Charming in its truly Irish atmosphere was the initial dance and card party given on Wednesday evening by the Robert Emmet branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Woodman of the World hall. There were cards for those who enjoy that game. Irish melodies floated through the rooms, which made the hearts of Erin's children bound with joy and the "Irish republic" colors were everywhere. Long streamers of the green, white and orange alongside of the red, white and blue were tastefully entwined from the ceiling, making a canopy in the center of the room under which a large Irish republic flag hung, making a beautiful setting with the American flag on the platform. Autumn leaves were banked here and there with one large bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums filled in with green foliage completing the decorations. An orchestra played music for dancing which was enjoyed by about 200 guests. At the close of the evening the branch officers were besieged with requests for another social evening in the near future, which resulted in the announcement that the second social of the Robert Emmet branch will be held about the middle of November.
