Reports From Various Sections Indicate State in General Has Been Fortunate—Winter Wheat Better Than Spring Crop—Good Hay Crop.

Harvest is on in nearly all parts of the state. Hay and oats are being cut in the Willamette valley, and wheat and barley in Eastern Oregon. Western Oregon has prospects of good crops in all lines as weather conditions throughout the growing season have been favorable. The weather has been a little chilly, but not enough to materially retard the growth.

The eastern half of the state was not quite so fortunate. Until a short time ago their crops were in the best of condition, but beginning with June the rainfall in many parts of the state caused some of the crops to be discouraged, as the crops appear to be up, but the grain has been washed out of the ground.

The yield per acre of wheat around Pendleton, Echo, Nolin and Tokum will probably go about 30 bushels to the acre, while the yield around the Scott, banker at Riverview, estimates that the harvest in his section of the state will be about 30 bushels to the acre.

From Heppner comes the report that the 1919 wheat crop is better than the 1918 crop. P. R. Heppner, banker at Exchange, predicts a 30 per cent increase over last year's crop. This increase will probably be made up by winter wheat, as spring wheat has been handicapped by lack of moisture.

From all over the Willamette valley reports continue to pour in telling of the heavy hay crop. Vetch is heavy this year, the fall vetch is true, and in some sections it has killed out the grain. Reports would indicate that the timothy stands well this year.

Considerable hay has been cut, some being baled already, but little has been offered to the Portland market. Merchants here believe the farmers are holding off for higher prices, following the receipt of news of the crop shortage in Idaho. Montana and certain parts of Wyoming. Idaho hay crop is said to fall way short of the average, some sections having but a one-third stand. In these reports, however, the heavy stand of hay in the valley need not cause a slump in local prices, as the farmers' surplus will be badly in need of the oversupply in this state.
