

RADICALS BEATEN IN ELECTION OF COUNCIL OFFICERS

Harry Anderson Is Re-elected to Presidency by Big Majority; Other Conservatives Victors.

EXCITEMENT IN MEETING

Alleged "Red" Is Thrown From Hall on Charge of Being Intoxicated; Harmony Predicted.

Rallying to the cause of conservative organization, Portland labor union delegates to the Central Labor Council Thursday night accomplished a successful rout of the alleged radical wing of the council and carried Harry Anderson into the presidency again by a large majority of votes. The "Reds" were defeated at every turn, either by the ballots of delegates or by parliamentary rules applied against them.

Anderson was re-elected president of the council over C. A. Strickland, candidate from the shipwrights' local, by a vote of 156 to 93. W. E. Kinsey of the typographical union was elected vice president over Joseph Thornton of the retail clerks' local, by a vote of 169 to 90. C. S. Hartwig, J. S. Haughey and H. E. Kidney were named trustees, defeating D. M. Hayes and Charles Saunders. The office of secretary, held by E. J. Black of the cigarmakers, was not contested.

SPIRIT IN MEETING

The expected coup of the radical corner appeared in the business of the meeting at an early hour, following the seating of a number of new delegates, when those opposing the present administration of the council attempted to delay the election, causing President Anderson to rule the effort out of order.

Spirit was again injected into the proceedings when four different attempts were made to put Editor C. M. Ryerson of the Labor Press on trial for publishing an article in the issue of the "Reds." Motions to bring this result and resolutions from several locals with the same purpose were defeated.

A battery of motions and a deluge of excitement swept the meeting when D. Vincent, arguing on behalf of one of the motions to censure Ryerson, resorted to profanity for emphasis. "Throw him out," echoed through the hall and within a moment Vincent found himself outside the meeting, still fuming angrily.

MEMBER IS ELECTED

"Reds" refused to recognize Vincent as one of them sufficiently to aid him and he was barred from attending council meetings as a delegate from the "moulders' union for six months, after which he will be required to apologize to the council to regain his seat.

W. Williams, alleged radical, released a flow of unseemly language and was ejected from the meeting because of the opinion of officers that he was intoxicated. His companions reported that he had previously created a stir in a meeting of his local and was elected a fellow member before he was calmed.

Floyd Hyde of the machinists' union, who is said to have been slated to succeed to the secretaryship of the council and to the editorship of the Labor Press, was not in the running at any time during the meeting, it is said, and was even relieved of his seat as a delegate at the instance of the union which elected him to it.

WILL WORK IN HARMONY

The future of the council was freely predicted by both radicals and conservatives at the meeting because of the defeated candidate for the presidency, declared his intention to work for the best interest of the hall, admitted his revolutionary interest and predicted that good would result from the spirited election activity.

Routine business was side-tracked Thursday night in the interest of the election and because of the strife between the two factions. The council did, however, pass a resolution asking that Governor Olcott call a special session of the legislature to ratify the suffrage amendment.

DOES OWN HOUSEWORK AT 90 YEARS OF AGE

Mrs. Mary E. Foster

Ninety years old and still able to teach her great grand children some of the tricks of up-to-date house-keeping, Mrs. Mary E. Foster, for 42 years a resident of Oregon, is enjoying life hugely at her home, 1845 Clarendon street.

Mrs. Foster not only takes pride in her household accomplishments, but she does the major portion of the work herself, keeps up a thriving garden and does her own marketing. And after her tasks are done for the day she has time to visit or to play, as the case may be with six grandchildren, two great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren, in addition to her two daughters.

In commemorating the 90th birthday of the pioneer woman the Royal Neighbors presented her on last Mother's day with a token that she cherishes. Mrs. Foster's birthday, incidentally, is on Mother's day, May 12. She was born in Illinois and came to Oregon in 1877. Just now Mrs. Foster is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Lamley.

AIRMEN LOST ON WAY TO PORTLAND

Planes Arrive Safely From Camp Lewis After Being Separated by Fog En Route.

How two aviators became lost in the clouds overhanging the Cowitz river, each searching for the other, was told here Thursday afternoon by Lieutenant Kiel, army flyer, who landed at the municipal golf links from Camp Lewis on his way to Salem to report to the governor for forest fire patrol duty.

Preceding him by two hours arrived the first aviator, Sergeant McKee, who said he had lost sight of Kiel's machine at Toledo, Wash., and expressed much anxiety as to his comrade's fate.

It appears that when the planes encountered the high fog, they lost sight of each other. Kiel turned back in search of Toledo, Wash., and McKee circled about, looking for Kiel. Believing Kiel had gone on his way, McKee flew to Portland, while Kiel, evidently losing his bearings, descended low enough to make out the white cross marking the landing field at Chehalis. He alighted, learned that McKee had preceded him and, after taking on gas and oil, resumed his flight.

Both airplanes left Portland for Salem about 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon, as soon after the arrival of the second machine as a new supply of gasoline and oil could be taken on board.

Airmen Report to Governor
Salem, Aug. 1.—With R. H. Chapter of the forest service and Miss Henrietta McLaughan, a reporter for The Oregon Journal, as passengers, the two army airplanes piloted by Lieutenant Kiel and Sergeant McKee, arrived here at 4:45 o'clock Thursday evening from Camp Lewis. The aviators, who have been assigned to Oregon for forest patrol service, reported to Governor Olcott for service immediately upon their arrival here.
