APPROVES INTERPRETATION

The president put himself on record which he said would constitute a notice was especially enthusiastic. to all powers of the way America's vote in the council of the League of Nations would be exercised hereafter.

In view of the fact that without the vote of the United States no decision on the part of the league's council can be effective, as a unanimous vote is required unless America is party to the dispute, the president believes a separate resolution could be adopted by congress amounting to permanent instruction to America's delegates at the peace This is a new way of conference. ratifying resolution itself.

TERMS SUFFICIENTLY CLEAR The president argues against reservations that alter the body of the treaty on the ground that the substance of all suggested reservations, except those that mean to reject the whole treaty, are covered in language of the pact. Perhaps the speech at Helena, Mont. was the best summary Mr. Wilson has mittee, vet given of his reason for opposing reservations. In effect, he says this:

the United States shall be the sole judge international obligations before withbecause the covenant of the society as donors. league does not give the council of the SECRET SERVICE ACTIVE league or any other nation the right to say when any nation has fulfilled its obligations.
