

PULP MAKING IS BECOMING LARGE ALASKAN INDUSTRY

High Cost of Wood Causes Eastern States to Turn to Northern Country, Says Forester.

TERRITORY ATTRACTS MANY Newcomers Seek Locations for Farming, Dairying and Stock-Raising; Fox Culture Popular.

Paper pulp manufacture shows indications of becoming one of the big industries of Alaska, claims E. F. Heinzelman, for two years deputy supervisor of the Tongass and Chugach national forests, with headquarters at Ketchikan, who has become identified with the district forester's office in the branch of timber sales.

"Much interest was shown in the last year in the proposed development of the paper pulp business," said Heinzelman, "and the forest service has been getting information on the available water power and timber resources necessary for this industry. The rising cost of pulp wood in the Eastern states, where the paper business is now centered, has caused mill operators to look to Alaska as a future location for mills, because of an abundance of cheap timber of suitable species and immense water power."

HUGE SALMON OUTPUT

"Our work at present," said Heinzelman, "consists largely of selling timber that is used for piling for fish traps and for salmon cases. Alaska produces 7,000,000 cases of salmon a year and this requires an immense amount of timber."

"Southern Alaska is now booming because of the high price of salmon. The recent mining strike at the head of Portland canal on the boundary between British Columbia and Alaska has caused quite a stampede to this place. Mining men who have examined the region claim it promises to be one of the best mining claims ever developed in Alaska."

INFUX OF NEWCOMERS

"Since the war Alaska has had an enormous influx of people who intend making the territory their permanent residence. Many of these are seeking business locations, but a good percentage are looking for homesteads for farming, dairying and stock raising."

FOX INDUSTRY GROWS

"One industry that is developing very rapidly is fox farming, and with the extraordinary high prices now being obtained for furs, this industry is proving highly profitable. The usual practice is to lease a small island from the government and stock it with 12 or more pairs of foxes. Dried skin, which can be secured cheaply is used for lining the cages, and the foxes multiply rapidly, litters of from four to five being quite common. The work usually is handled by two or three men as partners. The blue fox is the most commonly raised."

Auto Accessories Stolen While Car Owners Are Away

Petty thieves devoted their time to automobiles Monday night. Samuel R. Maffett of the Portland Rowing club reported a suitcase stolen from his machine, which was parked at Tenth and Alder streets.

A. J. Sherrill of 40 First street, who parked his machine at Park and Oak streets about 6 p. m. Monday, reports the loss of the speedometer and clock.

H. A. Prosser of 365 Stark street had a similar experience on the Linton road. While away from his machine a thief removed a spotlight, motometer and radiator cap.

Edith A. Potter of 207 1/2 Fourth street, reported to the police Monday that her room had been entered three weeks ago, and a watch stolen.

Charles W. Stone Is Dead, Aged 71; Funeral Conducted

Charles W. Stone, aged 71, died Monday in this city. He was the father of Norris B. Stone of Portland and Mrs. Curtis Garratt of St. Joseph, Mo. There are five grandchildren. His wife died here about 18 months ago. Stone's health had failed him during the past six months. Funeral services were held at the chapel of the Chambers company, 248 Killingsworth avenue, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. W. B. Hinson officiating, and final services were at Rose City cemetery. Stone was engaged in the commission business in St. Joseph, Mo., for many years, and was well known there. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World and of the Court of Honor in that city.

J. N. Matheny

J. N. Matheny died in this city Monday at the age of 67. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Matheny, three children and several grandchildren. The children are: A. E. Matheny and Mrs. Roxie M. Moore of this city, and E. T. Matheny of Tacoma. Matheny was born in an ox-wagon en route to the Oregon country, August 11, 1852. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Matheny, had started from Kentucky the year before. Funeral services were held at the Dunning & McEntee parlors, Broadway and Ankeny street, today, at 2 p. m., and burial was at Multnomah cemetery.

Fritz Matthias

Fritz Matthias, pioneer dairyman of Holbrook, Or., died Monday at the age of 77. He was born in Germany, but had resided at Holbrook and in that vicinity for over 40 years. Two sons, William and Carl Matthias, reside at Holbrook, and one son, Fritz Matthias Jr., resides in this city. Funeral services were held at the chapel of J. P. Finley & Sons today, at 1 p. m. Rev. A. Krause officiating, and final services were in Lone Fir cemetery.

Women Testify They Cannot Live Properly On a Wage of $18.50

Women employed in Portland bookbinderies declare that it is impossible to live properly on $18.50 per week. A number of employes working at the wage testified Tuesday night before the arbitration board handling the controversy between commercial printers and their employes.

Testimony was also presented to show that pressmen engaged in the operation of platen presses are entitled to much compensation as those who operate cylinder presses. F. S. Dietrich handled the case of the allied printing trades unions and M. J. Sweeny talked for the employing printers' association.

The unions ask one dollar an hour for all branches of work in the printing industry and 42 working hours a week. Franklin T. Griffith is chairman of the arbitration board.

Laundry Picketing Keeps On; Efforts For Truce Failure

Picketing of the laundries by the union of laundry workers goes merrily on, a "little worse, if anything," observed Roscoe C. Nelson, attorney for the laundry owners in a statement Tuesday morning.

An effort has been made by the attorney for the workers, W. S. U'Ren, and Nelson to arrive at some verbal agreement whereby each side would be assured of its rights pending the appeal of the jewelry workers' case on the issue of whether picketing is to be permitted.

No agreement has been signed, however, and no truce agreed upon. An effort will be made by both attorneys to secure from the court a modified form of injunction which will regulate the matter pending the decision of the supreme court. Also an effort will be made by all parties to secure an advancement of the case on the docket of the supreme court.

Oregon Racer Third To Reach Presidio

Lieutenant Alexander Pearson Jr., third racing aviator to reach San Francisco, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pearson, 734 East Main street. He was a senior at the University of Oregon when war was declared, and immediately went to the Presidio of San Francisco, where he obtained his commission. However, because he was only 21, he jumped into aviation from the infantry and attended ground school at Berkeley, Cal., later being stationed in Texas, in Ohio, Florida and California. Mrs. Pearson received a telegram from her son Monday night, stating that he had arrived in San Francisco safely. His father is an employe of the O-W. R. & N. Co.

PUBLIC MARKET HEARING LIKELY

Mayor Plans Action in Case Charges Against Administration Are Full Borne Out.

"If the sweeping charges levied against the administration of the public market are borne out upon rigid investigation the entire matter will be thrown open to a public hearing," said Mayor Baker at the close of Monday afternoon's three-hour discussion in the mayor's office between the housewives committee and the city council.

Every conceivable angle of the public market situation and its administration was brought to light in the discussion. The housewives committee, headed by Mrs. F. O. Northup, considered, one by one, suggested changes in the present ordinance, talked them over pro and con with the council, and jointly worked out an amended ordinance that will be drawn up by Deputy District Attorney Stanley Myers for presentation to the council. It is to be pointed out, if verified on investigation, directed at the market under the administration of Commissioner Bigelow and Market Master Eastman by the housewives committee that the public will be allowed to listen.

MORE SPACE PROMISED

All were agreed that the present space allotted to the market was insufficient to accommodate the producers. Commissioner Bigelow asserted that he was securing figures on the cost of obtaining an additional 100 foot frontage on both sides of Yamhill street, approaching Fifth street. It was brought out that from 25 to 40 more stalls could be constructed at an approximate expenditure of $4000.

Agreement on amended sections of the present ordinance was reached between the council and the housewives committee on the following points: One agent shall represent but one grower. At present a single agent may represent growers. The market shall close daily at 2 p. m., except Saturday, when the closing hour will be 6 p. m. Agreements between agents and producers must be filed with the market-master. Storage eggs may be sold but must be so marked. Flowers may be sold every day save Saturday and days prior to holidays.

—Velveteen is enjoying marked favor, particularly when it interprets the autumn mode in rich shades of Maxfield Parrish blue, violet, mole-brown and the ever fashionable black. The chief charm of this youth-imparting fabric lies, perhaps, in its adaptability to smart line simplicity.

Frocks For Afternoon, Street or Theater Wear

For a Lower Price Than You Could Have Them Made

—Frocks that are at once so simple and so elegant that they are in exquisite taste for formal afternoon and informal evening wear are bound to be tremendously popular—and these certainly prove the rule.

—These enchanting tea, dinner and theatre dresses are varied indeed as to style—one model is particularly stunning with its straight line tunic; another whose blouse is cleverly draped has a quite straight skirt and satin bands for trimming.

Others have fanciful vestee arrangements, belts, quaint collars—or are entirely collarless.

THEY ARE ALTOGETHER LOVELY.
