this frock are covered with silver tulle which floats away into a full cape from the right neck across the shoulders.

Exaggerated frock with balloon tunic and hobbled hem, made of gray taffeta covered with bunches of grapes in pale green. Cape and sleeves are of silver tulle.

It is one of the amusing caprices of fashion that grapes should be the chief ornamentation at a time when America goes into prohibition. They are used for embroidery, they are made into tire tubans, they cluster in bunches from the ends of tulle sashes and pointed sleeves.

It looks as though human nature in America had made up its mind that since it can't have the juice of the vine, it will at least have the fruit and the leaves thereof.

Miss Mary Campbell and Miss Martha Sheridan were elected delegates to the Northwest Graduate Nurses conference, including Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, to be held in Glacier National park July 15 to 17, inclusive.

Garden Hints BY SHEBA CHILDS MAROREAVES (OF PORTLAND)

The first period of bloom is practically over for many varieties of roses. They should now be given a little judicious pruning, though if they were properly cut with long stems this will not be necessary.

Thin out the large variety of sunflowers allowing at least a foot each way. No garden is complete without a few of those large blooms. If a single large bloom is desired cut out all branches, otherwise there will likely be a number of smaller flowers.

Sweet corn such as Golden Bantam or some of the small quick maturing varieties may still be planted with a good chance of producing a full late crop. If the fall should be late and warm, medium and late sorts will yield, though there is some risk in planting late corn now.

Cutting Sweet Williams causes the plants to branch and there will be quantities of bloom all summer if seed is not allowed to form. The gardener can afford to be generous; the more he cuts the more he has.

If the early cabbage is beginning to crowd in the rows, cut off a few of the lower leaves; this does not mean cut them all off, however.
