PRESIDENT TAKES TURN FOR BETTER

Grayson's Last Bulletin Says Wilson Passes Restful Night; Condition Is More Favorable.

Despite Encouraging Symptoms, Patient Considered Gravely Ill; Breakdown Yet Feared.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(U. P.)—President Wilson's condition continues favorable. Tonight Dr. Cary T. Grayson and the president's family were hopeful that he had rounded the corner and that he was on the road to complete recovery. A day of quiet, preceded by a night of comparatively restful sleep, eased Wilson's taut nerves and rested his tired body. Those close to him at the White House said he was more cheerful than at any time since he was compelled to take to his bed Wednesday.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(U. P.)—"The president had a good night's rest and his condition is more favorable," said a statement issued at 10:55 a. m. today by Dr. Cary T. Grayson.

Issuing of Grayson's bulletin was delayed by a long conference of physicians. Those at the conference were Dr. E. R. Stitt, head of the naval medical school; Dr. Sterling Ruffin and Grayson.

There was an air of more cheerfulness at the White House this morning. It was learned that the president slept quite late and awoke feeling much refreshed. He was said to appear cheerful and untroubled. Throughout his illness he has never been concerned about himself, a fact which his physician believes will hasten his recovery.

The president, upon awakening this morning, chatted with those about him and laughed, according to White House attaches.

PHYSICIANS CONSULT
Dr. Grayson was at President Wilson's bedside for a considerable time this morning.

Dr. E. R. Stitt, head of the naval medical school, and Dr. Sterling Ruffin, Mrs. Wilson's family physician, went into consultation with Dr. Grayson shortly after 10 o'clock. Dr. DeCormier of Philadelphia also was present. The consultations are to be held twice daily. The consultation of physicians at the White House broke up shortly after 1 o'clock. It was stated they all agreed with the opinion of Dr. Grayson that the president was improving.

WILSON IS CHEERFUL
Dr. George de Schweinitz, eye specialist from Philadelphia, is to arrive at the White House today and the president is said to have regular contact and consults with him twice weekly.

When Dr. Grayson was taking the president's temperature this morning he remarked:

"Your temperature is normal."
"Yes, my temperature is normal, but my temper won't be if you keep me in this bed very much longer," said Wilson with a smile.

STILL GRAVELY ILL
The president is still "gravely ill." He showed slight improvement last evening. Hope was expressed at the White House that this improvement would mark the turning point in his illness, and that he would show steady progress today.

The president today was able to take nourishment, it was learned, but his appetite is very poor. Early today he appeared to give himself over to Dr. Grayson's treatment, and the president is said to be during this illness, permitting himself to relax immediately. There has not been a complete breakdown, it was stated at the White House, and the president is in danger of one if the utmost care is not exercised. In the language of one of his attendants he is believed to be "skating on thin ice."

SPECIALIST TO COME DAILY
Dr. Francis X. DeCormier, Philadelphia nerve specialist, was due in Washington this morning for another consultation with Dr. Grayson and the other physicians attending the president. It was emphasized at the White House that no alarm should be felt over Dr. DeCormier's visit, as it was arranged when he first came into the case several days ago, that he would come back to Washington for consultation today.

The president's physical condition, it was learned, was good at an early hour this morning. His pulse was normal and there has been no high temperature.

ISOLATION RULE ENFORCED
The program of absolute isolation from affairs outside his bedroom was to continue in force in the president's case today. Mrs. Wilson, his nurse and physician were to be his only visitors.

Dr. Grayson's latest official statement, made at 10 p. m., said:

"The president's condition is about the same with a slight improvement."

Five members of the family were at the White House today. They were: W. G. McAdoo, Mrs. McAdoo, Mrs. Frank Sawyer, Margaret Wilson, and J. R. Wilson, the president's brother, who resides in Baltimore. McAdoo had intended to return to New York last night, but changed his mind and decided to remain over today at least.

Despite the president's illness, the business of government must proceed as usual.

STRIKE CRISIS HITS BRITISHERS ANEW

Failure of Negotiations for Settlement and Extension of Strike, Cloud Situation.

By Earle C. Reeves
London, Oct. 4.—(I. N. S.)—Great Britain has plunged into a new industrial crisis today by the collapse of strike negotiations between Premier Lloyd George and the representatives of labor.

The war cabinet was hastily called into session at Premier Lloyd George's official residence in Downing street.

The eighth day of the national railway tie-up found both sides grimly desperate and standing firm, while industrial stagnation was spreading into new quarters.

At a meeting of the trade union representatives Tuesday the extension of the strike to the other two arms of the triple alliance—the transport workers and the coalminers—as well as other labor organizations, will be considered.

FIGHT GETTING BITTER
That the fight will be a bitter one is shown by the action of the National Union of Railwaymen in rejecting the Premier's proposal for a seven-day truce. Premier's proposals are being taken to cope with disorders both in and out of London. Emergency orders have been issued by the commissioner of police that morning all special constables to report to headquarters.

King George and Queen Mary are hastening to London from Balmoral Castle in Scotland. The Daily News states that J. H. Thomas, executive secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen and leader of the strike, probably will meet the king upon his arrival.

"Under no circumstances will Premier Lloyd George make any further concession," it was declared today by Major Ian Hay, British ambassador in the United States, in an interview with the king upon his arrival.

The Premier intends to stand pat. My opinion is that if for a seven-day truce, continuous another week we shall see progressive strikes by all unions in support of the railroaders. It is a positive fact that the British government has been there "are anarchists" influence at the bottom of this strike movement. Finances have come into Switzerland.

The strike is a matter of life and death for the nation, and the government will fight to the bitter end. Nearly 500,000 volunteers have offered their services, which will enable the movement of fuel and food trains to sustain the life of the nation.

Laundries Ask for Injunction Against Picketing by Unions
Request for an injunction against the Central Labor council of Portland and local No. 1 men of the Laundry Workers' National union, restraining the picketing of 13 of the leading laundries of Portland, was filed in the circuit court this morning.

Special Prayer Is Given for Wilson By Mormon Leader
Salt Lake City, Oct. 4.—(U. P.)—President Heber J. Grant, opening the semi-annual conference of the Mormon church, offered a special prayer for the speedy and complete recovery of President Wilson.

In an address to the conference, President Grant, denounced mob violence. He spoke against the closed shop principle advocated by labor unions.

DARK BLOOD DINGS SUGAR PROSPECTS

Possible Country-Wide Famine Owing to Inability to Obtain Early Deliveries Now Looms.

High Price Bugaboo Also Raises Its Head; Elements Work to Injury of Some of the Crop.

No beet sugar from the Yakima district, from Idaho, or from Utah until after November 1.

No beet sugar from California until after October 15.

A probable country-wide sugar famine.

United States sugar board authority expires December 31.

A congressional investigation in progress to determine whether the authority of the United States sugar board shall be extended.

A complex local situation, involving the arrival of cars of sugar from California, an almost mad attempt on the part of the retailers to get sugar and the possible shutting down of candy factories if the shortage continues.

SITUATION IS DARKENED
With all these and other factors complicating an already bewildering situation, the outlook remains dark and the dark news concerning it accumulates.

And cold weather have played havoc with the beet sugar crop north of California, wholesale dealers say. J. Haller, Kelsey-Clarke & Co., agents for the Western Sugar Refining company, received word by telegram this morning that Yakima sugar, amounting probably to 300,000 bags, would be at least as late as November 1.

Two weeks ago Haller heard from beet sugar refineries in California that the crop in that state, amounting to about 4,000,000 bags, would begin to flow in about October 15. He has not heard further since.

DELIVERIES ARE DELAYED
H. A. Brehm of Lang & Co., wholesaler, received a telegram from a Utah firm lamenting that it would be impossible to supply beet sugar from Idaho or Utah before November 1.

R. Adams of Parrott & Co., 324 Third street, corroborated these statements. "I am not hearing normally fast this year," he said.

Beet sugar is expected by Wadhams & Kerr Brothers, 41 Davis street, as early as October 20, they announced this morning.

Haller believes that the shortage will be relieved as soon as strikes in California are settled.

"It is a matter of 25 cent sugar is absurd," he said. "Sugar is held down by the sugar board till December 31. After that, no one knows. But January sugar is selling now in New York at an advance of only $1.27 a hundred pounds. Sugar did not sell for 25 cents even during the Civil war."

PROBLEM GETTING COMPLEX
Nevertheless, reports of a sugar famine next year, according to the high officials of the department of justice, of congressional doubt as to the wisdom of allowing the authority of the sugar board to expire, and the situation in Portland becomes, it seems, worse and worse.

"We have not yet been compelled to lay off workers on account of the lack of raw materials," said this morning E. C. Pritchard, Vogan Candy company, "nor have we resorted to the use of honey where we would otherwise use sugar. But we may have to do both."

CUSTOMERS PUT ON LIMIT
Grocers limit customers to a pound of sugar each. Many sell sugar only with other purchases.

Ten carloads of cane sugar reached Portland this week, according to the freight department of the Southern Pacific railway. Three of these arrived this morning. Two more will come in Monday.

Opportunity for Church to Aid in Meeting World's Problems Shown

Salem Conference Told Methodism Faces Most Wonderful Days in Its Entire History.

Salem, Oct. 4.—Methodism faces the most wonderful days in its history, declared James E. Crowder, D. D., of Seattle Friday night in presenting to the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church the opportunity confronting the church in combating the crisis, which, he stated, now confronted the United States more than ever it did during the days of the war.

"Americans and American Methodists," he continued, "are a chosen race, holy race, a people of God's own choice."

"We are facing today the task of the reconstruction of our ecclesiasticism. I expect to see the day of a united protestantism, not merely one type of worship, but merely one church."

"The day is past when the big city churches can ignore the smaller churches in the same community. Accomplishment of the whole task requires unity. No matter who carries the ball across the line, just so the ball goes across."

POLITICIANS ARE SCORED
The necessity for a complete reconstruction of our commercial relations as a nation, of our social ideals and of our national politics, was emphasized by Dr. Crowder, who soundly scored those politicians at Washington, who he declared, were more concerned with keeping up their own political fences than with making secure the peace of the world.

Bishop Hughes addressed the conference Friday on "The Reflex Influence of Evangelism."

"It is a law of physics that wherever there is action there is reaction," he declared. "Accordingly every action for the betterment of the world, for good and righteousness, reacts on the thinker. A successful preacher must not take the negative side of things, but the positive," he insisted.

DELEGATES ARE NAMED
Election of delegates to the national conference was held. The delegates were named as follows: B. Ford, superintendent of the Salem district; W. W. Young, superintendent of the Portland district; Richard W. Avison, Salem, and D. H. Lesch, Eugene, Alternates—John Stinson, Portland, and Clarence T. Wilson, Portland.

Washington, Oct. 4.—(U. P.)—Non-striking steel workers were heard by the senate investigating committee today. The walkout has the elements of a conspiracy, T. J. Davies, Newcastle, Pa., said. He quoted remarks of foreign workmen, who said there would be no superintendents after the strike, and that the mills would be run by a committee. Davies said he thought he represented the opinions of 5000 tin workers, although no vote was taken.

A Greek working under Davies said management came to his house, threatening his wife and saying her husband would be killed unless he joined the strikers, the witness said.

About 99 per cent of the strikers in Newcastle are foreigners, Davies estimated. One thousand men struck on the first day, but half those have returned since, he added.

Davies said he received $14 a day and the lowest paid man on his crew gets $7.50 a day.

Receipts of Army Store Climb Fast As New Supplies Find Ready Sale

More Than $35,000 Taken in at Government Station During First Five Days' Business.

Total receipts of the United States army retail store at Fourth and Pine streets for the first five days of its business, ending Thursday evening, were $35,418.32, according to an official statement issued today by Major Frank P. Tingley, deputy zone supply officer, in charge of the establishment.

In the same period, approximately 400,000 pounds of supplies were sold to actual homekeepers at prices far below the prevailing retail costs, and usually below current wholesale prices. The largest day's business, considered from a money standpoint, brought into the store $10,000 by the sale of clothing.

MAIL ORDER BUSINESS LARGE
Although Major Tingley joins others in the belief that the store's early history presents astounding business showings, he also believes that the early opening of the mail order department, through which persons in other parts of the state can order direct, the business will nearly double.

The fact that the store is handling such large sums of money has led to special precautions. The cashier has been barricaded behind a tier of boxes and a special armed guard has been stationed near him. At the entrance and exits to the store armed guards scrutinize customers and, as buyers leave the store, subject sales slips to examination.

Major Tingley announced this morning the receipt of the following: Two carloads of tomatoes, four cars of roast beef, one car string beans, one car peas, one car jam, one car dry beans, cases canned bacon, 75 boxes prunes, 300 cases baked beans.

BUYERS ARE ON HAND
The commodities were put on sale as soon as they were unloaded and found demand waiting.

Late next week the floor space of the store will be more than doubled, and then other wares, aside from blankets and edibles, will be for sale.

"It has been noticed," Major Tingley said today, "that a great many people are making daily trips to the store. Their faces are becoming very familiar. It is requested that parties who have been to the store should not return to enable those who have had no chance to buy to do so."

Jimmy Ring, With Mighty Right, Puts 'Em Over Entirely Too Fast for Kid Gleason's Bunch.

Cicotte Loses Own Game With Two Costly Errors; Chicago Fills Bases in 2d, but Weakens

Total attendance, 34,363. Gross receipts, excluding war tax, $97,807. Players' share, $52,815.78. National commission's share, $9780.70. Club and league's shares, $35,210.52.

By Henry L. Farrell
Comiskey Park, Chicago, Oct. 4.—(U. P.)—Eddie Cicotte closed the door to the hall of fame in his own face today, whereupon Jimmy Ring, by a magnificent feat of pitching, delivered the fourth game of the world series to the Reds by a score of 2 to 0.

Cicotte accomplished his own downfall. Two errors by the Sox twirler in the fifth inning were directly responsible for the only runs of the game. And in the second inning, with the bases loaded and his teammates, Cicotte failed in the pinch and passed up an opportunity to deliver a hit that would have put the Sox in a hole that would have put the glove a vicious grass cutter toward right field, but Morrie Rath saved the situation for the Reds by a sterling stop and a throw that beat Cicotte to the bag by half a step.

RING EQUALS BERT
Jimmy Ring today killed forever his title as the jinx pitcher of the Reds. The young right hander pitched a magnificent game of ball, almost as good as any he has ever pitched. He made only three hits, but he was a very busy pitcher, and one of these was a very fluky double by Joe Jackson in the second inning.

Roush played Jackson's easy offering in miserable fashion, totally misjudging the ball. What should have been an easy out was thus turned into a two base hit.

CICOTTE PITCHES GOOD BALL
As a comeback pitcher, Cicotte covered himself with glory. He was steady at all times and worked as well as he has in any game this season.

The game was sprinkled with spectacular plays in the field. Duncan and Neale each turned in wonderful catches that cut out sure three base hits. In the ninth Helme Groh, Red third baseman, made a diving catch of a line drive from Leibold's bat for the final out.

SCHALK'S SPECTACULAR CATCH
Buck Weaver at third for the Sox failed in faultless style. Ray Schalk, made one of the characteristic captures of a foul fly in the ninth inning when he sprang to a box and, balancing himself on a rail on his stomach, snared Groh's foul from the dogging heads of the crowd.

It is now three and one for the Reds and the Sox have dropped the advantage in the series. The crowd of Kerr's great left arm yesterday.

PROBABLY ELLEN TOMORROW
Tomorrow will probably see Hod Eller on the mound for Moran.

Claude Williams is regarded as Gleason's likely choice, though the White Sox manager may decide to send Kerr back after a one-day rest in a desperate attempt to put his charges back in the running.
