STORE
NEWS

—It's a wise choice for summer—the cool, fresh dress with its smart white figures against a dark background.

—Necks may go collarless if they will, but sooner or later they are sure to succumb to irresistible pleated frills.

—In the very best walks of life this summer one sees the satin shoe. Sometimes it's a pump and again it's a high heeled oxford.

—Both a sweater and scarf in the sweater scarf, draped over the shoulders and held in at the waist by a belt.

—The chemise gown is well aware of the encircling girdle of the cord girls. Are you?

—Small wonder that in the choice of summer suits the well dressed woman gives first favor to pongees, cool-looking and cool.

—One merry round after another is a hat of ribbon for sports wear.

—Yes, many women wear them instead of petticoats in the wardrobe; and the secret of the tremendous sale of bloomers was out.

—Summer has evolved its own particular cap—the short jersey sports model with flirty angles collar.

—Fashion's foot notes declare that Paris women go stockings. Here the vogue for say hosiery is over on the increase.

—This is the 18-inch handkerchief that many English women learned to carry during the war and are now loath to give up.

—The Parisian is reported to be wearing short gloves or none at all with her short sleeve dress, but the American woman seldom stops short of the elbow with gloves that are of tentative silk, plain or embroidered.

—Summer wraps may go to all lengths, but the sport coat of jersey is proving that to be short is to be smart.

—Not the scarcity of leather but fashion—dictates narrow belts.

—It makes all the difference in the world—a frilly gilet on a summer frock.

—Come in and see what splendid machines we have on liberal terms.
