

Delta Gamma Luncheon Is Charming Fete

ONE of the delightful affairs of the fall season was the luncheon given on Saturday afternoon at the rose room of the Benson hotel by the active members of Delta Gamma. Mrs. W. T. Belcher presided at the luncheon table which was centered with an artistic basket of purple asters. Each place was marked by a corsage of opella roses. Following the luncheon the guests enjoyed a party at the Baker theatre. Members and guests included in the company were: Miss Helen Hooper, Miss Helen Murdoch, Miss Reba Macklin, Miss Ellen Gantenbein, Miss Josephine Batey, Miss Clementine Cameron, Miss Margaret Kuhl, Miss Jennie Moore, Miss Madeline Stothom, Miss Lillian Anderson, Miss Beatrice Morrow, Miss Mary Alta Keely, Miss Ina McCoy, Miss Diamond Povey, Miss Bernice Miller, Miss Lucile Morrow, Miss Carlotta Reed, Miss Lucia Watson, Miss Marjorie Spurr, Miss William T. Belcher and Miss Allyn Johnson.

A unique social affair that will engage the attention of friends interested in the woman's building for the University of Oregon is a caterer's supper that is planned for Friday evening, October 3 (new moon), at the home of Mrs. Helen Elkin Starratt, 29 Sherwood drive, Portland Heights. The hostesses will be 20 ladies, residents of Sherwood drive and immediate vicinity. The supper, caterer style, will be served from 5 to 7 o'clock, and gentlemen will be especially invited to come with their wives—thus incidentally releasing the women guests from the necessity of going home to prepare the evening meal. A delicious supper of home prepared viands with hot rolls and coffee will be furnished, and a leisurely and enjoyable social time is promised. A fine program of musical readings will be in progress in the parlors from 4:20 o'clock on throughout the evening. Among the assisting hostesses will be Mrs. William Swindell, Mrs. D. A. Pattullo, Mrs. Joseph McLeod, Mrs. I. R. Hurlbert, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Gerald Beebe, Mrs. Kenneth Beebe, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. F. W. Crowell, Mrs. Martha Patton, Mrs. W. A. Evans, and Mrs. R. W. Sheppard.

Mrs. H. G. Colton was hostess for a tea to be given Thursday afternoon at her home on Portland Heights, honoring her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Theron Colton. Her recent marriage Miss Helen McCormack of Spokane. Miss John McCormack, mother of the guest of honor, is a house guest at the residence, and was present for the occasion. Assisting at the rooms for the occasion were the Misses Gladys Bowen, Maurine and Lucie Elmer, Marguerite Bergh. Presiding at the tea table for the affair were Mrs. Luther Hamilton and Mrs. Gwyn Jones. About 150 guests were asked to call during the tea hours. Miss Gretchen Colton assisted her mother in receiving.

On Monday evening Rose City camp, M. W. A., will be host to its friends and members with a special program planned in honor of returned soldiers, sailors and marines, at their hall, 8 Eleventh street, near Stark. All former service men of any camp of the Modern Woodmen are urged to be present with their women guests to enjoy the evening's entertainment, which will include cards and dancing and refreshments.

Mrs. Harry E. Hobbs was hostess for a delightful surprise party at her home on Saturday evening, honoring her brother, Eugene A. Nordstrom. An informal program of music and dancing formed the evening's entertainment, followed by a supper served at a late hour. Mrs. Hobbs was assisted by Mrs. Nordstrom, mother of the honor guest.

Mrs. L. W. Gray was hostess at a pretty dinner party, Tuesday evening, Mrs. F. Ireland Walker of San Francisco and Mrs. Elmer A. Hanson, who leaves today for California to spend the winter. Covers were laid for seven at dinner at the Chestnut hotel, after which the performance at the Orpheum was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Belland and small son, Richard Jr., left Thursday morning for California. They will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hansen and will take the trip by motor. Mr. and Mrs. Belland will return to Portland in the spring.

The wedding of Miss Gladys Elizabeth Rogers and Harold P. Rogers was an event of Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nelson Giles, 1250 Hancock street. Dr. L. K. Grimes, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Vancouver, Wash., read the marriage service in the presence of about 75 guests. The bride couple descended the stairs to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Marion James, and stood beneath a large canopy of ferns and pink rosebuds. The living room decorations were pink and green, and the dining room, where refreshments were served, was in yellow. Punch was served in the den, where the color scheme was red. The bride is an accomplished young woman and was graduated from Washington high school. Her wedding gown was of ivory satin and lace with which she wore a wedding veil and a dainty wreath of orange blossoms. Her flowers were Bride roses. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Rogers of 224 East Fifth street. Mr. Rogers attended Stanford university, where he majored in electrical engineering. He is now with the Columbia Shipbuilding company. Mr. and Mrs. Giles were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. George D. Rogers, Mrs. D. L. Rich, Mrs. John James and Mrs. S. P. Moorehouse of Vancouver. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers presided at the punch bowl and serving in the dining room were Miss Lula Giles, Miss Marion James, Miss Georgiana Sahistom, Miss Francis Reagan, Miss Mabel Hockman, Miss Helen Miller and Miss Margery Reagan. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are spending a short time at the beach and on their return will be at home at 559 East Forty-eighth street north.

Miss Grace Ellen Cogan became the bride of Frank Lee Smith at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Cogan, 1422 Winona avenue, on Tuesday evening. The service was read at 9 o'clock by the Rev. W. E. Kloster of the Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal church. The attendants included Donald Cogan and Miss Lillian E. Welch. After a short stay at Tillamook the young couple will make their home in Portland.

The Jewish New Year services this year at the Congregation Ahavai Shalom, Park and Market streets, will be held Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week and will be augmented by a quartet composed of Mrs. Jane Burns Albert, Mrs. George H. Street, J. Ross Fargo and George Lewis Tashner, and Miss Laura Fox, organist and director.

One of the parties which enjoyed the performance at the Alcazar theater on Wednesday evening was planned in honor of Miss Anna Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Wheeler. Guests for the occasion included Miss Jane O'Reilly, Miss Florence Holman, Miss Anna Wheeler, Miss Mary Helen Spaulding and Mrs. Wheeler.

Mrs. Harry Cofford was hostess for a delightful luncheon on Tuesday, honoring Mrs. A. P. Fisher of Chicago, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Carl G. Liebe, for two months. During her stay in the city, Mrs. Fisher has been extensively entertained and many new friends regret her departure for her home on Thursday.

Mrs. A. Parker was hostess for a delightful dancing party on Friday evening at her home in honor of Charles Bluet, who will leave soon for Arizona as an officer in the coming year. The evening was spent informally with a musical program in addition to the dancing, which was followed by a dainty supper.

Mrs. Jesse Ives and her mother, Mrs. M. P. Thompson, who have been at the Portland hotel for a few days, left Wednesday by motor for their home in Seattle. Mrs. Ives, who is the wife of a prominent coast lumberman, will drive her own car on the return to the Sound.

The Misses Louise and Helen Manning will be hostesses for an informal tea at their home in Irvington this afternoon, honoring the Misses Lyle Bryson of Eugene and Adele Lucke of San Francisco, who are visitors in the city. The tea hours are from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Miss Gertrude Talbot, who has been spending a short time in the city since returning from Gearhart, will resume her work at the University of Oregon, returning to Eugene on Monday. Miss Talbot has charge of Heuricks Hall.

The regular Tuesday afternoon card party at Laurelhurst club for members and friends will be held at the clubhouse next Tuesday, and Mrs. J. C. Stevens and Mrs. H. Williams will act as hostesses.

Mrs. Francis D. Langton was hostess for a tea at her home in Rose City Park on Thursday, honoring her mother, Mrs. H. M. A. Miller, who is a visitor from San Francisco.

Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller asked a few friends in for an informal tea Saturday afternoon at her home in East Ash street.

Mrs. Rose Coursen-Reed was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Calender of Astoria.

PORTLAND TO BE SEAT OF SCHOOL FOR SOCIAL WORK

Sociology Will Be Taught Here Under the Direction of the University of Oregon.

PRACTICAL COURSE PLANNED

J. Franklin Thomas, Sociologist of Wide Experience and National Repute, to Have Charge.

Portland is to be the seat of a new school of social work, to be conducted under the direction of the University of Oregon. The new institution is to be headed by J. Franklin Thomas, a sociologist of long training and experience, lately assistant professor of sociology in the University of Washington. Mr. Thomas will take up his duties with the opening of the university's fall term, September 29.

Only a few of the larger institutions of learning in the United States have such schools, and the University has been receiving numerous congratulations from sociological experts all over the country for its progressiveness in making this departure.

The school, Mr. Thomas said yesterday, is assured the fullest cooperation from local state and national welfare organizations, which have promised to contribute the services of expert members of their staffs. The purpose of the school is to turn out trained social workers and the school was established here as the best place in the state to give the students first hand contact with social problems and the opportunity to do real social work, cooperating with various welfare organizations such as the Red Cross, the anti-tuberculosis association, the various charity organizations, hospitals and other institutions engaged in uplift work for which large cities offer the field.

THOROUGH TRAINING DEMANDED

"Society has reached a point," Mr. Thomas said, "where it is insisting on thorough training for its social workers as well as its lawyers, doctors and nurses."

In the new Portland school, registration for which will be conducted through the extension division and whose classes will be held in the central library, about half of the student's time will be devoted to actual field work under highly trained and experienced supervisors. Opportunities for training will be afforded in home service and general work with families, child welfare, public health nursing, public charities and corrections, institutional visitation and other types of social service.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

Enrollment in the new school is open to any student who has had three years in a standard college or university. The work here is to lead to the master's degree in two years. The first year of work will bring the bachelor's degree. There is a possibility that students may be admitted who have had only two years of college work. Two required courses are planned—one in general history and theory of social progress and social reform, and another in practical social work. Each of these will give three hours of college credit. Other courses on public institutions and field work in connection will be elective, and each student will have to choose one course from the others offered.

SPECIAL LECTURES PLANNED

It is hoped also to have special lectures by competent authorities along the different lines of work offered. Mr. Thomas is a native of Wisconsin and a graduate of Beloit, class of 1904, majoring in economics and sociology. He was principal of the Wisconsin county (Mont.) high school, 1907-10, after which he did graduate work in sociology at Columbia University, in New York, for one year. He then worked for the New York State Charities Aid association, of which Joseph H. Choate was president. He resigned the position of assistant secretary of that association in 1918 to go to the University of Washington, at Seattle, as assistant professor of sociology.

SPECIALIZED ON CHILDREN

While he was in the state charity work in New York his activity was principally in cooperation with public officials and work among destitute, neglected and defective children. For one year he was superintendent of the child-placing department of the State Charities Aid association. "The school here will increase the actual amount of research," said Mr. Thomas. "This work will be done under supervision, exactly as an interne in a hospital works under the direction of an experienced doctor."

New Catholic School at Marshfield

Marshfield, Sept. 20.—Members of the Catholic church of Marshfield have devised to build a parochial school on Coos Bay. The site chosen is a lot on Sixth street and one unit of the school will be erected at a cost of $5000 and finished in time for the spring term beginning in February. Contracts will be let at once for the work. It is possible that the Catholics will also build a new hospital.

Sumpter Will Adopt Commission Baker, Sept. 20.—Revival of silver mining in the vicinity of Sumpter has resulted in greatly increased business in that city. The population of Sumpter is estimated at 350 and is rapidly increasing. Many of the buildings destroyed by the fire of two years ago are being replaced with substantial structures of brick and concrete. A new charter is being prepared for Sumpter by C. H. McCulloch, a Baker attorney, which will give the town a commission form of government.

Boni Is Peeved at Cartoonist Count Will Slap His Face

Cartoon drawn by Sem which has excited ire of aristocratic Count Boni de Castellane, who used to be Mr. Anna Gould. The count is depicted as a broken down dealer in fake antiquities.

By Robert J. Prew. Paris, Sept. 20.—(L. N. S.)—Friends of Count Boni de Castellane announce that he is preparing to slap the face of Sem, the famous society caricaturist, who in a new series of witty sketches just published depicts Anna Gould's quondam husband as a dealer in antique fakes. Boni was in the country when the offending caricature emerged from the press and Sem was at Deauville beach, but friends of the Count say he is very angry and will certainly castigate the clever artist. All the smart people in Paris are keeping a watchful eye open for developments, and the creme de la creme of the incident may be a duel.

The sketch shows the Count trying to palm off a delapidated Louis XIV armoire on a prospective buyer, which he entitled "Le Grand Monte à l'Envers" (Topsy-Turvy Society). The president is represented with a clerical collar and bowler hat seated at a counter with a leather grip on his knees. Behind the counter Francis de Croisset, the playwright, is depicted trying to lease him a French chateau. "For you, Mr. President," Croisset is saying, "there will never be anything to pay." This is a hit at the playwright's action in turning over his home in the Place des Filles-du-Calu, Paris, to the president on his return to France last March. Apparently Sem imagines the president paid nothing for occupying the Croisset home for 15 weeks. Scanting trouble on the publication of his new album, Sem says in a foreword, "It seemed to me a good joke to show how the wealthy people of Paris before the war have now gone broke. I hope this innocent fantasy will offend none and that my victims—among whom I have many friends—will be the first to smile when they see themselves camouflaged as the 'new poor' as poultry merchants, newspaper sellers, antique dealers or gamekeepers."

RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS WILL BE SOLD IN OREGON THIS YEAR

Oregon Tuberculosis Association Will Conduct the Drive as in Former Years.

The Red Cross Christmas seals will again be sold in Oregon this year. On account of the Red Cross membership drive last year the seal sale was not held, but it is being resumed throughout the country on a more comprehensive scale than ever before. As in past years the sale will be conducted by the Oregon Tuberculosis Association of which A. L. Mills is president and Mrs. Saldie Orr-Dunbar is executive secretary.

Floyd E. Dorris has recently been made field secretary of the Association and he will direct the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale. The state will be organized by counties and in those already visited Mr. Dorris has received assurance of hearty cooperation. Oregon's quota for the campaign is $44,260.

Statistics show that 10 per cent of all deaths in Oregon are due to tuberculosis and they further show that there are at all times 6500 open cases of the disease in the state. Over 300 men were rejected by the exemption board of Oregon on account of tuberculosis 224 Oregon men were reported to the Oregon on account of tuberculosis and the surgeon general's office, as having been discharged after less than three months service on account of tuberculosis. The association is now employing two special nurses, who are devoting their entire time to the care of these men whose condition was discovered by exemption boards, or military physicians.

The work of the national and local tuberculosis associations is financed largely by the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals and 80 per cent of the returns from the Oregon sale will remain in this state to be used in educational and preventive work.
