Social Activity At Waverley Continues

Club Scene of Several Large and Small Dinner Parties Saturday Evening.

By Vella Winner

THE Waverley club continues to be the center of much delightful entertaining, each day being marked by affairs both large and small, luncheons, teas and dinners, followed by dancing. Mrs. Ralph W. Wilbur is entertaining Tuesday with a small luncheon at the club and on the same day Mrs. E. Devereaux will have a few friends to luncheon. Mrs. Max H. Houser will entertain Wednesday evening with a handsomely appointed dinner dance of 40 covers to meet her house guest, Miss Darlene Kimball of Salt Lake.

The dinner dance Saturday evening was one of the largest and most delightful of the entire season. In addition to the large parties given by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shelton, Mrs. C. McMillen, William MacMaster, Mr. and Mrs. John Ross Dickson and Eric V. Hauser, smaller parties were given by J. A. McPherson, Stanley Jewett, C. McMillen, Hollie Hoffman, C. C. Bechtold, A. L. Cannon, H. A. Sargent, A. E. Pearson, Richard Cox, A. F. Rockwell, G. Nelson, George McPherson, F. H. Ransome and H. H. Holland.

The many friends of Mrs. C. C. Murtion will be pleased to learn that she is recovering following a recent operation at the Portland Surgical hospital.

Among the Portlanders who are spending a few days at South cities are lieutenant Colonel Mrs. Daniel J. Coonan, Mrs. J. D. Farrell and daughter Helen and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Withrow.

Miss Marguerite B. Lemmons and Herman F. Husman were united in marriage Thursday evening at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Husman, near Milwaukie. The bride wore a gown of white voile and tulle veil and carried Ophelia roses and myosotis. Miss Gladys Elverson sang "I Love You Truly." As Loehgren's wedding march was played by Mrs. Victor Nielsen the two small brothers of the groom, Robert and Edward, entered, each carrying a ring in the heart of a Shasta daisy. The bride followed with T. V. Forbes, who gave her away. The sister of the bride, Mrs. E. E. Willis, was matron of honor. Miss Erna Husman and Mrs. P. L. Nielsen, sisters of the groom, were the bridesmaids, each carrying a large bouquet of sweet peas. The best man was Victor Nielsen. The Rev. H. C. Bernhard officiated. The house was beautifully decorated with garlands of greenery. A reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. Charles L. Husman, mother of the bridegroom, presiding. Mr. and Mrs. Husman are spending a fortnight with Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sutter at their home, Les Solitudes, at Garden Home and later will make their home in Portland.

A charming benefit fete for the University of Oregon Women's building fund will be the subject of a party to be given by Mrs. Edwin Seeley Parsons at her home on Fairmont Boulevard Saturday evening from 8:30 to 9:30. A silver offering will be received at the party. Mrs. Parsons extends an invitation to all former students and friends of the Women's building to spend the evening with her and enjoy both the program and the view. John Claire Monteth will sing and David Campbell will give piano numbers. Mrs. Thomas H. Deery will be the guest of honor. Mrs. Ernest Willard are two of the hostesses who are planning to entertain in the near future for the same popular cause. A number of other affairs are being planned for this fund.

Many Portlanders will be interested to hear of the marriage of Howard Rice Hill, elder son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Edgar P. Hill, which occurred June 25, at Long Beach, Cal. The bride was Miss Elizabeth Raycraft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Raycraft, and is one of four sisters in a charming family. Dr. Hill was pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Portland 11 years. He and Mrs. Hill, who were in the city for a few days last week, were entertained by many friends. Dr. Hill appeared in his old part on Sunday to the great satisfaction of a wide circle of admirers.

On Wednesday evening Miss Hazel Harriet Smith, daughter of Mrs. William Lytle Smith of Hood River, became the bride of Arthur E. Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hill, at the home of her brother, Wesley W. Smith, 830 Patton avenue. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock by Rev. William B. Young, who, because of old and warm friendship for the family, made the trip from his home in Ellensburg, Wash., for the occasion. The following relatives and close friends were present: Wesley W. Smith and family, Mrs. William Lytle Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, parents of the groom; Miss Alice Bostick of Looking Glass, Judge and Mrs. Walter Bordwell, uncle and aunt of the groom who came from Los Angeles to witness the ceremony; Leslie Butler, Miss E. May Davidson and Dr. Justin M. Waugh and daughter, Miss Martha of Hood River; Mrs. M. D. An Dersal and Miss Eleanor Young of Ellensburg, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. The second in the series of Tuesday afternoon arts and crafts teas which are being given at the home of Mrs. Lee Hoffman on Barlow road will be postponed to Wednesday of this week on account of the garden entertainment to be given Tuesday by Miss Katherine Laidlaw at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett. Miss Mackenzie Will Leave for Japan

Well Known Portland Young Woman Goes to the Orient for Seven Years Missionary Work.

By Vella Winner

MANY Portland people will be interested to learn of the intended departure of Miss Virginia Margaret Mackenzie for Japan. She is planning to leave Portland next Tuesday and for San Francisco on the Korea Maru, August 2. She is sent out by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, under the women's North Pacific board, as a representative of the Westminster Guild, and will be supported by a member of the University Presbyterian church of Seattle.

In June Miss Mackenzie attended a week's conference for outgoing missionaries at the board building in New York City. Another week was delightfully spent visiting college mates, when she returned to say farewell to relatives and friends in this city ere leaving for the seven years of service required in that field before furlough.

Miss Mackenzie has been the recipient of handsome gifts which will add to her comfort and efficiency, and many friends have vied in entertaining in her honor.

Journal Carriers Folic at Resort

The last monthly meeting of The Journal Carriers' association was held at the very highest point in Portland last Thursday night, the carriers gathering in the observatory at Council Crest. Through the courtesy of Manager Finley the boys were given free use of the park's facilities for a good time after the business meeting. So interesting was the event that it is probable future meetings during the pleasant weather will be held at outdoor pleasure resorts nearby.

DRESS

by Anne Rittenhouse

THAT a straw hat is a summer hat and that a summer hat must, if you are orthodox in matters of dress, be made of some sort of straw, was the youthful conviction of most of us American women.

Likewise, it seemed only meet and right that after mid-November we should wear a hat made of felt—with a possible alternative in favor of fur. But that was all. There was no particular reason for this. It simply was so because it was so—just as light blue or pink were the only ribbons that we wore in our lingerie. Yellow or green or violet or the wild, lurid splash of colors that we countenance today would have seemed either very indelicate or very eccentric. But that is part of a by-gone prejudice. It has gone, and the prejudice in favor of only straw hats for summer.

ARE STRAW HATS AMERICAN?

Now, straw hats must have come from America. Dig out the history of the hat and you will find that it was something unknown to Europeans until they came to adopting the native clothes of their warm country colonies. At any rate, in France, a hundred years ago—about the period of the empire of which we hear so much in the realm of clothes inspiration nowadays—the straw hat was decidedly the rage, and it was spoken of as "American."

These hats were simple little poke-shaped affairs that were most fetching when adorned only with a nosegay of leather directly in front and a band of ribbon about the brim that crossed in the back and tied chin-wise in front, or hung with charming negligence about the thinly draped shoulders of the fair young girl who wore it.

It was regarded as an American fashion, and French travelers in this country in revolutionary days wrote home—when they took time to comment on our American womenfolk—that we were addicted to straw hats.

INSPIRATION FOR AUTUMN

Americans have retained their addiction. Just at present France has little to do with straw hats, however, and the reason is perhaps that straw is extremely dear and scarce. Others explain it that the French milliners have catered more to their South American trade this year than in former years, and in South America, you remember, it is winter.

Usually in Paris there would have been time and resources for two showings—one of spring and summer things for us and one for winter and summer for Latin America. That may have something to do with it. It is a fact, however, you explain, that there are fewer straw hats in Paris this year than there have been for dear knows how long. You explain, as might wear a taffeta hat and excuse ourselves by calling it a "between-season" hat. In France the hat of woven fabric is a matter of years. Some of them that have just been brought out will have much to do in directing the course of autumn hat fashions.

The one sketched today is especially characteristic of the sort you see just now in Paris; for it is in black and a bright color and that is the whim of the moment. In this instance the other color is turquoise blue. The pinwheel ostrich is in this hue and it is repeated in the facing of the brim.

Hostess I'm sorry you found Miss Biggie a poor conversationalist. She's absolutely the limit! Why, the only thing she said to me the entire evening was "no" and I had to propose to her to get her to say that.

Garden Hints

BY SHEBA CHILDS HARGREAVES (OF PORTLAND)

Pea pods and the vines when the peas are finished, are valuable additions to the compost heap.

If radishes are wanted this time of the year, plant some variety such as white icicle and give liberal quantities of water and frequent cultivation.

Cucumbers should be cut about three times a week during the bearing season. In gathering, always cut, never try to break them off, for a cluster of fruit buds will be very apt to be pulled off with the cucumber.

Cultivation is necessary in order to break the contact in the soil and thus conserve the moisture. Moisture has a tendency to rise just as oil rises in the wick of a lamp, but if stirred constantly soil particles do not draw the water upward so rapidly; the surface thus mulch formed by hoeing retains instead of drawing the moisture to the surface where evaporation is rapid.

The quantity of beans a vine will yield depends upon the growing season and the care it receives. Moisture has a tendency to rise just as oil rises in the wick of a lamp, but if stirred constantly soil particles do not draw the water upward so rapidly; the surface thus mulch formed by hoeing retains instead of drawing the moisture to the surface where evaporation is rapid.

The department of agriculture advises the discouraged amateur to plant string beans. They may be planted all through July and August. One of the best varieties for late planting in sections in and around Portland is stringless Green Pod, with Early Valentine as a second choice.

Gardening these days is pleasure in the early morning, but drudgery in the heat of the day.
