

OTHER PICKETING DISPUTES ARE YET TO BE PASSED ON

Order Against Jewelry Workers' Union So Worded It Does Not Affect Other Similar Cases.

JUDGE GATENS DISSENTS

Judge Kavanaugh, While Concurring With Stapleton, Holds Peaceful Picketing Possible.

Wide divergence in the opinions handed down Saturday by the three Multnomah county circuit court judges, sitting en banc, in the suit in which an injunction was granted restraining the picketing of local jewelry firms by members of the Jewelry Workers' union, has dissipated the hope that the solution of this case might be used to settle other picketing suits pending before the circuit court.

Although Judge J. P. Kavanaugh concurred in the stand taken in this case by Judge George Stapleton and held that the picketing had been unlawful and should therefore be enjoined, he concluded, at the same time, that it might have been possible to put a different construction on the same acts in another case and to have held differently. In other words, what constituted unlawful picketing against jewelers might not be considered in the same light against other business houses, differently situated.

JUDGE STAPLETON DIFFERS

Judge Stapleton, on the contrary, expressed himself as of the opinion that all picketing was unlawful and that it could not be interpreted as being peaceful in any case. This amounts to an invalidation of the Oregon statutes prohibiting injunctions in cases of peaceful picketing.

Judge William Gatens, in a dissenting opinion, held that peaceful picketing was perfectly feasible and had been recognized by the courts of several states, where it had not been accompanied by threats or intimidation on the part of the picketers. Holding that in the present case there was no evidence of threats or intimidation, he upheld the picketing statute and refused concurrence in granting the injunction.

OTHER SUITS NECESSARY

Judge Kavanaugh's decision, however, that the same facts in different cases could be interpreted oppositely raises an issue which will cause every suit for an injunction to be heard separately upon its merits.

Judge Kavanaugh's decision in part reads as follows:

"These stores sustained substantial financial loss by reason of the picketing, and directly attributable to the practice.

"That loss is irreparable. That loss cannot be repaired by the people who did the picketing or by those who ordered the picketing, because the evidence discloses that they are not financially able to restore to the stores the actual loss sustained.

PICKETING NOT PEACEFUL

"So, gentlemen, I am of the opinion that in this case, considering the place in which it was conducted and the result attained and sought to be attained, that it cannot be any reasonable definition be declared to be peaceful picketing, if peaceful picketing is possible. I do not intend here to exclude any possible trade dispute and some other form that the trade organizations may adopt, and to that extent I do not intend to declare against all forms of picketing or all forms of picketing as that may be later defined, because even picketing is often defined in accordance with the circumstances of a particular case, and picketing, like anything else, would be a good deal what the parties make it. Then I can realize that different kinds of business stand in a very different relation.

"But considering the entire situation here, my opinion is that this is not peaceful picketing.

"Therefore, my opinion is, speaking for myself, on these grounds, that I can see no alternative except to grant the prayer of the petition in this case."

JUDGE GATENS' OPINION

In the dissenting opinion rendered by Judge Gatens, the court said:

"The only question before this court is to determine whether picketing, when accompanied by threats and intimidation, is unlawful.

"This suit was tried out upon that issue. The adverse party in the picketing parties in their closing arguments asked that that question be answered yes or no. This question is of too great an importance to receive an evasive answer. The principal thing to be determined

LOGGING METHODS SURPRISE VISITORS

Deschutes Operations Are Revelation to Lumbermen Accustomed to Coast.

Bend, Oct. 11.—One hundred and fifty excursionists from the Pacific Logging congress, which has been in session in Portland, rode through the river valley today, visiting the main logging camps of the Shevlin-Hixon company and the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company of this city.

Arriving by special train early this morning, the loggers were taken to various hotels, where they were fed. Later they rode about the city and then began their 75-mile tour of the timber belt south of Bend. The four first included a side through the logged off timber section and last through the standing timber region, west of the Deschutes river.

They arrived at the ranch of John E. Ryan about noon, where the entire delegation was treated to a big feed, prepared under the direction of the mill company. The first camp visited was camp No. 10 of the Shevlin-Hixon company, which is at the height of its logging operations. Here the visitors were given a comprehensive understanding of the logging operations as conducted in Central Oregon, with the latest improved machinery for skidding and loading.

To many of the lumbermen the operations are new, most of them coming from the western slope timber belt, where logging is more difficult to carry on. The lumbermen, for the most part, were surprised to find the conditions so favorable for handling logs.

From the camps of the Shevlin-Hixon company the visitors were taken to the east side of the Deschutes river, where the logging operations of the Brooks-Scanlon company are conducted under different conditions. The Brooks-Scanlon company logs with the Wisconsin wheels and all uses automatic loaders.

In addition to witnessing the operation, the new track layer and lifter received here today was put into operation and a demonstration of its efficiency in laying steel track was given. The quarters occupied by the men in the woods of both companies, considered by sanitary experts to be among the best to be found in the country, were also visited.

The visitors were guests of the Bend Commercial club and the officials of the mills company of this city. The visit under the auspices of this city. The visit in Bend ended at 3 o'clock this evening, when the delegates left for Portland.

Nation Will Adopt Uniform Standard Traffic Regulations

Harry F. Coffin, secretary of the local safety first commission, returned to Portland Saturday from the national convention at Cleveland, Ohio.

Coffin was elected chairman of the committee to study standardization of traffic signs throughout the country and also the standardization of signals given by traffic officers in large cities.

Lieutenant Lewis of the traffic department was appointed on the committee to prepare a standard set of traffic rules for the entire nation. When these two things are brought about an automobile driver may travel from New York to Portland and know that he is obeying the laws in every state through which he passes if he is obeying the laws of his own state.

Lecture on "Ded"

"Ded" will be the subject of a lecture to be given in the auditorium of the Portland Y. M. C. A. Sunday night at 8 o'clock by Gordon J. Taylor, newspaper man and humorist, of Molalla, Or. Mr. Taylor gave this serio-humorous talk to hundreds of thousands of doughboys in France and Germany under the auspices of the I. W. W. and has stacks of letters from officers and men complimenting him on it.

BIG LUMBER MILL GOES UP IN BENTON

Five Lumber Camps, Logging Railroad Under Construction; Small City Planned.

Corvallis, Oct. 11.—Five lumber camps, with 50 men in each camp, doing construction work, and the number being increased as rapidly as men can be secured, a right of way purchased and a railroad under construction, is the story of activity at Glenbrook, in South Benton county.

An eastern concern, with headquarters in Eugene, sent surveyors to the scene less than two months ago and, following the survey, bought the right of way through the farms in that section. Between seven and eight miles of road will be completed at the earliest date possible and a mill pond, covering 17 acres, is now being constructed. The waterpower is furnished by a mountain stream, and the mill will be run by electricity. Machinery valued at $400,000 is to be installed and 40 houses are under contract for construction.

At some future day the railroad will be built through to Waldport, in Lincoln county, and the big timbers of the coast forests will be shipped out.

Promoters of the new enterprise say Glenbrook will be modern with electric lights, pure mountain water, and a schoolhouse built to accommodate 200 pupils, with the building as a community center, where entertainment will be provided for the mill employees and their families.

In conjunction with the sawmill there, a box and lath factory is to be built. Giant trees are already falling and blasting is going on.

Carl Wahlstrom Improving

Carl Wahlstrom, seriously injured Friday evening in an automobile accident at Thirty-fourth and Lincoln streets, was reported to be improving Saturday at St. Vincent hospital. Physicians are not certain as to the seriousness of his injuries, but stated that he is far from being out of danger. Wahlstrom resides at 187 East Lincoln street. He has a bad gash over one eye, his throat is cut and an injury to his head may be a slight fracture of the skull.

Little Boy Runs in Front of Auto and Is Seriously Injured

The thirty-eighth accident to be reported to the police Saturday was a very serious one. It happened at 8:30 p. m. at Corbett and Abernathy streets, when C. D. Eddy of 1231 Corbett street, struck 6-year-old Robert J. Harringer of 913 Corbett street, with his automobile. At good Samaritan hospital, where he was taken by the Ambulance Service company, little Robert is reported to have a fractured skull, fractured leg, fractured arm and fractured jaw. In his report to the police Eddy states that Robert ran out into the street directly in front of his machine. The automobile passed over the boy's body.

When a motorman on a one-man Irvington car is said to have been watching the crowds at the army store Saturday afternoon, he ran his car into an automobile in charge of Oscar Hatton of 288 East Thirty-first street. The machine, which was now, was badly damaged. The accident was at Fifth and Pine streets.

Monarch MALLEABLE The Stay Satisfactory Range

—Being riveted tight (no bolts), there's no possible chance for air to get in or heat to get out—the entire regulation is controlled by the Monarch Duplex Drafts. These drafts are at front and back of range underneath the firebox. Fire must and does burn in the center of firebox, thus forcing an equal distribution of heat over, around and underneath the oven.

—Then, too, Monarch Ranges are Vitreous Enamel Lined. Of course, this lining has nothing to do with the baking, but it does have effect on rust. The natural dampness from fuel cannot penetrate Vitreous Enamel—thus the life of Monarch Ranges has actually been doubled.

—You can get Monarch Ranges with four and six-hole tops and 15, 17, 19, 21-inch ovens, in either leg or cabinet-base styles. Tops are all Blue Mircro (no blacking needed). Nickel trimmings are all plain (no grease-catching scrolls). Any size Monarch Gas Attachment will fit any size Monarch Range.
