

NAVY RECRUITERS HERE GIVE MERITS OF SEA TRAINING

Portland Leads Seattle in Number of Recruits; Visits From Subs and Battleships Help.

PERSONNEL IS REDUCED

Young Men Can Learn Trade and See World at the Same Time in Government Service.

Help man the American navy. But while you're helping Uncle Sam, remember that you'll see the world, learn a trade, gain promotion on merit and become a better citizen.

This appeal to young men is sounded today by Lieutenant Commander Fred K. Elder, commander of the Portland district navy recruiting office, in seeking to boost Pacific Northwest enlistment records.

PERSONNEL IS REDUCED

"Wholesale discharge reduced navy personnel from 507,000 men to 70,000 three months after peace was signed," Elder says. "Ships of all types were constructed and placed in commission during the war. Now crews are depleted. We look to the country's young men to answer the peace time call and enlist or reenlist that the navy may remain the efficient fighting force it has always been since the Revolutionary war."

Recruiting in the Portland district has increased almost fourfold in the last six months, but even this increase is not sufficient to meet the need for men.

Portland leads Seattle in recruiting. Enlistments for the week ending October 3 were 29. Seattle's total was 20.

VISITS INTEREST YOUNG MEN

Seattle has profited greatly by the visit of the Pacific fleet. Elder declares. The usual quota of enlistments was exceeded.

The visit of the U. S. S. Birmingham and destroyers of the Pacific fleet, as well as the short stay of the U-boat 88 gave a small glimpse of navy life to the young men of the district. Recruiters hope that in the future other vessels will be brought to Portland.

An official request to have the U-boat 88 revisit Portland has been made. Navy officials regret that the itinerary of the U-boat 88 did not permit a longer stay in Portland. It may return here for a four day visit.

Advantages of navy life are summarized by Elder as follows:

PROMOTION ON MERIT

"Today the navy offers to every man enlisting unlimited promotion dependent entirely upon merit. Any man who enlists, provided he is within the prescribed

PORTLAND CHILDREN STRIP WARDROBES FOR SUFFERERS

Youngsters gain admittance to a dandy moving picture show with their bundled donations of clothing for the Armenian children whose privations have been occasioned by the war. Above—Line of little folk filling into Hippodrome theatre. Below—Smiling little woman who is delighted at her opportunity to serve, as well as at the show she witnessed.

While no direct accusations were made, it is said by those who watched a line of 1200 lively youngsters file into the lobby of the Hippodrome theatre Saturday, that one urchin, "Jimmie" by name, appeared just around the corner, with wide open eyes, to wonder what was going on. Jimmie learned very promptly, and with the knowledge gained he stripped off his coat, hastily wrapped it in a newspaper and took his place at the end of the line.

The Hippodrome entertained 1200 Portland boys and girls on Saturday, admission being limited to those who carried a bundle of clothing for donation to suffering Armenians. The 1200 tots, some of them in half socks and patent leather pumps, others without stockings of their own, carried considerably more than a ton of clothing into the theatre and the entire lot will be shipped to the New York assembling place and from there sent to the little folk of Armenia, who are denied the comforts of warm clothing since the war ravaged their home land.

A Charlie Chaplin film combined with a Lonesome Luke comedy to entertain those who donated to the clothing drive for the Armenians.

Cut in Production Of Baker Lumber Mills in Prospect

Baker, Oct. 11.—Baker's mills are storing 50 per cent of their lumber output in sheds, and unless the freight car shortage is relieved within a short time, all of the local managers say that they must cut their operations in half. A shed at the Oregon Lumber company's plant here collapsed through overloading and the whole plant was endangered by resulting damage to the sprinkling system. Both the Oregon and Baker white pine mills have a loading capacity of five cars a day, and the Eccles and Stoddard Lumber company plants can handle 10 cars a week each. All are receiving half their car orders, and no promise of relief by the railroad is made.

Cases Questioning Validity of Street Work to Be Heard

Ashland, Oct. 11.—The cases of H. L. White and Sarah Patterson against the city of Ashland are scheduled to come before the supreme court at Salem some time this month. These cases involve the settlement of the question of pavement on East Main and North Main streets as to whether the county road was ever dedicated as a city street. Portlanders Are Entertained Ashland, Oct. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beaver of Portland were guests at a family party given in Lithia park Tuesday. New Superintendent Visits Ashland, Oct. 11.—Rev. S. A. Danford, new superintendent of the Klammath district of the Methodist church, is visiting in Ashland.
