Famous Seattle Mayor Writing Book and Attending to City's Affairs, Preventing Trip.

MISS TARBELL IS SPEAKER

Voice and Manner of Speaking Not in Keeping With Message

Chautauqua, July 18.—Ole Hanson, Gregor, Miss Julia Spooner, Miss Ida B. Seattle's famous mayor, will not address a Chautauqua audience, for, according to his reply to an invitation to speak, he is too busy with his new book on the recent labor troubles in his city and with municipal affairs. He was asked to appear Sunday afternoon.

Fair weather and a splendid program drew a crowd of close to 5000 people Thursday afternoon and an equally large audience in the evening. The Recital Artists gave the afternoon prelude, which proved one of the finest programs of the season. The artists comprise Miss Marie Chapman, an accomplished young violinist, who gave several enjoyable solos; Robert Millard, a flutist of exceptional ability, and Lowell Patton, planist and accompanist of first rank. They won repeated encores with their VOCALIST WINS OVATION

Miss Elsie Mae Gordon, who specializes in three types, the negro, the child and the Italian, pleased ehr audience. Her interpretation of the negro campmeeting songs was most realistic.

Mary Adel Hayes, vocalist received an ovation from the largest week-night crowd, responding to encore after en-core. She shared honors with her accompanists, the Recital Artists.

While she brought a great message concerning the "United States at the Peace Conference," Miss Ida M. Tarhell's voice and manner of speech did not have the magnetism to hold the audience, which had sat through the lengthy musical program, and before she was half through more than one third had quietly passed out of the huge

Miss Tarbell gave a plain statement of deliberations of the peace conference, introducing her address with the remark that the president of the United States was the outstanding figure of the entire mbly and its deliberations, and every time he addressed the body his over the country.

At the same time it was pointed ou to the president by Senators McCumber, Colt and Nelson in a friendly way that they believed that if the senatorial oposition to the League of Nations, for instance, was permitted to express itself as to how the United States, in their judgment, was to be committed to the ague covenant, especially with regard to domestic questions any concerted effort to block the early ratification of the treaty would be overcom

The president was also informed by his senatorial visitors that out and out opposition to the entering of the United States into the League of Nations would able. most likely be limited to Senators Borah of Idaho, Sherman of Illinois, Poindexter of Washington, Fall of New Mexico and Johnson of California, Republicans, and Reed of Missouri, Democrat, although there was a possibility of senators like Knox of Pennsylvania, Brandegee of Connecticut and McCormick of Illinois "holding out to the last."

OLD GUARD CRITICIZED

The Republican senators who were to see the president today were McNary of Oregon, an uncompromising advocate of the present treaty without ame or reservation; Kenyon of Iowa, a Progressive Republican, whose independent views were expressed when he recently criticized old guard Republicans like Smoot of Utah and Warren of Wyoming because of the reduction of the appropriation for the vocational rehabilitation of maimed American soldiers which caused the president to veto the sundry civil bill; Capper of Kansas and Kellogg of Minnesota, who are both for the league covenant with the minor interpretations discussed with the president yesterday by McCumber, Colt and WANTS LEAGUE KEPT WHOLE It was distinctly understood by Mc-Cumber, Colt and Nelson, however, according to the information they communicated to other Republican senators today, that the president was unalterably opposed to the treaty being interpreted in any way that could be construed as textual amendments or as "reservations" such as certain of the more radical Republican senators still claim they will be able to fall back on, or else prevent the ratification of the treaty, aithough they admit they no longer hope to muster the majority necessary to change its text, or strip the league covenant or any part from it.

The opposition senators, however, might be permitted to describe the suggested explanatory of interpretative clauses of the proposed resolution was stated, provided the language employed in framing them could not be construed as nullifying any of the text, or as being offensive to the nations other than the United States which signed the document, or as throwing any part, section or article open to interto have stolen Adams' machine about pretation, survey or other action on the part of the league council.

BY MARINE STRIKE

Those Dependent on Water Traffic Being Forced Into Idleness in New York.

New York, July 18 .- (I. N. S.) Industries dependent upon marine traffic are gradually being forced into idleness by the strike of Atlantic coast marine workers. Strike leaders predicted today that a million men will be affected if the conflict with the shipping companies is pro-

There was no evidence of any break in the deadlock today, though G. H. Brown, secretary of the Seamen's union, said he thought the strike might settled within 24 hours. He based his assertion on reports that four Nor-wegian and two Swedish lines had wegian and two Swedish lines had agreed to grant the eight hour day and increased pay demanded by the strikers, and he said he believed other companies would follow.

Andrew Furuseth, international president of the Seamen's union, said there was no settlement in sight, and he believed the strike had resolved itself into a finish fight. The congestion on the piers and in warehouses of the shipping companies is becoming daily more acute. It was suggested today that if the strike continues it may be necessary to lay an embargo on freight received shipment by boat from New York. Silas Blake Axtell, attorney for the marine unions, said today that a sympathetic strike of Pacific coast and Great Lakes seamen was not improb-

GREAT LAKES SAILORS

RELPING COAST UNIONS Cleveland, Ohio, July 18 .- (I. N. S.)-Union sailors on the Great Lakes today were actively backing up the strike which has practically tied up Atlantic

They are refusing to sign on United States shipping board vessels for further than Montreal. According to G. L. Martin, union organizer for the Great Lakes, several vessels are tied up at Montreal because the sailors refused to take them further. So far only ships built for the United States shipping board on the lakes are affected. Union officials declined to say today whether they would go fur-ther in their support of the strike than they have done to date.
