

JOHNSON ANSWERS WILSON'S SPEECH, POINT BY POINT

Says President Forgot Ireland, Egypt and China, Claiming a Hearing Before Conference.

ENGLAND'S VOTE DISCUSSED

Bullitt's Statement of Lansing's Declaration Characterized as "Significant and Ominous."

By Fred S. Ferguson
Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 13.—(U. P.)—Responding point by point to the speech delivered here by President Wilson a week ago, Senator Johnson tonight told a big crowd jamming Convention hall it was difficult to think the president had spoken other than ironically when he termed the peace treaty the greatest document in human history.

For the first time since starting his tour, the senator referred to the Irish situation.

Commenting upon the president's statement that "everywhere within the area of settlement covered by the political question involved in the treaty, people have been given their freedom and guaranteed their freedom," Johnson declared:

SAYS WILSON FORGOT
"He forgot Ireland, suffering under centuries of oppression, knocking at his door and begging only for hearing from the men who were creating the new world order."
"He forgot the Egyptian delegates, arrested and detained at Malta until he had recognized England's new protectorate over Egypt. He forgot our allies, the Chinese, begging and imploring for the justice we have given their freedom and guaranteed their freedom." Johnson declared.

Commenting upon the president's statement that "everywhere within the area of settlement covered by the political question involved in the treaty, people have been given their freedom and guaranteed their freedom," Johnson declared:

STATEMENT SIGNIFICANT
Referring to the testimony of William B. Bullitt before the foreign relations committee, the senator declared his statement that Lansing had declared the American people would not accept the treaty if they knew its contents "is significant and ominous."

"The president's enthusiastic exclamation about the great document and its penetration with American principles was, perhaps, not intended to be taken seriously," he said.

Discussing the voting power in the league assembly, he declared that in case of a dispute between the United States and Japan, England, with her defensive and offensive alliance with Japan, will cast six votes, in event the controversy should be removed from the council.

ENGLAND'S SIX VOTES
"Taking up the president's speech of Friday night, when Wilson gave his explanation of six votes for Great Britain to one for the United States in the league council, Johnson declared:

"He says, in effect, that the disproportionate voting power is of no consequence because such was in the United States. Why, then, Great Britain should have been given six is not apparent. Perhaps because it is not of consequence this proposition has been so strongly insisted on by Britain. In the assembly all members vote except those who are parties to the dispute."

throng pounded on the doors, demanding entrance and chrousing, "We want Wilson."

Wilson walked to the hall through a tunnel of canvas which had been built between the arena and the Hippodrome, where he dined at a public feast in which 1400 participated, according to the managers of the affair.

Among the people in the arena were a number wearing a badge with the words "Release political prisoners."

After Eating Play Safe
It is a Wise Precaution to Take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet After Eating to Avoid Gas, Sour Risings, Heaviness, and the Lazy, Logy Feeling So Apt to Follow.

The range of food is so great, its preparation varies so widely, that few stomachs are strong enough to grapple with all conditions of restaurants, hotels, clubs, depots and banquets. The safe plan is to be provided with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, that you may eat rich and palatable food served or selected and not be troubled with gas, sour risings or such forms of indigestion. These tablets digest food, they assist the stomach secretions and for this reason people who travel away from home and must eat as it is served may play safe by taking one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

You can get these tablets in any drug store anywhere in the United States or Canada, which shows in what general favor they are among those who have learned how to enjoy their meals.—Adv.

waters. Pictures of Admiral Rodman and Wilson were displayed at many places. The fact that the fleet was here was said to have brought many strangers into town, thus increasing the throng that met the president.

The presidential party had intended to go first to the New Washington hotel, but so dense was the mass of spectators before it that, instead, Wilson was driven directly to Pier A, where he boarded a motor launch from the New Mexico for the ride to the Oregon, which lay a short distance off the wharf. Daniels accompanied him.

LAUNCH STARTS TO LURCH
In getting away, the presidential launch lurched violently, first to one side and then to the other, as if it were about to capsize. An officer yelled "Trim ship!" and the sailors distributed their weight to right the little craft. A moment later, just as it got under way, another navy motorboat cut across its bow. The man carrying the presidential binnacle bumped the other in the side, but so slight was the jar it was scarcely felt. The president's launch backed away and made a new start, getting clear at last. It was a clear afternoon, with a freshening breeze that stirred up a choppy sea. Little showers of spray spattered some members of the president's party. The line of the Seattle stevedore's distinct and clean cut, backing a background of buildings for the naval spectacle that was about to be staged.

GUNS FIRE SALUTE
As Wilson went up the gangway to the Oregon's deck his flag was broken about at the masthead and the presidential salute of 21 guns was fired from the old warship. Each shot rattled and echoed and reverberated against the buildings of the city until there was an irregular succession of thunder like sounds punctuated at intervals by the reports of the original shots. The president and his party went forward and entered the little stevedore's built boats draped with bunting, which had been erected on top of the forward turret.

As they took their places the first shot of a 17 gun salute for the secretary of the navy rang out. Then the Oregon slowly got under way and came abreast of the New Mexico, flagship of Admiral Rodman. The "salute" of the opening shot from the huge New Mexico, the last word in fighting vessels, rippled the air and created a little puff of wind which could be distinctly felt just as the squatty old Oregon, out of date but still honored, came opposite.

PRESIDENT AT ATTENTION
The crew of the New Mexico had dressed ship and stood shoulder to shoulder in a long rank from bow to stern, saluted against the background of the city. Each man's hand flew to salute as if they all were mechanical figures controlled by the jerk of a single string, and faintly over the water came the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," mingled with the rumblings of the cannonade.

Wilson uncovered and stood at attention, and while the echoes of the New Mexico's salute were still numbing and clattering about, the first shot from the Mississippi whacked the atmosphere. BIRMINGHAM LEADS DESTROYERS

Thus the president reviewed those two dreadnoughts and also the Idaho, Texas and New York, and several supply ships. A pause followed, during which Wilson and Daniels engaged in earnest conversation. A wireless or launch, after having tea on the Oregon. The president rode to the hotel through streets lined with applauding people. He went to his suite to rest before going to a public dinner at the Hippodrome, a dance hall. Tickets to this dinner were sold at $3.50 each, and covers were laid for 1400. It was under the auspices of the fleet reception committee. Immediately after the dinner, he was to go across the street to the arena for his evening speech.

ADDRESSES SCHOOL CHILDREN
Wilson spoke this morning at Tacoma. Before going to the armory there, he was taken to the stadium, which faces on the bay. This great amphitheatre is reputed to have a seating capacity of 30,000. It was nearly filled, principally with the school children of Tacoma, and the cliffs above it were lined with spectators. The president received a great soprano cheer as his car rolled into the pines, and then the children sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Dr. Lawrence Selling will address members of the Portland lodge of Independent B'nai B'rith, Tuesday evening in the lodge room on a subject of interest to all members.

Would Forbid Strikes
Washington, Sept. 13.—Policemen in the District of Columbia and all other government employees would be prohibited from striking by a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Blanton, Democrat of Texas. The police would be permitted to organize, but could not affiliate with any other organization, under the terms of the bill.

WILSON GIVES ORDER
Wilson, looking up at the bridge, cupped his hand beside his mouth and shouted: "They are not under way; they're all here!"

A moment after the commander-in-chief of the navy had so spoken the Oregon circled around and returned to her place. This ended what was said to be one of the greatest presidential naval reviews in American history. Wilson came ashore in Admiral Rodman's launch, after having tea on the Oregon. The president rode to the hotel through streets lined with applauding people. He went to his suite to rest before going to a public dinner at the Hippodrome, a dance hall. Skill Not Words Make The Dentist

Dr. B. E. Wright

The best test of good dental work is satisfied patients who afterwards send their relatives and friends for treatments.

I have patients who have had all of their work done at this office for the past 20 years, and they are my best advertisement.

All teeth need treatment at one time or another. It is my business to tell you what dental service you need and apply the treatment scientifically with the least possible disturbance to your nerves.

A man is no stronger than his teeth. If your teeth are diseased you are leaving the door open for many serious ills to enter.

Have those old snags or stumps removed at once and replaced with a sanitary plate or bridge.

The modern plates made at this office fit snugly, look natural and will chew all food to your satisfaction.

Don't allow timidity or foolish notions about pain to keep you away. By the use of all of the most approved dental discoveries I have robbed the dental chair of its old-time horror.

Better work you cannot secure anywhere.

MANY GIFTS TO GREET FIRST LADY OF LAND UPON ARRIVAL HERE

Unique Statuette of Pocahontas and a Crocheted Creation Are Presents From Admirers.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, first lady of the land, will without a question be the most important woman in Portland on Monday, and may well need to be withstood the burden of delightful gifts that will be showered upon her by Oregon admirers, according to the statement Saturday of former Governor Oswald West, chairman of the general reception committee.

West's office has been deluged with little tokens of esteem which Oregon women have asked to have delivered to Mrs. Wilson. Among those presented on Saturday for delivery was a beautiful crocheted creation from the needles of Mrs. Odaville Yates, Sr., pioneer of 40 Third street, which embodies a stitched reminder of President Wilson's historic "14 points," in connection with the peace treaty.

The token has 14 corners on its outer edge and an arrangement of 14 points in the center. Fourteen stitches are in evidence in some of the work, but from appearances, West avers, the work on the gift required many more than 14 hours.

If Mrs. Wilson is really a descendant of the immortal Pocahontas, as has been said, her ancestry will be recalled to her when she receives from Mrs. M. F. Woods, 1515 Twelfth street, an interesting and unique statuette representing the Indian maiden, Mrs. Woods, whose Indian characters have brought her work wide attention, has prepared a likeness of Pocahontas especially as a token for Mrs. Wilson.

Colonel Roosevelt Is to Meet Memorial Committee Thursday

Demmick, Yakima, Is Named Head of County Officials

Vancouver, Wash., Sept. 13.—W. L. Demmick of Yakima was elected Friday to succeed Claude C. Ramsay as president of the state county commissioners' association in convention here. J. C. Falconer of Snohomish succeeds R. E. Pratt as vice president and J. W. Slattery of Pierce county was reelected secretary.

The convention endorsed the Carlson bill, which will be an issue of the next general election. This bill proposes the paving of state highways by bonding motor vehicle licensees. The state under the provisions of the bill would bond itself for $30,000,000 for 10 years for the permanent improvement of the state highways, to be repaid from the revenue accruing from the sale of automobile licenses. Dr. P. H. Carlson of Olympia, father of the bill, explained it.

Explosion in Grain Elevator Takes Toll

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 13.—(U. P.)—Frank Benton, negro, is dead, four men are maimed, 15 are in hospitals injured and damages estimated at half a million dollars resulted from an explosion which wrecked the Murray grain elevator in North Kansas City this afternoon. Flames broke out, consuming wheat and debris. The explosion was caused by spontaneous combustion in the 10-story elevator, it was said.

SCALPERS SELL MANY WORTHLESS TICKETS FOR WILSON ADDRESS

Committee Warns Public That These Fraudulent Passports Will Not Be Honored.

Unofficial and worthless tickets, represented as admission passes to The Auditorium for President Wilson's address Monday night, made their appearance in Portland to a limited extent Saturday. A possible repetition of the attempt to sell such tickets is anticipated today and has aroused the official reception committee to repeat its warning to sellers and purchasers of such tickets.

Salemen are liable to prosecution and purchasers will not be admitted at The Auditorium. Double checking of all admissions to the building will prevent holders of fake tickets from entering The Auditorium.

The committee also warns those who hold official tickets that such tickets will not be honored after 7:45 p. m. The Auditorium doors will open at 6:30 and will close at 7:45 sharp. To aid in the prompt handling of the crowd on Monday evening, The Journal today publishes a detailed map showing the entrances at which different tickets will be accepted. Avoid delay by presenting tickets at the proper door, is the suggestion of the committee.

WOMEN, DRY CLEAN THINGS AT HOME

Save five to ten dollars quickly by dry cleaning everything in the home that would be ruined in soap and water. Suits, coats, waists, silks, laces, gloves, shoes, furs, draperies, rugs—everything. Place a gallon or more of gasoline in a dishpan or wash boiler, put in the things to be dry cleaned, then wash them with Solvite soap. Shortly, everything comes out looking like new. Nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles. No pressing needed. Do not attempt to dry clean without Solvite soap. This gasoline soap is the secret of all dry cleaning.

A package of Solvite soap containing directions for home dry cleaning costs little at any drug, grocery or department store. Dry clean outdoors or away from flame.—Adv.
