

PORTLAND, OREGON, SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 27, 1919.

POLLYANNA AND MISS SCHERER ARE COME TO TOWN

Young Woman Has Traveled More Than 23,000 Miles in Her "Flivver," Mostly Alone.

HER HOME IS IN HER CAR
Next Trip May Be to Honolulu and Desire Is Expressed to Travel Around the World.

Bronzed and muscular, the picture of health, Miss Virginia Scherer is at the Multnomah with Pollyanna. Pollyanna is Miss Scherer's toy and her joy, and with her she has traveled 23,000 miles with never a breakdown. Pollyanna, in everyday terms, is a "flivver," but to Miss Scherer she has become almost human in her companionship.

Pollyanna was christened by Mrs. Charles Strauss two years ago in her infancy, and the wife of the municipal engineering expert, who is at the Multnomah with her husband and daughter, was amazed when Miss Scherer arrived with Pollyanna as fresh as on the day of her purchase.

Miss Scherer has motored over nearly every foot of California. She started once to Boston but the thought of crossing the desert alone caused her to turn back. "But there is no reason why I should not have done it," she adds. It was while jaunting from Sacramento and Lake Tahoe back to San Francisco that Miss Scherer saw the sign that caused her to turn northward. "What do I want to go back to San Francisco for anyway?" she asked herself, and receiving no logical reply, immediately started for Portland. She nearly always travels alone.

HOME IN HER CAR

"It is so hard to find a pal who is willing to rough it," she said. "I blew in here dressed in khaki and dirty from head to toe. I usually stop at hotels about every two nights and have a hot bath and I often stop and bathe in some river that I pass. Pollyanna has never been washed but she never adopted her. Down in California I got in some mud so deep that the wheels simply wouldn't go around and I had to wash the car."

Miss Scherer was living in Berlin when the war broke out. She immediately returned to the United States and has been living a nomadic life ever since. "I pay my taxes in Chicago but my home is in my car," she says. "When I leave here I am going to Seattle and Vancouver. I am thinking of shipping Pollyanna to Honolulu and riding over the island. I would like to drive around the world. I have been around the world once, but never with Pollyanna."

SUSPICIONS AROUSED
When Miss Scherer took in the Columbia river highway she says she looked so disreputable in her outer clothing and the little car to which was still clinging California mud and on which was strapped her camping outfit, that when she stopped at an inn for dinner, the proprietor looked at her askance.

"We do not serve any meals here for less than $2," she said acidly. "Well," replied the nomad, "I can easily afford to pay $5 for a meal if I care to, but I want nothing but some ham and eggs."

The proprietor decided she could prepare her some in a half hour, but "never mind," replied Miss Scherer, "I think I shall journey on somewhere where it won't take so long to prepare it."

"I then went to a place where it said 'we serve with a smile,'" said Miss Scherer, "and they did."

Great Community Pageant Is to Be Staged in Astoria

Astoria, July 26.—Details of the great community pageant to be staged in Astoria this fall were given by Miss Edna Helmenann, the author, at a meeting of the committee. The National Y. W. C. A. is behind the presentation.

The pageant will be the natural amphitheatre here and will require 200 persons. It has been named "The Spirit of Industry in America," which will be portrayed by a series of dances, beginning with Biblical and old world industrial history.

Magoon's Park Is Picnic Ground for Firm's Employees

Employees and friends of the Armstrong Manufacturing company enjoyed a picnic party on July 19 that took them to Magoon's park, just below Oregon City, for a day of pleasure.

Swimming and other general pleasures were incidental to a complete sports program that concluded in the evening with a dancing party. The merry makers chartered the launch Dix for the day.

Higher Prizes to Be Given by Round-Up

Pendleton, July 26.—Along with the increase of prices that are being experienced in these times of the high cost of living the Pendleton Round-Up this year will give higher prizes than ever before. The new 1919 prize list is now being made out, and in every event the prizes will be larger, in some it is doubled, as in the bulldogging. The four principal events will be given $1000 each. These are in the bucking and roping contests, the cowboys' relay and the cowgirls' relay. The special prize saddles are now being made for champion riders.
