Following a three-day visit at the local harbor, during which time she was inspected by hundreds of Portland peo- hospital. ple, the speedy United States destroyer Rizal slipped quietly out of port early this morning and proceeded on her way

Captain John Anderson, river pilot guided the water craft as far as As-

Commander E. S. Root, in charge of the Rizal, and his crew, went away highly pleased with the treatment afforded them in the Rose City, and likewise those who visited the war vessel here are high in their praises for the courtesies shown them.

The. new 29,500-horsepower fourstacker proved a revelation to many persons who boarded her at the landing at the foot of Jefferson street. Particular interest attached to the ship because of the fact that it was vessels of her type which helped defeat the German submarines in the late war. The modern anti-aircraft guns which can shoot almost straight up in the air were an object of interest, as well as the other fighting equipment and big torpedo tubes mounted on deck.

On her voyage to Portland from San Francisco the Rizal made 26 miles an hour, which is considered good railroad

Her crew, composed mostly of hardy Filipino youths, was the object of special attention, the husky lads presenting a neat personal appearance. The Filipinos, most of whom had seen real service in the navy in the late war, take Albany a special pride in their ship because funds for her construction were supplied by the Philippline government. The Rizal will soon be assigned to the Pacific fleet.

CANAL FLEET TO OPERATE

Beginning July 1 Ships Will Carry Cargoes Between Two Oceans.

New York, June 23 .- (U. P.)-A fleet of 8800 ton steamers will be operated between Pacific ports and European ports via the Panama canal beginning in July, it was announced today by the shipping board of the Emergency Fleet been designated by the shipping board as operators of a fleet of steel ships from Pacific coast ports to Europe.

The only arrangement for the operation of such a freight line heretofore announced is that made by Williams, Diamond & Co. of San Francisco, which firm has named the Columbia Pacific Shipping company of Portland, its local agents. Williams, Diamond & Co. proposes to start its service in July and all main Pacific coast ports are included in the schedule. The operating cluded in the schedule. The operating firm has already been promised steel ships for the service by the shipping board. In light of this fact, it is assumed that W. C. Dawson are merely agents for the Williams Diamond line in Seattle, instead of operators, or, it is possible that the Dawson interests v. m. are in competition with the other firm. If the latter is true, additional sailings from Portland might be the final outcome. 50 KILLED, SCORES

This requirement of unanimous vote the only basis upon which it would be gulfed, here and there a destroyer takpossible to secure assent of the nations to a league of peace, does not emasculate its influence, because its machinery s always ready and under the covenants of Articles 12, 13 and 15 every nation entering the league binds itself to arbi- wore life belts. trate or submit to the league every dispute arising with fellow members, and the same machinery is made applicable where one or both disputants are nonassistance to townsfolk whose members, but are willing to accept membership for the purposes of the particular case.

Governor Burnquist of Minnesota is in SAME PENALTY APPLIED

If a non-member is unwilling to enter the league, and resorts to war, the penalties of Article 16 apply, just as in the case of members of the league who dis- ings. regard the covenants of peaceful settlement. The offending country deemed to have committed an act of war, is subject to embargo, and the council proceeds to consider its recommendation as to military force to sustain the covenants of the league.

If in a dispute between non-members both decline to accept the good offices of the league, the council "may take such measures and make such recommendations as will prevent hostilities and will result in the settlement of the dispute."

The council, in these cases, must under the rule of unanimous decision. The economic boycoft and the cutting of intercourse become obligations of all members of the league, but in the taking of measures of force the council is relegated to a "recommendation" by its sidered the guardian of the German vote.

The pictures drawn of a superstate ordering America around and outvoting her eight to one on the council or by some other figure in the assembly, do not hold up when the covenant itself is examined. Reed, Poindexter, Knox and Hiram Johnson have all helped to muddy the waters on this, as well as other points, which will be made more clear as the discussion of the league goes on.

Almost the entire British fleet, which, rightly or wrongly, was conusual method of decision-unanimous ships, was seaward, engaged in battle practice. It was immediately recalled by wireless.

Meanwhile, the guard ships remaining, mostly trawlers and drifters, believing a mutiny had begun, opened fire both on the German ships and on the boats crowded with escaping German sailors. BRITISH OPEN FIRE Crews that had not taken to the boats immediately began to jump overboard when the British fired. All were for a considerable time in the water before being rescued. Many of the German ships had disappeared before the first units of the British fleet returned at top speed. Every effort was made by tugs, trawlers and drifters to beach the sinking ships.

By 3 p. m., when the whole British fleet had returned, all enemy destroyers had either sunk or been beached. Of five light cruisers two were near foundering. The Hindenburg, 27,000 ton battle cruiser, after an unsuccessful effort to beach her, sank a short distance from Cava island, only her masts and funnels Another battle cruiser turned turtle while being beached, and sank like a stone in less than a minute.
