Civic Clubs of This City Taken to Site of Livestock Exposition, Which Is Rapidly Growing.

FINANCING SCHEME UNIQUE

This City Has to Match Dollar for Dollar Every Cent That Has Been Subscribed by Outside.

The Western capital of American royalty in piggion, beefdom and sheepdom has been located in North Portland, close by the Portland Union Stockyards and the Swift packing plant.

Business men from the Ad and Progressive Business Men's club, the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs found there, last Wednesday, enormous buildings rising rapidly from a wide, transposed section of the bottom of the Columbia. Before next November, when the Pacific International Livestock exposition is held for the display of the highest achievements in breeding, the structures which are now foundation walls and partially placed equipment will be completed pavilions, barns and arenas capable of sheltering 6000 or more animals and an even larger number of livestock breeders and enthusiasts.

UNIQUE FINANCING SCHEME

Some $250,000 is to be spent on the exposition center. It is money that has been secured through the unique plan of having Portland match dollar for dollar in investment from outside of the city. O. M. Plummer, general manager of the exposition, reminded the Ad clubbers and others who attended the financing campaign, that Portland still is 325,000 short of her quota, and the answer of the clubmen was that, with Victory loan drive, and other drives, they would successfully disposed of, there will be no doubt about securing the remainder.

"I noticed," said Mr. Plummer, "that although we have provided free special transportation for 200, only 200 came on the street cars and the other 200 came by automobiles. When people are that well off they ought not to have trouble securing $25,000 for the investment in a project worth millions of dollars to this city and to the northwest."

DESCRIPTION OF BUILDINGS

The site of the Pacific International Livestock exposition covers 15 acres. It is bounded on the north by the dredged from the North Portland harbor. The buildings will cover seven and one-half acres. In the construction it has been found possible to utilize Oregon products extensively. The stadium will have a seating capacity of 8000, its center an unusually spacious and well lighted show ring. Two smaller buildings, the stock and slaughter house, have a seating capacity of 1000. Special sales rings and arenas are being provided for all classes of livestock. The cattle barns will have a capacity of 800 animals; the dairy barns for 1000; the sheep section for 4000; the swine section for 4000, and the draft horse section for 400.

MOTION PICTURE ROOM

A special reservation of space will be made for the western dairy show and one of its features will be a motion picture audience room. Hot and cold running water, and special devices for comfort and sanitation will be installed. The color scheme is red brick with white trimmings, and the buildings face the North Portland harbor just west of the Interstate bridge.

Rands, appeared before the local United States land commissioner. It is desired to exchange Coos Bay Lumber company lands, situated near Coos Bay, with the Coos Bay Lumber company lands, situated near Coos Bay.

Yanks Want Wedding Bells All Tuned Up

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—(I. N. S.)—"Get the trumpets ready and tell the boys to tune up the wedding bells. We've been gone a long time, so be ready when we get back." This cryptic message was received by relatives of 124 field artillery, who had just landed in America from France in part of the Twenty-third division. No explanation was given. Recipients were mystified, but they took it for granted the boys were contemplating a matrimonial venture when they return to Springfield.

Congressional Autobiographies Wide Variety of Foibles Shown

Washington, July 19.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—The congressional directory of the new congress, in which an indulgent government prints 127 pages of what the members say about themselves, under the guise of biography, is a faithful mirror of human foibles.

All the degrees of mental attitude are shown, from the number who modestly forbear the printing of anything except his name and place of residence, to those who joyfully hail the opportunity to record their triumphs as boy orators, to their log cabin beginnings, or the history of the family tree, or the names of the clubs and fraternal orders to which they belong.

VOLUME RICH IN TREASURE

Many seem to enjoy the record of their triumphs as political gladiators, telling how they downed some brilliant light of the opposite party when such a thing was never known before. The 127 pages of biography may seem dry at first glance, but they contain plenty of gems for industrious treasure hunters.

Speaker Gillett confines himself to "elect his name" in a bare statistic outline of his education and public service. Former Speaker Champ Clark, in 19 lines, goes more into detail to explain that he was not one time the youngest member in congress in America, as well as a farm hand, clerk and country editor.

WHAT "UNCLE JOE" SAYS

"Uncle Joe" Cannon compresses his life into eight lines, comprised almost entirely of the numbers of the congresses in which he has served. "Jim" Mann, who was an "almost" speaker, merely describes himself thus: "Republican of Chicago, was born in 1856; was elected thirty-fifth and each succeeding congress."

PARRISH LOQUACIOUS

Lucian Walton Parrish, also from Texas, after recounting his schoolboy victories in debate and in athletics, devotes 14 valuable lines to a thrilling story of his primary campaign, when, he says, "with characteristic determination, he made an untiring and vigorous campaign, in a Ford car he went day after day."

James H. Mays of Utah says he was born among "mountain whites" in East Tennessee, and tells of early struggles in the West in the timber and the mines. Schuyler O. Bland of Virginia points out that in a Democratic primary he defeated Hon. C. O'Connor Goodrick, Hon. G. Walker Mays and Mr. E. Madison Hall, the two "Hons" and the "Mr." all having parted their names in the middle, eh.

A LAWYER PERSON

Charles R. Davis of Minnesota hands himself a handsome bouquet for "aside from his extensive general practice he achieved marked success as a criminal lawyer."

William L. Cates of the same state, choicely on a union labor platform, notes that he was engaged as a locomotive engineer when elected, and had never before been a candidate for public office.

EMERSON'S HISTORY

Emilio S. Candler of Mississippi, whose biography is one of the longest, leads off with the announcement that he "is a direct descendant of Colonel William Candler, who was a colonel in the army of the American revolution and the ancestor of the Candler family of Georgia, who have been prominently identified with the history of that state from the days of the revolution up to and including the present." Then he tells about his law practice, his church and lodge activities, and gives full particulars about his immediate family.

W. S. S. CAMPAIGN IN 12TH DISTRICT

Largest Percentage of Quota Is Sold in This State, at Least Selling Cost, Message States.

PERMANENT THRIFT DESIRED

Government Continues to Sell "Baby Bonds" in an Effort to Spread Thrift Propaganda.

Oregon has conducted its War Savings Stamp campaign to date more economically than any other state in the Twelfth Federal Reserve district, and, moreover, ranks with the leaders in percentage of sales quota attained.

This information is contained in a message received by C. S. Jackson, who, as state director of War Savings Stamps, conducted Oregon's campaign, from Robert E. Smith, newly appointed director of war loan organization for the Twelfth district, who is in San Francisco.

TEXT OF MESSAGE

Mr. Smith's message says: "I am pleased to hand you herewith copy of memorandum which I am sending Governor Callkins of the Twelfth federal reserve district, showing relation between sales and expense in the several states in the district. You will note that the highest cost is that of Arizona, running 4 per cent. Next comes Nevada, 3 1/2 per cent, followed by Southern California at 1 1/2 per cent. Oregon heads the list, your cost being only one-tenth of 1 per cent."

Mr. Smith also pleased to inform you that upon receipt of sales figures Oregon has sold 84.6 per cent of the quota assigned to it for the first six months of the year. Only one state has made a surplus, Nevada, with 103 per cent, Utah 15.2 per cent and Arizona and Southern California at 14.3 per cent, and Northern California closing the list with 10.8 per cent.

NEW PLANS EXPECTED

Mr. Smith has been in San Francisco for some time getting his organization lined up in good shape, and upon his return to Portland he will probably announce new plans for the Oregon War Savings Stamp organization.

The treasury department is continuing the sale of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps this year largely as a permanent in the lives of American men, women and children the habits of thrift, and saving started during the war.

H. Foley, manager of the company's interests here, on his return from a trip to Portland. It is estimated that three second feet of water from the Tumalo will be sufficient to supply the city. Water for power purposes will be furnished to the company without charge, other than that of development. As to power development, surveys are being made in the Tumalo, but no final decision has as yet been made as to utilization of sites given over by the engineers to increase the amount of electrical energy which can be made available by the power company.

BENHAM FALLS SITE NOT ONLY PROJECT TO BE INVESTIGATED

Member of Federal Party Making Survey Says All Possibilities to Be Exhausted.

Bend, July 19.—That investigations by the party of government geologists and engineers, who arrived in Bend Friday night, will not be confined to Benham falls as a storage reservoir site for confining the overflow of the Deschutes for the irrigation of the thousands of acres of new arid land in the Deschutes valley, was the statement of Andrew J. Wiley, a member of the party.

The government experts, he said, have received definite instructions from Washington to exhaust all possibilities for storage purposes and other sites will be thoroughly looked into in case the land at Benham falls is not found suitable.

It is one of the finest bodies of land for irrigation that I have ever seen, and I shall be glad to do anything in my power to bring water to it, was the statement of Professor W. C. Crosby of Boston, who heads the party.

How Nuxated Iron Helped Me to Whip Jess Willard

Put Me in Such Superb Condition As To Enable Me to Win the World's Championship

JACK DEMPSEY

"TIGER OF THE RING" Tells a Secret of His Training—Recommends Nuxated Iron to Every Man and Woman Who Wants to Build Greater Strength, Energy and Power

Today recognized as the physical superior to any living man—the Superman of the Age—Jack Dempsey, Heavyweight Champion of the world, explains below the part Nuxated Iron played in helping to prepare him for the supreme test of his career. In his decisive, smashing victory over the mighty Willard, who had never before been knocked from his feet, Dempsey displayed a dynamic, overwhelming strength and power never before known in the history of the ring. That he took Nuxated Iron as a part of his training is convincing evidence of the importance Dempsey attached to keeping his blood rich in strength-giving iron, and the high regard in which he holds Nuxated Iron as a master strength and blood builder.

In a statement made at his training quarters in Toledo, the scene of his battle, Jack Dempsey said: "After a part in getting Dempsey into my training for the big fight with Jess Willard, I soon noticed that he could stand a harder training with less fatigue than before, and I realized that I had found a tonic and blood builder which played an important part in getting me into this condition. Formerly I had to eat my meals very carefully, and I should occur to every thinking person that I must add physically to keep my blood rich in red corpuscles, but with Nuxated Iron my blood was so rich that I could leave nothing undone that might help me to win a world's title. I am firmly convinced that its use has helped to prolong my life, and I am sure that it will help to prolong the life of every man and woman who uses it."
