

EXCELLENT MUSICAL PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR SHRINER SHOW

Al Kader Patrol to Have Dignified Part in Helping Alcazar Players.

"Dignified" is the word that Chairman Herman Von Borstel uses in describing what Al Kader Patrol of Shriners will do to help along the appearance of the Alcazar players in "Tell it to Jane," October 28, 29 and 30, when the musical comedy is to have the patronage of the Shriners of Portland.

Among Shriners that is taken to mean that the famous chanters of the temple will put over one of the very finest programs, and that the dancers will put out most of the wriggles and show the ability they possess to do imitations of regular American girls.

That is, all of them will except Noble Sid G. Niles, the chubby little lady of the baron, and G. E. Sanderson, who star at public performances. Niles and Sanderson are to be featured in a number of Egyptian characters and the rumor is that they are worrying the life out of half a dozen tailors making their costumes to be rich and beautiful—and fit where an Egyptian dress ought to fit.

During the performance the 18 famous chanters of Al Kader temple will appear in the play and will also put on an excellent musical program between acts. They are to be directed by William R. Boone.

Thief With Ancient Nag Easily Escapes With Stolen Pigs

If the pigs squeal, woe be unto the thief. About five tons of pigs were stolen from the Hesse-Martin Iron Works Friday night by someone with an old hobbin and cart. When hobbin crossed the plank walk leading from the iron yards he scoured the planks a bit, indicating that the wagon was heavily loaded and that he had a hard time pulling it along. Motorcycle Officers Horack, Van Deussen and Russel followed the wagon tracks in the pavement for many blocks. Fifteen tires were stolen Friday night from the Perkins & Sevier service station at 374 Hawthorne avenue. The thieves used an automobile in which to carry away their loot. The same officers are investigating.

Former Director of U.S. Emergency Fleet Corporation in City

Charles Piez, late director general of the Emergency Fleet corporation, now back in his former position as president of the Link Belt company of Chicago, with A. Kaufmann, vice president of the same concern, were Portland on a business trip Saturday and Sunday. They are at the Benson hotel. "Just here on purely private matters," Piez explained Saturday. "My associate and I are visiting the branch plants of the Link Belt company, and will go to San Francisco and Los Angeles, leaving here Sunday. As I haven't been with the fleet corporation for some time, it hardly behoves me to say anything about it. As one interested very much in it, however, I am very sorry to see its dissolution impending."

MORITZ FORTUNE IN GERMANY DWINDLES DURING WORLD WAR

Inheritance Left Portland Man Fades From $12,500 to One Fourth That.

After 36 years' absence from his native land, 39 years of which he was an American citizen, Fritz Moritz will leave today for Germany, there to claim an inheritance which, before the war, amounted to $12,500, but owing to the depreciation of the German mark has faded to $2500. The death of Moritz' uncle in 1913 and the passing of the sister of Mrs. Moritz the same year, caused the Moritz' to inherit $12,500. Mrs. Moritz died in 1917. The money has been deposited in a government bank in Germany since 1914. During the war the mark so depreciated in value that Moritz does not expect to get more than $2500 of the original sum that he inherited.

The German government refused to send me the money," Moritz declares. "I tried to get it time and again. The war lowered the mark to four fifths its original purchasing power." Absence of United States consular agents in Germany kept Moritz from getting his passports to Marne in Holstein. His papers sent to him by the state department from Washington, D. C., will take him to Copenhagen, Denmark. He leaves New York on October 29 on the steamer Hellig Olav. From Denmark he will "feel" his way to Germany.

Local Airplane Line Will Be Ready for Business in 10 Days

With five airplanes already in Portland, one pilot actively aiding in organization and three others on their way from the East, the Oregon, Washington & Idaho Airplane company will begin operations within the next 10 days. Leading Portland business men have incorporated the concern at $200,000. The proposed title of Pacific Air Line company has been dropped, as not properly indicative of the concern's activities. Chester G. Murphy, attorney for the company, Saturday made the following announcement on his return from the East: "We have received in Portland two Seagulls and three J.N.D. models. The Seagulls are water boats, while the J.N.D.s are land planes. One Seagull is now set up and ready for public inspection at the Covey company salesrooms."
